CITY CUTS WAGES $2,400,000

NEW SLUMP HITS GERMANY; PARIS BALKS ON LOAN

Insists on Political Strings to Any Aid.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, July 10.—A spirit of depression again settled over Germany today with news from Paris that the French have turned a cold ear to Dr. Luther's plea for a loan unless Germany grants political guarantees. Dr. Luther is not empowered to carry on political negotiations, so he will return to Berlin and lay the French terms before the cabinet for its decision. Luther will arrive here tomorrow.

HANS LUTHER.

The uncertainty today caused a further weakening of the bourse. The continued withdrawal of credits by private foreign banks has exhausted the balance of $50,000,000 American collateral credit which was granted to the Gold Discount Bank. Financial circles predict that unless the Reichsbank quickly obtains additional credit, a reduction of the note covering limit must be imposed. Today's demands for foreign currencies were heavy, totaling 12,000,000.

Stock Takes a Slump.

The spirit of depression was also clearly indicated by the mark, which is expected to well below its fixed gold value.

Serious apprehensions were felt that the political situation may result in a political upheaval. The communist and Fascist opposition is planning to overthrow the government. Republican authorities throughout the country are taking energetic precautionary measures. Bavaria has prohibited open air demonstrations and the wearing of party uniforms.

Sixteen persons were injured today in an exchange of revolver shots between Fascists and political opponents who raided a Fascist meeting in Bavaria. Prince August Wilhelm, the former kaiser's favorite son, was addressing the meeting. He escaped unhurt.

FRENCH TURN COLD EAR

BY HENRY WALES,
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, July 10.—With the German mark dropping below its fixed gold value on the Paris bourse and news from Germany that one of the biggest banks in Berlin is on the verge of failure, Dr. Hans Luther, president of the Reichsbank, today launched a definite drive for a French loan, which is to be met with demands for political guarantees which he could not give.

In consequence, his conversations with French bankers and officials were not beyond generalities, and Dr. Luther is returning to Berlin tomorrow to lay before the German government the drastic terms on which France is willing to open negotiations.

Dr. Luther spent the entire day in conference with French bankers and officials, including Clement Moret, governor of the Bank of France; Premier Minister Flandin, Emile Moreau, president of the important Banque de Paris et des Pay Bas, and Premier Laval.

The French Conditions.

The conditions on which France is willing to grant a loan are understood to be as follows:

1. Immediate abandonment of the Austro-German customs pact.
2. Extension of the pledge already given not to increase the military and naval budget during the moratorium to cover the whole of twelve years that is allowed Germany to catch up on her payments.
3. Opening of negotiations for a new commercial treaty. The French consider at present one unfavorable to them.
4. Possible restriction of credits by the Reichsbank.

What Luther Seeks.

The ultimate goal of Dr. Luther is stated in French circles to be:

A total loan of one billion dollars. He wants an immediate renewal and, if possible, an increase of the $100,000,000 credit granted by the German reserve bank, the Bank of England, the Bank of France, and the Swiss bank on July 1.

An advance of about $130,000,000 on the anticipated moratorium relief,

Reapportionment of the city's fifty wards, bringing about a general equalization of voting strength and population, was accomplished yesterday when the city council adopted a redistricting ordinance by a vote of 44 to 3. The ordinance will go into effect immediately.

Coincident with approval of the new map, the council unanimously adopted a resolution providing for another redistricting in six years. Under the state law, the city is compelled to reapportion at least every ten years.

Last Reapportionment in 1921.

The last remapping of the city took place on July 22, 1921, when the fifty ward plan was adopted. During the intervening decade glaring inequalities developed as wards near the loop dwindled in population and outlying wards increased, with the result that 37 per cent of the population elected 53 per cent of the aldermen. The new map is intended to correct the inequalities.

Eight of the old wards, the 2d, 3d, 11th, 12th, 20th, 29th, 28th, and 32d, were consolidated by the redistricting to form four new wards, while the boundary lines of every ward in the city were shifted. The 43d ward, on the near north side, with 55,608 inhabitants, will be the smallest in the city in population while the 7th on the south side, with 88,584, will be the largest. The average population of each of the fifty new wards is 67,500.

Work For Months on Task.

Passage of the ordinance ended months of work by a committee headed by Ald. James B. Bowler [25th]. Using the 1930 census figures as a base, the committee carved out the new wards and then sought to satisfy conflicting racial, political, and business interests by minor changes. Up to the last few minutes before the ordinance went to the council the committee was besieged by politicians, and several adjustments were made just before the roll call in order to clinch the 41 votes required by statute for passage.

Negligible opposition to the ordinance was expressed on the floor of the council. Several aldermen protested changes in their wards but all except four voted affirmatively.

Those voting against the ordinance were Aldermen John P. Wilson [11th], Jeremiah P. Leahy [27th], and James B. Waller [43]. Ald. Frank E. Konkowski [31st] passed his vote. Absentees were Ald. Joseph H. Smith [32d] and Ald. Joseph C. Ross [40th]. All the other councilmen voted for the ordinance.

"We do not contend that this ordinance is perfect," Ald. Bowler told the council. "But it represents the best plan we could work out and it does do what it is intended to do. It wipes out the 'rotten boroughs' and gives fair representation to all parts of the city."

Will Serve Out Terms.

The remapping will not affect the sitting aldermen, who will fill out their two year terms. In some cases they will be representing territory from which they were not elected. At the next aldermanic election, councilmen will be elected from the new wards.

In the eight cases where wards were combined, with one exception, two sitting aldermen will be compelled to fight it out for a single seat. Ald. Louis B. Anderson [2d] and Ald. Robert R. Jackson [3d], the two colored aldermen, are thrown together in one ward but Ald. Jackson announced that he would solve the difficulty by moving his residence into the new 3d ward.

Other cases where two aldermen live in the same ward under the remapping are: Ald. Thomas A. Doyle [13th] and Ald. John P. Wilson [11th]; Ald. Frank Sloan [26th] and Ald. W. V. Pacelli [20th]; Ald. Joseph H. Smith [32d] and Ald. George D. Kells [28th]. Unless these aldermen move their homes, the voters will have to choose between them at the next election.

First Ward Is Extended.

One of the most important territorial changes made by the new map was extension of the 1st ward southward from the loop to 29th street and the gathering together of most of the colored population into the new 2d and 3d wards. Scattered Negro

Widely Known Architect Is Killed by Auto

Francis W. Fitzpatrick, 68 years old, consulting architect and internationally known as an authority on fire prevention, was fatally injured last night when he was struck by an automobile while walking across Hinman avenue at Clark street in Evanston. His home was at 1745 Chicago avenue, Evanston.

The automobile was driven by Dudley S. Young, 27 years old, of 1101 Columbia avenue, an engineer. Young was traveling north in Hinman avenue when Mr. Fitzpatrick, on foot, started from the west side of the street to the east. Young took him to the Evanston hospital, where he died several hours later. Young was held by Evanston police on a charge of involuntary manslaughter. His bond was set at $5,000.

Young Girl Killed.

An automobile containing seven Cicero boys and girls returning from a swimming party collided late last night with another car at 40th street and Harlem avenue, Lyons. Victoria Klucka, 17 years old, 2832 South Cicero avenue, was killed, and Frank Salerno, also 17, of 3042 48th court, was critically hurt. The others were cut. They are Charlotte Walsky, 17, 5215 30th place; her sister, Irene, 14; Thomas Grillo, 19, 2819 South 49th avenue; Samuel Salvino, 20, 2822 South Cicero avenue, and Salvatore Pratt, 16, 5042 West 29th place. Harry Pritchard, 41, of 4739 Diversey avenue, driver of the second car, was unhurt.

Year's Toll Reaches 593.

The deaths of Fitzpatrick, Miss Kucka, and three others increased the 1931 motor toll for Cook county to 593. The other victims:

Charles Schaffer, 60 years old, 4506 Oakenwald avenue. Died in the county hospital of injuries received Monday when he was struck by a hit and run motorist at Drexel boulevard and Bowen avenue.

Louis Common, colored, 30 years old, 417 West 56th street. Died in the county hospital of injuries received when he was struck by a hit and run motorist in front of 4500 Calumet avenue.

Clarence Gordon, colored, 42 years old, 5624 North Clark street. Died in the county hospital of injuries received Thursday when he was struck by a hit and run motorist in front of 3607 South State street.

Jesse Brown, 24 years old, 556 East 4th street, Lockport, and his sister, Gladys, 19 years old, were injured when the motorcycle on which they were riding crashed into the rear of a truck at Garfield boulevard and Damen avenue. They were taken to the Southwest General hospital. Philip Riley, 3347 South Carpenter street, driver of the truck, was not held.

Ten minutes after she had registered, Miss Gertrude Centanni, 23 years old, of 335 South Kilbourn avenue, leaped to her death late yesterday from her room on the seventh floor of the Brevoort hotel, 120 West Madison street.

She fell upon the roof of a two story building adjoining the hotel, and died shortly afterward while being taken to the Iroquois Memorial hospital. One witness to the fatal plunge was found. He is Henry Murdoch, a barber. He said Miss Centanni jumped from her window.

Neither Frank nor Mrs. Carmilla Centanni, parents of the girl, knew of any reason for her act. She had no love affairs, they said, and seemed attached to the home. She was regularly employed, but stayed home from work yesterday without giving any explanation.

Cermak Talks of Ocean Trip for His Health

Mayor Cermak, it was learned yesterday, is considering taking a trip to Europe this summer to rest after the grind of two successive elections and the strain that has been put upon him by close attention to the city's muddled affairs.

The mayor left last night for his summer home on Channel lake, where he has been spending week-ends. While there he will be examined by Dr. Frank Jirka, his son-in-law, and perhaps by other physicians to determine his physical condition. Whether the European trip will be made rests in part upon the medical verdict.

Call Rest Imperative.

Before assuming office in April the mayor went through a strenuous campaign, and before that he went through the campaign preceding his election as president of the county board. Since April he has given over practically all of his time to straightening out the city's financial affairs, which, in addition to the pressure of job seekers, has resulted in a nervous tension. Unless he takes a rest the physicians fear the mayor may have a serious breakdown.

"I have been considering a trip to Europe to rest," the mayor stated yesterday in reply to questions. "I haven't arrived at any decision yet and won't until the doctors determine what condition I am in."

Return for Special Session.

If the mayor should leave before a special session of the legislature is called he will return before the assembly convenes, it was said. He plans also to ask the council to adjourn for the summer until October instead of September, as a special meeting can be called at any time necessary.

Should he go to Europe the trip is expected to be different than his trip to Florida after election when he was seeking a rest. About 40 politicians accompanied him on the Florida trip, but none is expected to take the sea voyage if it materializes.

Greeter Gaw Meets World's Best Greetee

BY VIRGINIA GARDNER.

Greeter Gaw, serene in his immaculate makeup, including white pants and shoes, blue coat and panama, did not know, before the New York Central train bearing Mayor and Mrs. Baker arrived in the La Salle street station, what he was up against.

Greeter Prepares His Greeting.

He knew nothing about Mayor Baker, he told reporters, except that he was from Portland, the city of roses, and was to be shown every courtesy. He thought, he said, that he'd make some pleasant little allusion to the roses, and say something about kiddies, and then ask the guests if they wanted to wash up and go for a tour of the boulevards.

He did.

Mayor Baker, tall, stooping a little, with broad shoulders and sombre eyes beneath immense black eyebrows, stepped off the train. His luggage, bearing innumerable European stickers, for he and the Mrs. had remained to do Europe after their welcome in France, had preceded him.

Mr. Gaw Gets to Work.

"I," said Mr. Gaw, stepping forward, "represent his honor Mayor Cermak, who wanted to come himself, but was detained."

Mayor Baker bent upon Greeter Gaw a benevolent gaze.

"I want to extend to you this message," continued Mr. Gaw, with an equally tender gaze fixed on the mayor: "Go home and tell the kiddies of Portland that the kiddies and the grownups of Chicago send greetings."

For a minute Mayor Baker was taken aback. Just as he rallied and began talking in low, soothing tones about hospitality Mr. Gaw presented the Bakers with two new coins stamped with "Chicago, World's Fair, 1933." He continued:

"I was just going to suggest, sir, that if you and Mrs. Baker have nothing else to do in the two hours before you leave we would see Chicago's roses—her boulevards. I only wish that we might visit the stockyards, too."

A Slight Hitch Here.

But despite Mr. Gaw's beaming smile, something went wrong. Mayor Baker visibly stiffened. His black brows met. Then, the perfect guest, he smiled, though a little coldly.

"Boulevards? Why, certainly, we don't mind," said Mayor Baker. "Would you like to see their boulevards?" he asked, turning to his wife.

"I think it would be lovely," she said.

"You are sure," inquired Mayor Baker in even deeper tones, "that you aren't kidding me?"

At this Mr. Gaw almost wept.

"No, I'm really sincere," he said. "I have a car and a police escort ready."

"I was afraid of that," said Mayor Baker, becoming jovial as photographers pushed toward him, "afraid of the police, I mean."

"Better not use that," Mr. Gaw whispered to reporters. "Might be something to it. There's something funny about this fellow."

The Mayor Gets Started.

"Do you know how many miles of boulevards and how many acres of parks there are in Chicago?" Mr. Gaw began cheerily after the pictures.

"Yes," said Mayor Baker, "Judge Frank M. Padden told me all about them in France. Nice things, boulevards. Lovely boulevards all over Eu-

ALDERMEN VOTE 14 DAY SLASH FOR EMPLOYES

Warrants Signed for School Scrip.

The city council yesterday, by a 43 to 5 vote, passed the economy ordinance docking the city's 24,902 employes fourteen days' pay. The measure is expected to trim $2,400,000 off pay rolls by the end of the year.

Also during the day Mayor Cermak and City Controller Szymczak signed the tax warrants, totaling $5,250,000, which the school board plans to use as a basis for the issuance of scrip to be offered to payless employes and contractors.

The mayor, however, warned the school trustees in returning the warrants to them that there is doubt of the legality of the scrip plan. He said it is likely to result in loss to the school teachers who accept scrip in lieu of salaries, and in damage to the credit of both the school board and the city.

Five Vote Against Cut.

The city pay roll economy measure was passed by the council after an hour and a half of debate, which grew bitter at times. The dissenting votes were cast by Aldermen Wiley W. Mills [37th], Joseph C. Ross [40th], James C. Moreland [41st], William Feigenbutz [45th], and Oscar F. Nelson [46th].

Ald. Nelson, who led the attack on the ordinance, asserted that it was the wrong way to cure the deficit of $13,000,000 which the city faces in its 1931 budget. He urged that the city delay the pay roll economies until it had had a chance to appeal to a special session of the legislature for aid.

"You are talking to the city employes now," Ald. Jacob M. Arvey [24th] told Nelson. "I'm talking for the thousands of taxpayers who are losing their homes because of heavy governmental costs and taxation. If we don't pass this ordinance, we will have to fire 2,200 employes before the end of the year. This ordinance distributes the burden among all the employes."

Clark Tells Spending Limit.

Ald. John S. Clark [30th], chairman of the finance committee, pointed out that the council legally cannot spend more than the city's estimated revenue for the year.

Revenue, he said, will be $13,000,000 less than was estimated when the budget was adopted at the first of the year. Unless the city effects economies its employes will go payless in November and December, he warned.

The ordinance, as passed, embodied the terms agreed upon Thursday by Mayor Cermak and the members of the finance committee. Employes paid by the day will be laid off for a total of fourteen days, their working weeks being shortened by a day or a half day. Employes paid by the week or month will be docked a day's pay every week.

Included in the reduction are the 941 employes of the municipal tuberculosis sanitarium, the council adopting a resolution to apply the ordinance to them. The council also asked the library board to make a similar reduction in the pay of its 987 employes.

Myers Delays Issuing Scrip.

President Lewis E. Myers of the school board, when he received the mayor's letter on the scrip plan which accompanied the tax warrants, said he would seek further authority from the school trustees at their meeting Monday before proceeding to put the plan into effect. He was originally empowered to start issuing scrip as soon as the tax warrants were returned from the city hall.

In returning the warrants to Charles E. Gilbert, secretary of the school board and trustee of the scrip plan, Mayor Cermak wrote:

"The controller and the mayor are merely acting in a ministerial capacity in signing these tax warrants, and refuse to accept any further responsibility for the disposition of the warrants after delivering them to the secretary of the board of education.

Urges Full Investigation.

"The controller, however, does desire to call the board's attention to the fact that we have been reliably advised that if the board of education contemplates issuing scrip based on some trust fund that may be established from these warrants, such action should be taken only after the most exhaustive investigation as to the legal questions involved.

"This office has been advised by the corporation counsel that neither the city nor the board of education has the legal authority to issue any form of certificates of indebtedness other than full faith and credit bonds and warrants.

"If it is the board's intention to issue some new form of certificate of indebtedness to the employés and contractors, we believe that, in all fairness to such employés and contractors, the board should advise them of the fact that there is a serious question as to the validity of such certificates of indebtedness.

"It is also thought that the board of education will undoubtedly appreciate the fact that the distribution in small amounts of a legally doubtful form of security among many thousands of employés and contractors will undoubtedly depreciate the value of securities, both of the board of education and the city, through the impression left in the minds of buyers of city securities that the board of education is issuing certificates of indebtedness to employés, who will undoubtedly have to discount them."

County Treasurer McDonough conferred yesterday with his attorney, Thomas D. Nash, in an effort to find some method of paying part, at least, of the salary arrears of the 4,500 county employés who saw their second payless pay day pass Thursday. The conference was productive of no results, but the treasurer said the effort would be continued.

SWAMP REVIEWERS

Fifteen hundred taxpayers with complaints against their 1930 assessments overwhelmed a clerical force in offices of the board of review when the doors were thrown open at 9 a. m. yesterday. After a busy two hours, the long lines were shortened. More than 3,000 complaints were filed during the day.

The sudden onslaught of complainants was a surprise to Chief Clerk Andrew W. Gatenby and his staff. When the board of review announced that complaints would be heard in the ten day period between July 8 and July 18, a big rush was anticipated. The first day, however, was marked by only a few hundred complaints, and Thursday, the second day, saw only 1,500 complainants throughout the day.

Ready to Handle Crowds.

"The way they suddenly picked on today was astonishing," said Mr. Gatenby. "From now on we expect big crowds daily and we're ready to handle them."

Mr. Gatenby also announced that mailing of the 1930 personal property assessment lists would be begun today and that complaints on these assessments may be made throughout a ten day period beginning Monday. A total of 279,705 lists will be sent to taxpayers in the city and country towns.

An examination of the complaints showed that most of the taxpayers asserted their taxes were too high, without giving much reason beyond the statement that they wouldn't be able to pay tax bills based on such high valuations. The board of review has not yet announced when hearings on these complaints will be held.

Candidates Are Interviewed.

The board of assessors' citizens' advisory committee yesterday interviewed singly the nine surviving candidates for the position of chief director of appraisals left vacant by the ousting of Harry S. Cutmore.

Each candidate was questioned on his technical experience and former connections, and his judgment on the present conditions involving real estate. All the candidates voiced the opinion that real estate values must be lowered from 18 to 30 per cent when the 1931 quadriennial assessment is made.

Taxpayers are thus assured of lower assessments on their real property in the 1931 assessment. Whether this will mean lower tax bills depends upon the tax rate which is fixed.

The advisory committee announced that it will hold a session on Tuesday morning and will probably announce its choice for the Cutmore position at that time.

WM. A. JACKSON IS APPROVED FOR MAYOR'S CABINET

William A. Jackson, an electrical contractor with offices in the Civic Opera building, recommended for the post of commissioner of gas and electricity by the mayor's advisory committee, was confirmed in that post yesterday by the city council when the mayor transmitted his appointment to the aldermanic body.

The new commissioner in his private business specializes in power house and industrial plant power and light wiring. He was employed as an engineer in the department which he now heads from 1893 to 1904, when he entered the contracting business.

Other appointments of the mayor approved by the council were those of the Rev. Preston Bradley, pastor of the People's church, to another term on the library board, and of James F. Lynch, a stationary engineer; James Smith, a hoisting engineer, and Edmond J. Mahony to the board of examining engineers.

SAILOR NAPS AT SIDE OF VICTIM OF PARK SUICIDE

An unidentified man, about 50 years old and poorly dressed, with his throat and wrists slashed, was found dead early this morning on the east side of the Lincoln park lagoon on a line with Garfield avenue. A jackknife lay nearby, indicating suicide. The body was taken to Scanlon's morgue, 2337 North Clark street.

Discovery of the body was made by Henry Lawrence Jacobson, a sailor from Denmark, and Charles Bosler, 2138 North Halsted street, a park gardener. Jacobson earlier, believing the man was resting, asked him for a cigaret, and, getting no response, lay down alongside him and slept. Jacobson was awakened when Bosler set a lawn sprinkler near by. When the two noticed the other man failed to move they investigated and found him dead.

CITY COUNCIL GETS REVISED TRAFFIC CODE

A new traffic code for the city, revising the code adopted in 1926, was sent to the city council yesterday by the committee on traffic and safety of which Ald. John A. Massen [45th] is chairman.

The new code is principally a rearrangement of traffic regulations so that they will be applicable for park districts and other governmental bodies as well as the city.

A sub-committee headed by Ald. O. E. Northrup [19th] worked for months with the park boards, automobile clubs, Association of Commerce and other groups in preparing the code.

TEACHERS FIGHT ECONOMY THAT CROWDS PUPILS

Unite in Opposition to Larger Classes.

Unanimous opposition to the plan of the school board to reduce its expenditures by adding two pupils to each already overcrowded class and by lengthening the Christmas vacation was voiced yesterday by the representatives of 13,000 public school teachers. At a special meeting of the joint council of the five teacher unions, held in union headquarters at 506 South Wabash avenue, a resolution was adopted urging the board to reconsider its plan.

"The union teachers," said the resolution, "are unalterably opposed to the further crippling of the school system by enforcement of unwise economies in the department of education, such as overloading of classes and shortening of the school term, until the board has evidenced its good faith with the citizens of Chicago through the enactment of similar and equivalent economies in all other departments."

Call on Citizens for Support.

The resolution urged the teachers to call on citizens and civic leaders for support to save the school children from the "unwise economies." Copies of the resolution were sent to the members of the board, and a delegation of teachers will present their opposition verbally when the board meets again on Monday.

The teachers pointed out that while the board's economy plan calls for a saving of approximately $1,340,000 in the educational department, a reduction of only $24,760 has been announced in the business and administrative departments.

"Practically all of the past criticism," said Miss Agnes Clohesy, president of the elementary teachers, "has been directed at the business departments and the purveying of jobs to politicians."

Class Overloading Shown.

Reports of the National Educational association considered by the teachers show that Chicago is already far behind other large cities in providing an adequate teaching staff.

A consensus of 270 school superintendents favored classes of 32 in elementary schools, 31 in junior high schools and 26 in senior high schools. In 1930 Chicago had 46 pupils in elementary classes, 34 in junior high school and 29 in senior high school classes.

A survey by the association in 43 cities of more than 100,000 population showed that Chicago had the largest elementary school classes of all. The cities included in the survey and the mathematical number of pupils per elementary class are as follows:

City—	Pupils.	City—	Pupils.
Long Beach, Cal.	29.2	Boston, Mass.	37.7
Albany, N. Y.	31.8	Louisville, Ky.	37.8

James E. McDade, assistant superintendent of schools, who gave out the association's report, likewise expressed disapproval of increasing class sizes.

"I feel that the figures speak for themselves," he said. "Chicago's position can be readily seen as one of disadvantage and to increase the classes further would work a hardship on both the teacher and the pupil."

LEGAL FLAW IN VALLEE WEDDING BELLS REPORTED

New York, July 10.—[Special.]—Rudy Vallee's marriage on Monday at West Orange, N. J., to Fay Webb, movie actress, appeared under a cloud tonight.

Mayor Simson Rollinson of West Orange is investigating a report of irregularity in the issuance of the license which might invalidate the ceremony.

The New Jersey law requires application for a marriage license 72 hours prior to the ceremony, and both applicants must appear in person. The records show that Miss Webb and Vallee appeared in person on Friday and obtained the license.

The charge being investigated is to the effect that Miss Webb did not in fact arrive from California until Sunday, so that some one must have impersonated her in applying for the license.

COSTS OF CITY GOVERNMENT IN U. S. MOUNTING

Washington, D. C., July 10.—(AP)—The cost of governing American cities mounted $39,000,000 in 1929, driving the municipal debt 304 million upwards.

That is what the census bureau reported in making public today 1929 financial statistics for 250 cities having population of over 30,000. The total net municipal debt was $6,130,289,500, a 5 per cent increase over 1928 and over one-third the public debt of the federal government.

Municipal payments on costs of government, the bureau said, were two-thirds greater than similar payments on the government of the 48 states and "2.6 per cent less than those for the federal government for the fiscal year 1929."

URGES U. S. TAKE OVER BUILDING OF CALUMET HARBOR

Trade Group Suggests Plan to Port Board.

The suggestion that the best interests of future deep water shipping in the Chicago area would be served by the transfer of a portion of Lake Calumet from city to federal control was made yesterday by the Chicago Association of Commerce.

The association recommended to the Chicago regional port commission — recently formed by joint action of the Illinois and Indiana legislatures— that the government take jurisdiction of that part of the lake lying south of 122d street. The proposal has one contingent clause—that the United States engineering corps undertake improvement of the sector within five years.

"Sure Way to Get Harbor."

Months of study passed before representatives of the association, the city of Chicago and the Lake Calumet area decided that this should be done. They believe the program would "assure the Chicago district a harbor adequate to handle almost any type of shipping and capable of meeting all the demands that may follow the completion of the lakes-to-the-gulf and the St. Lawrence waterways."

The association also proposed that the city, "mindful of the moral obligations involved in its old contract with the Nickel Plate railroad, proceed with negotiations that would provide belt railroad service for the federally controlled zone of Lake Calumet, either by the Indiana Harbor Belt railroad or by the Chicago Belt railroad, or both, which belt railroad service would be available without additional switching charges for shippers over an intermediate connecting railroad."

Lack of City Resources Cited.

In transmitting the plan, the association said the city "is without immediate resources of its own to carry on an improvement and must, therefore, look to negotiations with other agencies. The proposal to turn the main channel of Lake Calumet over to the federal government does not interfere with the development of the balance of this body of water either directly by the city or by any other agency."

The regional port commission is composed of W. R. Dawes, John T. Pirie, Walter J. Riley of East Chicago, Floyd L. Bateman and E. M. Antrim. It is expected to meet to consider the proposal next week.

WHOLESALE GROCER ROBBED.

Three bandits held up Anton Bukowiecki and several of his employés in his wholesale grocery at 4446 South Ashland avenue yesterday and took $700 from him.

COUPLE TO ADOPT BABY BOY LEFT IN THEIR AUTO

Several days ago Mr. and Mrs. Gebhart Jaeger of 1706 East Broad street, Columbus, O., parked their automobile near the Edgewater Beach hotel and went in to dine.

When they returned to the car they found on the rear seat a squirming bundle. On examination the Jaegers found it was a boy baby, apparently a little less than a year old. Pinned to the blanket swathing the infant was a note:

"Although I love him very much, I can't take care of him any longer. If you do not want him, please do not put him in a foundling institution, but give him to some one who would like to have him."

Mr. and Mrs. Jaeger conferred. Then they drove back to Columbus. With them went the little stranger. Yesterday it was reported he had a whole room to himself and nurse. And best of all, Mr. Jaeger, who is president of the Jaeger Machine company, announced that probably he and his wife would adopt the baby soon. They have no children.

Clothing for 46,120 Needy Pupils Provided in Year

Clothing for 46,120 needy school children was provided by the School Children's Aid society during the last year, a letter from that organization informed Superintendent of Schools William J. groups, however, remain in the 4th, 5th, 6th, and 20th wards.

The "bloody 20th" ward, ruled by former City Collector Morris Eller, was lopped off on the south side with the result that it lost most of its colored and Irish-American population while retaining its Italian population almost intact. Efforts to bring about racial group unity also were made in other wards.

Politically the remapping apparently will have no effect. Four of the eight wards combined with other wards were represented by Republican aldermen and four by Democratic aldermen. Hence each party has an equal chance at the next election.

Harvey Boy, 12, Is Killed by Illinois Central Train

Vernon Spangler, 12 years old, was killed last night when he was struck by an Illinois Central electric train. The accident occurred in Harvey, near the boy's home at 195 East 155th street. Vernon was playing under a railroad platform when he ran out on the right of way and in front of the train.

Twenty persons were driven into the street early yesterday by a fire in the basement of a building at 1344 Independence boulevard. Damage amounted to only $500.

STONE STOLEN FROM GRAVE OF DICK BYRD'S DOG

Monroe, La., July 10.—[Special.]—The police tonight are investigating the mysterious disappearance of the monument unveiled yesterday in Forsythe parish in memory of Unalaska, the Byrd antarctic expedition dog. Early today the stone was stolen from its place at the head of the dog's grave in front of the American Legion home.

Officials of the Legion are coöperating with the police tonight. The monument, a rough block of Indiana limestone, weighs almost 1,000 pounds. Members of the Legion said that some opposition to the burial of the dog in the vicinity of the Legion home had been expressed at a meeting held last Monday night. Objection was raised, it was said, on the ground that the Legion property was dedicated to the memory of men who had fallen in the world war, and that under the circumstances the spot chosen was not appropriate.

The monument had been erected under the auspices of the school children of the city, and its disappearance called widespread indignation.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HAVANA, Cuba, July 10.—Col. Carlos Mendieta and former President Mario Menocal, the outstanding opposition leaders against President Gerardo Machado's administration, were charged today by Lieut. Calvo, chief of the detective bureau of the national police, with being the instigators of a terroristic attempt scheduled for Havana last night. Stores of arms, munitions, and bombs were confiscated today, following the arrest of more than 25 persons, including Dr. Irrizarri, a prominent Havana lawyer.

CALLS ON GIRL AND IS VICTIM OF GUNMAN'S BULLET

Attacked by an unidentified gunman, John Bending, 25 years old, of 2417 West 45th street, a machinist, was shot in the side and her early this morning and probably fatally wounded. His companion, Frank Keyes, 1610 West 72d place, who took him to the Holy Cross hospital, was struck in the eye with a flat blow.

Keyes told Policemen William Dooling and George Gore that he and Bending had called on Miss Mary Eklin, 501 West 46th street. She is a cousin of Keyes. They left for a short time and on their return learned Miss Eklin had departed. Keyes jokingly asked a woman in the house where Miss Eklin went, he said, and a young man suddenly rushed up to him. "You can't talk to my mother like that," he shouted and punched him. The next instant two shots were fired and Bending, who was standing nearby, fell.

HOOVER ASSAILS SHORT SELLING OF WHEAT IN PIT

Blames Speculators for Depressing Prices.

Lowest in 37 Years

President Hoover's denunciation of bear speculation yesterday was coincident with a drop of wheat for July delivery to 72¾ cents, the lowest in 37 years. Chicago grain men expressed surprise at the President's attack on "a limited number of speculators," stating that there was no evidence of improper or abnormal activity on the short side of the wheat market.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 10.—[Special.]—President Hoover today denounced speculators in the commodity exchanges, dealing particularly in wheat, who sell short in the interest of their own profit and by doing so depress prices, hinder the return of confidence, and rob the farmer of a just return.

"It has come to my knowledge that certain persons are selling short in our commodity markets, particularly in wheat," the President said. "These transactions have been continuous over the past month. I do not refer to the ordinary hedging transactions, which are a sound part of our marketing system. I do not refer to the legitimate grain trade. I refer to a limited number of speculators. I am not expressing any views upon economics of short selling in normal times.

Deprived of Rightful Income.

"But in these times this activity has a public interest. It has but one purpose and that is to depress prices. It tends to destroy returning public confidence. The intent is to take a profit from the losses of other people. Even though the effect may be temporary it deprives many farmers of their rightful income.

"If these gentlemen have that sense of patriotism which outruns immediate profit and a desire to see the country recover, they will close up these transactions and desist from their manipulations."

The confidence imposed upon him by law as a public official," he declared in his statement, did not permit him to expose the speculators' names to the public. Then he added extemporaneously, "Otherwise I should be very glad to do so."

Disappointed in Upturn.

Report has it that the President has been disappointed in the upturn, not only in the commodity markets, but also in the stock markets, which he had looked for as the result of the successful agreement upon his proposal for a suspension of debt and reparations payments.

Despite a general upward trend in stock prices during the last six weeks, the bears have continued active. A: 1 the President's denunciation of short selling in the wheat pits indicates that he is aware that there is more behind the continued slipping of wheat prices than a simple reaction to the farm board's statement of July 1 or to news such as was contained in today's crop report of the department of agriculture indicating that this year's wheat production would be as large or even larger than last year's.

The crop report also specifically illustrated one of the reasons given by the farm board for its recent refusal to promise that it would lock up its wheat holdings for a specified period. The reason was that such an announcement probably would push up prices for an immediate but temporary period, thus benefiting the winter wheat growers whose crop now is moving into the market and who are the very farmers who refused the board's advice and increased their acreage instead of cutting it down.

Wheat Acreage to Fall Short.

The crop report showed that while the total wheat acreage this year probably will fall about 4.7 per cent below last year, the decrease is due entirely to a cut of 19.2 per cent in land sown to spring wheat and despite an increase of 3 per cent in winter wheat acreage.

"The production of wheat in 1931 is now indicated at 869,012,000 bushels, compared with 863,430,000 bushels harvested in 1930," the report stated. "In this total the winter wheat crop is estimated at 712,611,000 bushels, compared with 612,268,000 bushels last year; durum wheat 32,220,000 bushels, compared with 57,105,000 bushels last year and other spring wheat at 124,[illegible] bushels, compared with 194,[illegible] bushels in 1930. The combined production of durum and other spring wheat in 1931 promises a proportion of only 156,402,000 bushels, compared with 251,162,000 bushels in 1930."

World Crop of Wheat.

More optimistic from the point of view of the domestic grower were estimates that foreign wheat production outside of Russia and China might be about 265 million bushels, or 7 per cent less than last year. The Canadian crop may be reduced as much as 173 million bushels below last year's production of 398 million bushels, the report stated.

DENIAL BY GRAIN MEN

President James C. Murray of the Chicago Board of Trade yesterday asserted that he knew of no excessive trading recently on the short side of the wheat market. Gossip in the trade itself was to the effect that instead of the speculative element taking advantage of present opportunities to depress the price further, the shorts have been buying heavily in the last few days.

One speculator alone is credited with buying five million bushels of wheat on Thursday and yesterday. This trader had been short. He was, however, reported to be long millions of bushels of corn, which has slumped in price, and what profits he took yesterday by buying wheat are believed to have been balanced by his losses in corn.

Board of Trade Sales Light.

As a matter of fact, sales have not been heavy in wheat during recent days. As an example, volume yesterday on the Board of Trade floor was twenty-five million bushels, as against forty-four million bushels a year ago.

Short sales made in the last two days, according to report, come mostly from the so-called legitimate handlers of wheat. As they purchase the cash grain in the harvest regions of the southwest they sell futures, in order that they may avoid speculative losses. Informed opinion held yesterday that if it had not been for the covering, or heavy buying by those who had been short, this regular hedging operation might have driven the price in Chicago below 50 cents a bushel.

Huge Crop in Southwest.

The southwest this year has an enormous crop, at least thirty million bushels larger than the 307,000,000 bushels in 1930. This fact, combined with the additional estimate that the United States and Canada alone have a prospective surplus equal to 75 per cent of the entire import requirements of the whole world, is a natural bearish factor.

Tragedy, naturally, stalks for farmers when wheat prices reach the low levels of the present. In points in Oklahoma it was reported some farmers had to take 24 to 25 cents a bushel for their grain. July wheat in Chicago sold as low as 52¾ cents, the lowest since 1894. Complaints are being made that the southwestern producers are getting less than half the cost of producing wheat at present quotations.

GEN. ABEL DAVIS MADE MEMBER OF MEDAL MEN

Brig. Gen. Abel Davis, chairman of the board of the Chicago Title and Trust company, was honored yesterday by the Combat Medal Men's association, which presented him with an engraved card entitling him to membership in the organization. In order to belong, ex-service men must have been decorated with the Distinguished Service Cross or the Congressional Medal of Honor. Gen. Davis holds both the cross and the distinguished service medal.

The presentation was made in his office in the Title and Trust building by Leon M. Hanna, president of the association. In welcoming him to active membership, Mr. Hanna pointed to the language of the Davis citations, one of which reads:

"Near Consenvoye, France, on Oct. 9, 1918, upon reaching its objective after a difficult advance involving two changes of direction, his [Col. Davis'] regiment was subjected to a determined enemy counter attack. Disregarding the heavy shell and machine gun fire, Col. Davis personally assumed command and by his fearless leadership and courage the enemy was driven back."

100 Vote to Seek Shutdown of Oklahoma Oil Wells

Oklahoma City, July 10.—(AP)—More than 100 operators and royalty owners of the Oklahoma City oil field voted late today to petition Gov. HEARINGS BEGUN IN SUIT TO TEST TRANSIT MERGER

Validity of Laws Is Point at Issue.

Hearings on the quo warranto proceedings to test the validity of the five laws passed by the 1929 legislature to enable Chicago to grant a terminable permit to a consolidated transportation company were begun yesterday before Circuit Judge Stanley H. Klarkowski.

The suit was filed on May 1 for the purpose of expediting the merger of existing surface and elevated lines and hastening a start on the construction of $200,000,000 in extensions and improvements and the digging of the $45,000,000 State street subway.

The action was taken by State's Attorney Swanson and Attorney General Carlstrom at the request of James Simpson, chairman of the citizens' committee, which has labored for improved and enlarged local transportation service since its appointment by Federal Judge Wilkerson in December, 1928.

McInerney Opens Case.

John L. McInerney, special assistant attorney general, yesterday presented an opening statement to the court. He declared he will attempt to prove the statutes passed by the 1929 legislature are invalid and that the city exceeded its power in passing the transportation ordinance. The ordinance is to be attacked through the legislation.

Attorney McInerney spoke for almost two hours. His statement was largely a history of transportation in the city and a recital of the allegations in his bill. Attorneys Stephen A. Foster and Allan T. Gilbert are representing the city in the suit. After a statement in behalf of the city, arguments are to begin on Monday.

Attorneys representing various organizations have filed appearances in the case. Arguments are expected to continue for almost two weeks. The decision of Judge Klarkowski is to be appealed to the Illinois Supreme court from which a final opinion is expected in the October term.

Ruling by Judge Lindsay.

Last Monday Superior Judge William J. Lindsay set forth the terms of a temporary injunction, which he indicated he will grant in a taxpayers' suit restraining the city from making expenditures from its transit fund for the construction of subways. The injunction will apply to appropriations totaling $12,909,000 for purchase of land and for construction work.

At the same time Judge Lindsay refused to halt the proceedings before Judge Klarkowski. The action before Judge Lindsay is also to be carried to the Supreme court for final ruling.

SURVEY REVEALS LARGE INCREASE IN PUBLIC JOBS

Up 86% Since 1910; Population Gain 54%.

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

In proportion to population, the city and its school system had 7,290 more jobs in 1929—the last year for which the city controller has compiled data—than were on the payroll in 1910.

An analysis of the figures would indicate that if the people feel they were sufficiently governed, protected and cared for by the city in 1910 and their children adequately educated in the public schools, 7,290 jobs in these two major local governments alone could be eliminated.

In 1910 the city and the schools had 22,528 employés, according to the official report of the city controller. In 1929 the number was 41,983.

Show Gain in Population.

In 1910 the city had a population of 2,185,283, while the 1930 census showed 3,376,438 residents. The population increased 54 per cent, while the number of jobs jumped up 86 per cent.

In 1910 the city and schools paid out $26,348,743 in salaries and wages, according to the controller's report. In 1929 the payroll cost was $103,032,742.

In this period the payroll expense went up 299 per cent, while the number of people to be governed advanced only 54 per cent. So, the payroll expense went up nearly four times as fast as the population.

Rate of Pay Increases.

The cost of living has increased since 1910, and this increase is reflected in increased pay for public employés.

Taking the aggregate compensation paid the city and school employés in 1910 and divide it among the average number on the payroll, and it appears that the average 1910 city salary was $1,106 a year. By the same process the average 1929 salary was $2,454—an average pay increase of 121 per cent. Since 1929 there have been a few other salary advances, so that the average compensation is a trifle higher now than in 1929.

Police	4,681	5,279	5,922	6,464
Fire	1,858	2,032	2,325	2,657
Health	433	964	864	1,906
Streets	3,016	3,917	3,585	3,579
Other city...	2,561	4,400	3,900	6,004
Water	1,804	3,901	2,914	2,731
Library	325	452	768	1,014
Schools	7,450	10,780	15,015	17,316
Sanitarium .		324	856	950

Some of the increase in public employés is explained on the legitimate expansion of public service between 1910 and 1929, which, for humanitarian reasons could not be eliminated. One of these is the Municipal Tuberculosis sanitarium. But the county board also is in that particular business at Oak Forest.

The taxpayers support two tuberculosis sanitariums. The recent action of the mayor and city council demonstrated that the payroll of the city sanitarium is padded and lopped off 54 jobs as unnecessary or useless.

Would Eliminate 7,290 Jobs.

But aside from such services the 1910 public service standard, if applied to 1931, would result in the elimination of 7,290 jobs. Instead of 41,983 on the payroll the number could be reduced to 34,693 with a saving of $16,889,000.

All of the employés could be given their present salaries and still $16,889,000 saved to the property owners.

KIDNAPING STORY FALSE; 'HUSBAND' LOCKED IN JAIL

Otto Deeds, alias James Homer, was locked up by police last night when he admitted that his story of his "wife" being kidnaped by a motorist at 51st street and the outer drive on Thursday was a fabrication. The "wife," Mrs. Marie Edwards Snyder of Denver, is being held by police of Niles, Mich.

On Thursday Deeds reported the kidnaping. He said he and his "wife" were hitchhiking from Wyoming to Nashville, Mich. He persisted in his story until Lieut. Walter Storms confronted him with documents showing that he had served time in prison.

Deeds admitted the records. He said he was paroled May 14 and two weeks later started eastward on a hitchhike trip with Mrs. Snyder. She left him Thursday during a quarrel and was driven away by a passing motorist whom she had hailed. Mrs. Snyder was seized in Niles last night when she inquired if Deeds had passed through. She admitted she deserted her husband, Frank Snyder, in Denver three years ago.

HOLDUP GIVES GUESTS A THRILL IN BLACKSTONE

Stage Manhunt After Women Are Robbed.

Guests of the Blackstone hotel received a thrill yesterday afternoon when police barred all exits and searched the hotel from top to bottom for a man who followed two wealthy women guests to their room and robbed them. When it appeared certain the robber had escaped from the hotel the cordon of police was withdrawn and the hotel resumed its normal atmosphere of peaceful opulence.

The women who were robbed were Mrs. O. V. Rouse, wife of William G. Rouse, head of a milling company of Indianapolis, and Mrs. Marion Ward, widow of the former head of the national wholesale drug house of Mooney, Mueller & Ward of Indianapolis, who died six years ago. Mrs. Ward lost a diamond ring valued at $500 and $40 in cash. Mrs. Rouse was robbed of $35.

Women Motor to Chicago.

The women had been driven to Chicago from Indianapolis yesterday by Fred Rouse, son of Mrs. Rouse. He left them at the Blackstone hotel, at the corner of Michigan avenue and 7th street, and went across the street to the Stevens hotel, where he registered.

Mrs. Rouse and Mrs. Ward were shown to rooms 1007 and 1008 and were together in 1007 when there came a knock at the door. Mrs. Rouse opened it and a man asked if the guests wished to hire an automobile. He was told they had a machine of their own, whereupon he forced his way into the room and produced a revolver.

He took the ring from Mrs. Ward's finger and the money from the purses of the two women. Then he ordered them into a clothes closet, the door of which he closed upon them. Within a minute they emerged and called downstairs on the telephone, saying they had been robbed.

Police Guard Hotel.

Hotel employés were immediately stationed at the doors leading to 7th street and to Michigan avenue. Police headquarters is but a few blocks away and in a minute there were dozens of detectives and uniformed police on hand and they stood guard at all doors.

The hotel management said the search did not include the rooms of the guests of the hotel. But every other hiding place in the building was visited, every hall, stairway, toilet, fire escape, and storeroom was inspected. This man hunt lasted nearly an hour.

When a description of the robber had been obtained from the women hotel employés recalled seeing the man seated in the lobby for an hour preceding the robbery. It was presumed he had seen the diamond ring on Mrs. Ward's finger when the women were registering and he had overheard the clerk announcing the rooms assigned to them.

The robber was young and well dressed, the women stated, and the employés who had seen the stranger in the lobby agreed with that description. None of them had ever seen him before, they told police, and they were certain he was not a guest of the hotel. The management later announced the belief the robber had time to run down a stairway to the ninth floor, get on an elevator and to have reached the street unmolested before the desk was notified of the robbery.

BANDITS LEAVE MR. CHOTINOS IN TIE AND B. V. D.'S

Three unsympathetic bandits embarrassed Christ Chotinos beyond words early this morning. Chotinos, who lives at 2203 Burling street and is in the wholesale produce business, met with the unfeeling trio at Orchard street and Webster avenue.

They forced him into their automobile. They drove him to Central and Fullerton avenues, many miles away. There they took $235. They took his hat, his coat, and his vest. They also took his shoes and his socks. To make matters more embarrassing, they took his trousers.

Then they cast Chotinos out. He stood helpless in the early morning chill, clad in a shirt, a tie, and a thin suit of underwear, until an observant police squad found him. Chotinos was taken to the Cragin station and given first aid in the form of newspapers and towels and driven in a police car to the Hudson avenue station.

CAUSE ARREST FOR LOSSES IN OLD STOCK DEAL

Wilmette Business Man Denies He's Guilty.

Stock sales with which he said he had nothing to do led to the swearing out of a warrant yesterday against Hugo H. Kuhl, a member of several clubs and a Chicago business man for seventeen years. Mr. Kuhl was arrested in his home at 630 Maple avenue, Wilmette, on three charges of operating a confidence game.

He attributed his arrest to the unauthorized and illegal acts of two men, one of whom had only a brief and unofficial connection with a corporation he headed. The other, he said, was never an employé. One of the principal complainants stated he did not believe Kuhl profited personally from the alleged swindle.

Result of Stock Deal.

Kuhl was president of the Republic Securities corporation at 11 South La Salle street, which discontinued business in April. The delivery of certificates for stock in this concern to Regensteiner was the basis of his charge against Kuhl.

According to Regensteiner, he gave $10,000 to Daniel Hayes of Maywood and M. K. Higginbothom, salesmen of securities, in 1929. They were to deliver to him shares of an organization known as the Mutual Bond company. That part of the contract was not fulfilled, he said, and it was not until some time in 1930 that he received anything to show for his investment. Then Hayes delivered to him some shares of the Republic Securities corporation.

"I don't know that Kuhl got any of the money," said Regensteiner, "but his name was on the stock certificates as president and he ought to know about what went on in his own company."

Denies Knowing of Sale.

Kuhl's explanation was that he knew nothing of the transaction between Hayes and Higginbothom and Regensteiner and the women complainants. Higginbothom is under arrest on confidence game charges and Hayes is a fugitive from warrants charging similar offenses.

"I never consented to or had knowledge of any sales of stock in the Republic Securities corporation," Kuhl said. "Hayes gave us the idea for the concern. I met him at the Hamilton club. The plan was to form a purchasing organization for small banks, so that they could combine their interests and bid for desirable bonds on a basis favorable with the bids of big banks.

"Hayes was given 10,000 shares for the idea. I put in a good deal of money and so did my friends. We all lost. The stock was not qualified under the Illinois securities law because it was not to be sold. If Hayes sold his stock to Regensteiner I had nothing whatever to do with it."

Identified as Swindler.

Higginbothom was taken into custody and identified as a confidence man about a month ago when he tried to sell bonds to Franklin Hardinge, wealthy oil burner manufacturer. According to Kuhl, he was never employed in his corporation. Hayes was to have organized units in country towns.

Kuhl's bonds were fixed at a total of $9,000, and friends obtained his release from a detective bureau cell on bail last night.

For many years Kuhl has been in the direct mail advertising business. He is a life member of the Art institute, a member of the Illinois Manufacturers' association, the Chicago Association of Commerce, the Illinois Chamber of Commerce, the Masons, the Elks, and the following clubs: the Hamilton, the Machinery, Advertising, Executives', the Lake Shore Athletic—of which he is a director—the Kiwanis, Coöperative, Four Seasons, North Shore Golf, Illinois Golf, and Crystal Lake country.

EX-TYROL MAYOR DIES OF COLD AS HE FLEES ITALY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

INNSBRUCK, Austria, July 10.—The body of Dr. Josef Luckner, one time mayor of Meran and a representative of southern Tyrol in the Austrian parliament until that part of Austria was awarded to Italy, today was found on the mountain of Hochjoch, where he apparently had frozen to death in an attempt to escape Italy to his native land.

Dr. Luckner recently applied to the Fascist government for a passport which would permit him to go to Austria. Despite his pleas, he was refused permission to leave Italy. He started out at night in an effort to cross the border secretly.

The body of Dr. Luckner was found near the spot where Prof. Piccard landed after his historic flight into the stratosphere. He had reached Austrian soil, but apparently weakened under the cold and hardships of the crawl over the mountains, and died from hunger and cold. He had been dead several days.

RUM CHASING FLEET HERE ON ITS WAY SOUTH

Ten border patrol rum chasers, repeatedly outrun by the speedy craft which liquor smugglers are now using on Lake Erie, arrived in Chicago yesterday on their way to New Orleans. Coast guard officials transferred the boats, it was reported, in the hope that the rum runners operating in the Gulf of Mexico are not provided with a swift craft as those on the Canadian border have.

The boats, formerly assigned at Buffalo, have been replaced by faster craft there. They are 36 foot picket boats, each armed with a one pounder and a machine gun. Two 75 foot patrol boats escorted them from Buffalo to Chicago.

Capt. John O. Anderson of the Chicago coast guard station will have command of the fleet as far as Grafton, Ill., on its voyage down the sanitary canal and the Des Plaines and Illinois rivers. At Grafton the boats will be met by the coast guard cutter Kankakee, which will escort them down the Mississippi.

HOOVER ASPIRES TO GUIDE WORLD INTO DISARMING

Acts to Take Leadership in Movement.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 10.—[Special.]—The United States today formally accepted the invitation of the league of nations to participate in the conference on world disarmament it has called to meet at Geneva, Switzerland, on Feb. 2, 1932.

HUGH R. WILSON.

It is now evident that Mr. Hoover is reaching out for the leadership of the movement for disarmament backed up with the influence of the United States government and the American people, which he will bring to bear upon Europe to fall in line with his proposals.

The President is understood to be planning a message for submission to the conference setting forth his ideas on the progressive program of reduction of land and sea armaments which he entertains and his conviction of the imperative necessity of lifting the burden of the cost of armies and navies from the shoulders of the people if economic recovery is to be achieved.

In this connection it is recalled that it was a message from Mr. Hoover to the commission preparing for the league's disarmament conference that paved the way for the London conference on reduction of naval disarmaments last year.

Text of Acceptance Message.

The text of the message of acceptance, transmitted to the secretary general of the league by Hugh R. Wilson, American minister to Switzerland, follows:

"The acting secretary of state of the United States of America has received the note of the secretary general of the league of nations, dated June 13, 1931, in which, pursuant to a resolution of the council, adopted on May 22, he extended an invitation to the American government to participate in the general disarmament conference to be convened at Geneva on Feb. 2, 1932.

"The American government is happy to accept this invitation and welcomes the opportunity for cooperating with the other nations in a common effort to reduce the menace and to lighten the burden of armaments under which the world is suffering."

President Hoover is said to have penned the last paragraph himself.

Foresees Political Value.

If the league's disarmament conference is held as scheduled and results in a substantial measure of disarmament, the result will be capitalized by the Republican party for the benefit of President Hoover in his canvass for reelection, which then will be in full swing.

What has worried the Republican leaders is the persistent reports in recent months that the conference will be postponed a year or more because of the unpreparedness of the European powers to agree on a plan of armament reduction. If it were postponed a year, it would be of no value to the President in the 1932 election.

It was to survey the situation and persuade the European powers to proceed with the conference as scheduled that Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson was sent to Europe for a summer of hobnobbing with European statesmen. Mr. Stimson is communicating to the European chancelleries Mr. Hoover's deep interest in world disarmament and his conviction that it will not brook delay.

War Debts Hoover's Trump.

Thus European statesmen are learning that Europe cannot expect the United States to reopen the war debt settlements and scale down, if not cancel, their obligations, unless they proceed to disarm, beginning with Feb. 2, next. They are learning that their best hopes of believed relieved of a part, if not all, of those eleven billions of war debts owed to the United States lie in the reduction of armament by Europe—and the reelection of Herbert Hoover by the United States.

The news from Rome that Mussolini had declared Italy would support any program of disarmament the United States might present at Geneva was hailed with joy in official circles here. The utterance of il duce is regarded as further evidence of the disposition of Italy to throw in her lot with Great Britain and the United States.

A disposition on the part of France to insist that Germany pay the conditional, as well as the unconditional, reparations due on July 15, merely because the moratorium is not yet technically in effect, has been frowned on by both Washington and London. Mr. Hoover declares the moratorium morally effective as of July 1, last.

At the same time, the United States treasury is not refusing war debt payments, though it will refund any made between July 1 and the time that congress ratifies the moratorium.

Accept Greek Payment.

A few days ago an installment of $210,000 was due from Greece on the funding of her wartime borrowing from the United States. A member of the Greek legation called personally on Ogden L. Mills, acting secretary of the treasury, showed him a check for the amount of the installment and was reported to have said, in effect: "But I do not have to pay this, as payments on all intergovernmental debts have been suspended for a year."

As the story was told today, Mr. Mills grabbed the check and said the Greek representative certainly must pay, because congress had not ratified the debt suspension agreement.

It was asserted also that Mr. Mills said that if the Greek payment was not accepted and congress failed to ratify the agreement those American officials concerned would be impeached.

FRANCE DRAWS UP A MEMORANDUM ON STATE OF ARMAMENTS

PARIS, July 10.—(AP)—When Arthur Henderson, the British foreign secretary, passes through here next Wednesday on the way to Berlin Foreign Minister Briand will give him a copy of the French memorandum on disarmament approved by the cabinet today. Mr. Henderson will preside at next year's disarmament conference.

The memorandum is described as a complete exposition of the present state of French armaments and of the position France will take at the general conference in Geneva next February. Secretary of State Stimson also will be given an opportunity to read the memorandum. He may be in Paris on Wednesday.

The memorandum has been in preparation since last January, when the league of nation's council asked member governments to prepare such documents. It is said to contain abundant technical material, and is described as a clearly worded résumé of the French disarmament thesis.

2. A long term loan of around $500,000,000, to be floated by bond issues or through the central banks, or both.

It was reported here tonight that the British bankers are prepared to renew their short term credit, which expires on July 16, for another fortnight, but it is felt that only France is in a position to offer permanent relief.

The Paris bourse reacted badly to the news, for not only the mark, but the dollar and pound fell as well, and many leading securities took a heavy tumble.

BRITISH FIGHT DELAY

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, July 10.—A break has occurred between the French and British policies with regard to the Hoover moratorium. The British are declared to be thoroughly disgusted with the French policy of delay, which, whether intentionally or not, is designed to cause a smash in Germany, thus rendering President Hoover's plan futile, and it took two steps today to bring matters to an immediate head.

The first was the issue of invitations to a meeting of experts to be held next Friday in London to consider the machinery of the moratorium. These invitations have been ready for several days, but they have been held up day by day at the last moment in response to appeals from the French, who have been trying to secure political conditions from Germany in return for an agreement to the moratorium.

Aimed at German Navy.

The chief of these conditions are the stoppage of work on two German pocket battleships, and the abandonment of the Austro-German customs pact. The British realize that no German government could accept these conditions and remain in office, and frankly express doubts as to whether the French are acting in good faith in demanding them.

The second step was a notice to the Bank for International Settlements, that no matter what any one else does, Great Britain does not expect payment on July 15 of her share of German reparations. This also was designed to block the French game of delay.

Germany is due to pay $150,000,000 on that day, and if President Hoover's moratorium plan is not in operation then, Germany is technically in default, enabling the French to claim all sorts of new conditions. Great Britain is determined to protect Germany from this, if possible, and is putting it up to the French to come in line before July 15.

Little Powers Excluded.

The urgent need for haste was also considered by the British in their summoning of next Friday's experts. Only Great Britain, France, Belgium, Italy, Japan, Germany, and the United United States were invited. The deliberate intention of excluding the small powers interested in reparations was to secure rapid action and to avoid long arguments over comparatively trifling sums. The little powers will have to take what the big brothers provide for them and pretend they like it.

One of the factors in the need for haste is the steady drain on Germany's resources. The Reichsbank statements show a loss of many million dollars a day abroad. This money is being withdrawn by foreign lenders on short term loans, and it is believed that many of these lenders are Americans, who are thus helping the French to defeat the Hoover plan. Great Britain is determined to give the plan whatever chance there is, and will not stand for any further delay.

Dominions Give Up Payment.

In its letter to the Bank for International Settlements, Great Britain disclaims all demand for payment on July 15 not only for herself, but for Northern Ireland, Australia, Canada, New Zealand, South Africa and India.

The letter declares that in view of the fact that these nations have accepted in principle President Hoover's proposal, to accept payment from Germany, even if Germany was in a position to make it, would be manifestly inconsistent with the acceptance of the Hoover principle.

This disclaimer is without prejudice to the rights of bondholders of the German external loan of 1924 and the German government 5½ per cent international loan of 1930.

STIMSON CARRIES CREED OF PEACE OVER ALPS TODAY

Winds Up Conferences with Italian Chiefs.

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ROME, July 10.—Convinced that his mission to Italy has been successful, Secretary of State Stimson will bid farewell to Rome tomorrow morning to carry his peace and disarmament nostrums to the countries north of the Alps. Although the secretary's visit is entirely unofficial — he claims to be merely a "simple tourist"—he complained today that he had so much official business that he had had no time to see Rome. Discussing his visit to Italy, Mr. Stimson said that last night's dinner at the embassy had been delightful, and he continued:

[Harris & Ewing Photo.]

"My conferences with Premier Mussolini and Foreign Minister Grandi were eminently cordial and satisfactory. As to the subjects discussed, I cannot say anything for I am their guest and it is up to the host to make statements. I am very satisfied with my trip to Italy. Here I have started what was the purpose of my mission, namely to get the views and ideas of foreign statesmen, and to discuss problems with them frankly and cordially. But, as I said when I left home, I am a receiving set and not a broadcasting station."

Denies He Will See Mellon.

Mr. Stimson denied that he would go to the Riviera to confer with Secretary of the Treasury Mellon. He announced that he would be in Paris next Monday, but he had not decided yet where he would go when he leaves here tomorrow morning. "My wife is the supreme arbiter of that," he added.

The secretary decline to say what were his impressions of Il Duce.

"I cannot give impressions of my host," he said.

Mr. Stimson called for THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE's correspondent at the end of his talk.

"Well, do I look angry today," he said reprovingly. "You said I looked angry when questions were asked at Naples."

Stimson Given Luncheon.

Secretary Stimson lunched today as the guest of Grandi at the Casino Borghese, which is ordinarily used as a museum, but it was specially arranged today as a dining room in honor of the secretary of state. Naked pagan gods, in stone, Bacchuses, Fauns, and Venuses and busts of emperors and Roman matrons looked down on the 47 guests who attended the luncheon.

The table was heaped with pale blue flowers. Food was brought from a hotel half a mile away, for there is no kitchen in the museum. Footmen in scarlet and gold uniforms gave the last word of punctuality to the luncheon.

Toasts were drunk to King Victor Emmanuel, to Mussolini, and to President Hoover. After the luncheon coffee was served in a small room off the museum, where the chief art object is the heroic sized feminine nude by Bernini entitled "Truth." After that the guests wandered about in the museum inspecting the famous collection of pictures and statues.

U. S. CONSULATE STONED BY REDS IN GERMAN CITY

COLOGNE, Germany, July 10.—(AP)—A small crowd of communists led by a woman hurled a rock through a window of the American consulate this afternoon. The crowd shouted, "Down with America! Free the Negroes." Similar demonstrations against the death sentence given eight Negroes in Scottsboro, Ala., already have taken place at Dresden and Berlin.

[Eight Negroes, found guilty of attacking two white girls, are awaiting execution in Alabama.]

Dramatic Critic Killed in Automobile Accident

Cincinnati, O., July 10.—(AP)—Carl B. Adams, 31, dramatic critic of the Cincinnati Enquirer, poet and author, was killed today in an automobile accident near Lexington, Ky.

BELGIAN INVASION WAS PLANNED BY KAISER IN '05, OLD LETTERS SHOW

PARIS, July 10.—(AP)—The Havas News agency today published excerpts from an article to be published tomorrow by the Magazine Les Annales, based on what is described as secret correspondence between the former Kaiser and Prince von Buelow in 1905, when Von Buelow was the German chancellor. According to these letters, Havas says, Germany had decided to invade Belgium at that time in the event of war with England.

"If England attacks us," said one of the Von Buelow letters, "your highness must send telegrams at once to Brussels and Paris demanding that they declare themselves within six hours for or against us. We shall immediately enter Belgium, no matter what the reply."

A letter supposedly written by the kaiser to the chancellor in 1907 said: "The great countries of the future—Japan and America—already are counting on us and taking a position on our side. France has lost her liberty of action and is being towed by England."

PREMIER OF CHILE STILL LABORS TO FORM A CABINET

SANTIAGO, Chile, July 10.—(AP)—Premier Francisco Garces was unsuccessful today in forming his new cabinet, but expects to complete it tomorrow. He was appointed by President Ibanez last night to succeed Rodolfo Jaramillo, who resigned.

Manuel Foster declined to serve in the Garces cabinet and it was probable that Carlos G. Davila, Chilean ambassador to the United States, would be named foreign minister. A cablegram has been sent to Ambassador Davila, but no answer has been received.

Premier Garces, who will use his full family name of Garces Gana, interviewed a number of prospective cabinet members today and indicated that some had accepted. Foreign banking circles indicated they had strong faith in Premier Garcas Gana.

WOMEN IN ROW OVER PAY RAISE FOR EXECUTIVE

Mrs. Geline Bowman of Richmond New Head.

BY GENEVIEVE FORBES HERRICK.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Richmond, Va., July 10.—[Special.]—Modern woman, here at the National Federation of Business and Professional Women's convention, today lost her temper in a good old-fashioned way and started a bang-up feminine fight over the increase in salary given to an executive.

In the midst of the soprano debate, which got Miss Marion H. McClench, federation president, and Miss Lena Madesin Phillips, past president, into a tart argument, some of the officers saw the reporters, whom they lately had praised as ambassadors of publicity, sharpening their pencils. So, quickly, the session was adjourned, supposedly to give the women opportunity to vote and to lunch.

Ballots and Banquets.

But there must have been more than ballots and banquets in the interim, for when the meeting reconvened everything was serene, and it unanimously was moved to strike from the record all reference to salaries.

The row started when Miss Alice L. Engelhardt of Cincinnati presented her budget recommendations. Many delegates expressed their dissatisfaction with some of the items, especially with the expenditure for the salary of Miss Emily R. Kneubuhl of New York, the executive secretary. While great secrecy shrouded the arithmetic of her salary, it is known that it was increased two years ago from $5,000 a year to $6,000. And this last year there was another increase of $1,500.

At last Hester Smith of Colorado spoke out and said: "It seems mighty funny to me that this salary has been raised, without the members' sanction, at the very time when all of us, thanks to the depression, have had to take salary cuts."

Tells of Her Contract.

A burst of applause encouraged her, and she went on. But Miss McClench stepped forward to declare that the increase was entirely in accord with a contract with Miss Kneubuhl. Before she had finish the statement Attorney Phillips was at the rostrum saying in her most courtroom manner:

"I never heard of any such contract. If there is such a contract I should certainly like to see it."

That was the cue for Miss Kneubuhl. She came forward, armed with papers, to explain her position. She had got only as far as "In November of 1927, in my office" when strategists suddenly recalled that they must go and vote. A motion for adjournment was put, and voted down with a mighty "No."

Reminds Women to Vote.

Then Mrs. Geline Bowman, president-elect, reminded the women that they really must vote; a new vote was taken and adjournment followed. Miss Marjorie Schuler, publicity chairman, stood up, and with her eyes on the newspaper group, said:

"Let's clearly understand that we are adjourning to vote; for no other reason."

The afternoon meeting started with singing of songs. Then a delegate urged the striking out of the ugly reference to salary increases. "Here we are," she argued, "fighting against discrimination against women in the matter of salary cuts. Wouldn't it be fine if our employers could say to us, look what you did at your convention? You voted to cut one of your own member's salaries."

Vote of Appreciation.

Then, in the midst of soothing sentiments, the meeting gave a vote of appreciation to the finance chairman, and everything settled down to a convention of modern business and professional women.

Later in the day Miss Magan of Chicago, chairman of the elections committee, announced the election of the following officers for 1931-'33: President, Mrs. Geline M. Bowman, Richmond, Va.; first vice president, Mrs. Helen Schluraff, Erie, Pa.; second vice president, Mrs. Bonnie K. Robertson, Hammond, Ind.; recording secretary, Miss Earlene White, Jackson, Miss.; corresponding secretary, Miss Margaret K. Stewart, Phoenix, Ariz.; treasurer, Miss Margaret Stewart, Ogden, Utah.

The convention unanimously went on record as supporting world disarmament, law enforcement, and moral books and plays. It pledged itself to coöperate with all agencies working toward stabilization of business, and it promised to fight discrimination against women in the business world.

rope, and many parks—and much used, too. But all the time I was in France I didn't see any roses to compare with those in Portland. I am what I might call a rose expert. Now in Holland there are roses comparable to those of Portland—but nothing better, nothing better."

At that point Mr. Gaw was telling Mrs. Baker how sorry he was they couldn't see the stockyards.

Tells About His Tour.

"After my official obligations were fulfilled," he began, "only after all my duties were done, I went to Vienna to a Rotary meeting.

"No," he replied to a question, "I made no speech there."

As for the stories in the newspapers, he said, about the traveling mayors and the wine, he would like to point out that every member of the party was a lady or a gentleman, and that drinking became for them just part of their daily lives as it was to the French people, but that nothing unseemingly occurred. Far from it.

"Personally," he said gravely, "I like to follow the customs of a country while I am in that country."

He Wants to Call Padden.

"Now," broke in Mr. Gaw brightly, "if you don't want to wash up at a hotel first, we'll just go right along for the boulevards—yessir, the boulevards, Chicago's flowers."

"If you don't mind there's one thing I'd like to do first," said Mayor Baker. "I'd like to call Judge Padden."

It was Judge Padden, Mayor Cermak's emissary on the mayors' tour, who told newspaper men in New York that Mayor Baker, the president of the mayors, made three-fourths of the 135 speeches made.

He had also told Mayor Baker in Paris that there were more boulevards in Chicago than roses in Portland.

Some one was sent to call Judge Padden. He was not at home.

"Well, then, will you be sure to tell him I called? Will you make certain?" Mayor Baker asked, rather grimly.

"Of course," said Mr. Gaw. "But I'm sure he'd have entertained you in the same way I'm doing, sir. He'd have taken you for a tour of the boulevards—or the stockyards."

Mayor Baker sniffed.

Lundin Republicans Will Stage a Rally Today

Members of the Illinois Republican council, generally known as the Lundin wing of the Republican party in Illinois, will hold a picnic and rally today at Riverview park. Among the speakers will be Rupert F. Bippus, president of the council, who will be chairman of the meeting; State Senator Earl B. Searcy and Edgar J. Cook.

Teacher Loses Job; Shoots Wife and Kills Himself

Kankakee, Ill., July 10.—(AP)—William A. Costigan, 33, former Pattenburg grade school principal, is dead today of a self-inflicted bullet wound, and his wife, Edna Ruth, 28, whom he shot, was believed dying in the hospital here. Police believed despondency over loss of his position in Pattenburg prompted the action.

EVERY dangerous pretender, East and West, to the season's title will contest this fattest purse of the year for horses of this age and sex.

It will be a struggle of earlier Oaks winners—Tambour of the Coaching Club at Belmont Park; Cousin Jo, of the Kentucky, at Churchill Downs; Dark Magnet, which licked Scuttle in the Pimlico at Baltimore.

These fleet misses will bear the silks of Preston M. Burch, Charles Nuckols, J. W. Parrish and Willis Sharpe Kilmer, their breeders.

And there will be Cornelius Vanderbilt Whitney's Avenger, which has just trimmed Tambour in a Gazelle at Aqueduct; Albert Bostwick's Scuttle, which has finished third to the colts Spanish Play and St. Brideaux in a Latonia Derby. Since, Tambour beat her in the Coaching Club American Oaks.

REVEAL PROGESS IN LIQUIDATION OF CLOSED BANKS

Nelson Tells of Dividends Already Paid.

State Auditor Oscar Nelson issued a statement yesterday outlining the progress made thus far in liquidating the assets of state banks closed in Cook county in the last twenty months and defining the policies he proposed to follow until their affairs have finally been settled.

Of the 29 banks closed up to last June 5 and exclusive of those which were shut in the realignment of the Foreman banking interests, nine have already paid their depositors dividends ranging from 20 to 50 per cent, Mr. Nelson said. Receivers of a majority of the remaining twenty in the group expect to pay similar percentages within the next few weeks, he added.

"The policy of this office," Mr. Nelson declared, "is to liquidate these bank assets as quickly as possible, consistent, however, with a determination to conserve the assets against any unnecessary sacrifice of their true values. The Chicago real estate market will not continue indefinitely stagnant."

Sees 1933 Fair as Boost.

In Mr. Nelson's view the Century of Progress exposition will prove a powerful factor in restoring real estate values to a level approximating their true worth.

"As the exposition draws on," he pointed out, "the realty market is bound to be stimulated. This will permit banks holding mortgages now classified as frozen assets to dispose of them at prices warranting the expectation that many depositors will eventually secure the return of 100 cents on the dollar."

To a suggestion that individual receiverships be abolished in favor of a unified receivership agency for all banks the state auditor declared himself opposed. Advocates of the plan contend that receivership costs would be lowered if a salaried state officer were appointed to liquidate assets of magazine banks under direction of the courts.

Would Add to Expense.

"I disagree with this claim," said Mr. Nelson. "In the first place, receiverships under the present system are not unduly costly. Secondly, a unified receivership system would in my opinion, prove more expensive in the end."

The auditor pointed out that the suggested state administrative office could be created only by legislative enactment. Moreover, he said, this office would be compelled either to set up its own machinery or employ the services of a large trust company which, in effect, would thereby gain a virtual monopoly on all bank receiverships in Cook county.

The auditor mentioned a list of claims for fees filed by receivers and attorneys in recent bank failures. In the list was a fee of $15,000 claimed by Attorney Edward H. Morris as receiver for the Binga State bank, closed on July 31, 1930, with deposits of $1,350,000; a fee of $12,000 claimed by Attorney James B. Cashin as counsel for the Binga bank receiver; and a fee of $20,000, paid to Attorney Joseph B. Fleming as counsel for the receiver of the Exchange State bank.

"In the case of the Binga bank alone, the fees of the lawyer and receiver were reduced two thirds," Mr. Nelson explained. "They filed claims for $15,000 and $12,000, respectively, and were paid $5,000 and $4,000 respectively."

Paid on Daily Basis.

"In the case of the Exchange State bank the record shows there was $40,000 on deposit when the bank closed. Citing Fleming's $20,000 fee in this connection might make it seem unduly large. But the records also show that the bank resources were $80,000, and it must be remembered that the receiver's duties concern not merely the deposits but all the resources. On this basis, therefore, Fleming's fee to date amounts to about 1 1-3 per cent of the total sum involved in administering."

Every receiver and attorney is paid on a per diem basis, the auditor explained. Each is required to file an accounting of every hour occupied in receivership duties before being paid a penny. The fees for various banks differ not so much on the basis of their deposits or resources, Mr. Nelson said, as on the condition of the banks.

Recapitulating the dividend situation, Mr. Nelson said the best record to date had been made by the Progress State bank, which has paid a 50 per cent dividend on deposits of $40,000. "There should be another payment from that bank soon," said Mr. Nelson.

The West Central State bank has paid a 20 per cent dividend. According to the auditor, an additional 15 per cent payment will be effected within a few weeks.

From the People's State bank of Harwood, whose cashier, Elmer Langseth, was convicted of embezzling $18,000 has paid a 20 per cent dividend. "There are further assets to be realized there also," the auditor said.

Receiver for Bain Banks.

Receivers of the Central Oak Park State bank are ready to pay a substantial dividend, according to the auditor, awaiting for delay caused by a lawsuit over a lease, which will be settled shortly. "Depositors of the Cheltenham Trust and Savings bank have a good chance of receiving dollar for dollar," he said.

The auditor announced the appointment late yesterday of Attorney Irvin T. Gilruth, 100 West Monroe street, as receiver for the twelve Bain banks, which closed on June 9 with deposits of $14,000,000 and listed assets of $21,000,000. The Bain banks were capitalized at $7,000,000.

After posting a $1,700,000 bond, Mr. Gilruth announced he would open headquarters in the West Englewood Trust and Savings bank, 1620 West 63d street, most easily accessible of the chain. He said he would appoint a subreceiver for each bank and that each would be obliged to liquidate assets and meet liabilities individually.

Another receiver appointed yesterday was Walter P. Mack, retired banker, who will liquidate assets of the Fullerton State bank, 1423 Fullerton avenue, which closed with deposits of $1,400,000.

LEARN OF PARTY NIGHT ACTRESS DIED IN FLAMES

New York, July 10.—[Special.]—Information that a party had been in progress in the Forest Hills home of Mrs. Marion Day Berrien less than an hour before the fire was discovered which later cost the former "Follies" girl her life was revealed by the police as they continued the investigation into her death.

The information, police said, came from Lewis Gompers, former proprietor of the Casanova club in Manhattan, and known to neighbors, police said, as Mrs. Berrien's husband.

Gompers told detectives, they said, that, together with another couple, he had been present in the Berrien house, Forest Hills, on Monday night at a party that lasted until 1:20 o'clock the next morning.

The fire occurred soon after 3 o'clock in the morning. Gompers talked freely of his friendship with Mrs. Berrien, widow of a naval officer, but proved that he was not near the scene of the fire at the time of its discovery, it was said.

Mrs. Berrien's body was found yesterday, two days after the fire. Police believe the blaze was caused by a carelessly flung cigaret.

CORBETT GETS 3 YEAR TERM, BUT IT'S SUSPENDED

New York, July 10.—[Special.]—James Mason Corbett, socially prominent Boston real estate man who was found guilty of third degree assault on James Quinn, an aviator, by a jury in the Bronx County court last June 3, today received a suspended sentence of three years in the New York City penitentiary. The court, however, suspended the sentence when the prisoner agreed to certain conditions.

"You must," Judge James Barrett said, "keep away from Quinn and have no contact with him in any manner. He does not want to have anything to do with you. Also you must keep away from Sidney L. Brown and your wife." Brown is Quinn's brother-in-law.

U. S. APOLOGIZES FOR JAILING OF MEXICAN CONSUL

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 10.—[Special.]—The regrets of the United States government for the recent arrest and imprisonment of Adolfo Dominguez, Mexican vice consul in Chicago, were expressed to the Mexican government today in an official diplomatic message.

The state department early this evening delivered the note to Ambassador Manuel C. Tellez of Mexico to be transmitted by him to his government.

Expresses Regret at Incident.

Replying to the Mexican protest over the recent action of Municipal Judge Thomas Green of Chicago in ordering Domingues to jail on a charge of contempt of court, the United States reported the vice consul's release, expressed sincere regret that the incident had occurred, and reaffirmed its pleasure in the cordial relations existing between the two governments.

In the message was incorporated the telegram received today by the state department from Gov. Louis L. Emmerson of Illinois in reply to the department's request that the governor investigate and report upon the vice consul's arrest.

Wire from Emmerson.

The telegram, addressed to Acting Secretary of State William R. Castle Jr., read in part as follows:

"Upon receipt of yours the 7th relative to the arrest of the Mexican consul of Chicago by order of Judge Thomas Green of the Municipal court of that city, I asked Chief Justice John J. Sonsteby at once to get in touch with Judge Thomas Green in an effort to bring about a satisfactory conclusion of the matter." The telegram quoted a statement given out by Judge Green in which he stated he had entered an order expunging the order of July 7, 1931, which held Dominguez in contempt of court.

VETO KILLS OVER TEN PER CENT OF ASSEMBLY BILLS

Over 2 Million Dollars Saved.

Springfield, Ill., July 10.—[Special.]—Gov. Louis L. Emmerson late today completed his consideration of the 492 bills passed by the fifty-seventh general assembly when he vetoed the last four bills remaining on his desk.

Records show that of the 492 measures, he vetoed 53 in their entirety, or more than ten per cent of the bills passed; exercised a partial veto on three others and permitted four to become a law without his signature.

Only one of the last quartet of bills vetoed was an appropriation measure. It proposed allotting $8,647 to a group of Freeport residents as a refund on paving of route 26 through that city.

Town Collectors Saved.

The governor vetoed the Barr bill to abolish township collectors, the veto message asserting that the proposed law had vigorous proponents and opponents.

"I am in entire sympathy with legislation intended to simplify all of the statute provisions relating to tax assessing and tax collecting," the message said. "It is my belief, however, that this should be done after careful consideration of our whole revenue system, and not hastily considered legislation, which affects only a minor detail and the consequences of which are not fully appreciated."

By the governor's action today, executions will continue in the Cook county jail and in the penitentiaries at Joliet and Chester. He vetoed a bill by Representative Michael L. Igoe, Chicago, providing that all executions be conducted at the southern Illinois penitentiary at Menard.

The governor also vetoed Senator Roy Wood's bill giving the courts wide power in sentencing persons found guilty of a crime for which indeterminate sentences are provided. The veto was based upon an opinion from the attorney general that the measure was in violation of the constitution. The bill was the outgrowth of the investigation of Joliet prison by a legislative committee.

Other Bills Vetoed.

Among other bills vetoed were:

S. B. 205—Monroe. Permitting courts to allow the private sale of real estate involved in an estate.

S. B. 415. Roberts. Making it a misdemeanor for a creditor to serve a demand in garnishment on an employer to garnishee the wages of an employé unless the claim against the employé had first been reduced to judgment.

H. B. 941—Durso. Imposing a liability of an insurer upon pawnbrokers for all property pledged with them.

H. B. 953—Igoe. Amending the park policemen's annuity and benefit fund. Vetoed because S. B. 787, already approved by Gov. Emmerson and now a law, contains identical provisions.

H. B. 261—Foster. Sponsored by the state athletic commission and having as its principal purpose the supervision and control of amateur bouts.

H. B. 223—Holten. Relating to the term of offices of the presidents of villages.

H. B. 196—Nymun. Making estate appraisements mandatory only when a widow or child's award is to be made, or when a person, not a creditor, makes a written demand.

H. B. 222—Holten. Authorizing a four year term for officers of cities and villages, subject to referendum.

Senate bill 473 [Courtney]—Amending the city civil service act, vetoed at the request of its author, Mayor Cermak had informed Gov. Emmerson that the bill would seriously upset the policy of the Chicago mayor's administration were it to become a law.

S. B. 85—Barr. Increasing the maximum tax levy for public benefits in municipalities of less than 25,000 population from one mill to five mills.

S. B. 686—Wilson. Appropriating $17,300 for construction of a bridge over Kinkaid creek in Jackson county, near Ava.

Bills Signed by Governor.

H. B. 634—F. G. Thompson. Requires garages to have at least one licensed chauffeur to do testing and outside service work.

H. B. 1093—Giffin. Appropriates $11,700 for state's share of street improvements along executive mansion and centennial building.

H. B. 1086—Soderstrom. Raises exemption of head of family from garnishment from $15 to $20 a week.

S. B. 410—Barr. Removes from agency and loan corporations the right to deal in bonds, notes and securities. Permits such corporations to include as part of their object the purpose of real estate improvement corporations.

JAPANESE WORLD RACE NEARS END; MAY BEAT RECORD

[Copyright: 1931: By the New York Times.]

TOKIO, July 10.—Suitemara Shingu, the Osaka around the world racer, reached Seoul, Corea, last evening and today made two attempts to fly to Japan. He was forced back by fog. He will take a steamer tonight, expecting to reach Osaka tomorrow in the elapsed time of 35 days and 40 minutes for the westward trip.

The other competitor, Kenso Fukuma of Tokio, who went eastward, is aboard a liner due in Japan July 16, which will enable him to establish a new record of 30 days and 45 minutes. The previous record was 33 days and 20 hours.

The two men, representing Japanese newspapers, set out on June 6 and 15, respectively, taking opposite directions in an around the world race by established means of transportation.

Roche Raiders Close Three Resorts in County; Nab 8

Answering complaints that disorderly houses are increasing in number throughout the county, policemen under the direction of Patrick Roche, chief investigator of the state's attorney's office, yesterday made raids in which three places were closed in Calumet City. Later the policemen raided the Whitehouse, near Elgin, but found the place apparently closed. Waiting for a few hours, they made a second raid and arrested four women.

FLYER SUED

EDNA MAY COOPER.

Hollywood, Cal., July 10.—[Special.]—Edna May Cooper, the film actress who turned aviatrix and was partner with Bobbie Trout in a successful woman's endurance flight refueling feat here last year, has now been sued by the financial angel for the flight. Joseph Martin, wealthy broker, demands $1,499.85, which he asserted he lent Miss Cooper for personal expenses. Martin put up $30,000 for the expenses of the flight, and his attorney says: "Mr. Martin does not mind dropping that $30,000, because that was a sporting proposition, but he does feel entitled to repayment of his personal loans."

GOVERNOR O. K.'S VENUE CHANGE IN CONTEMPT CASES

Signs Gaines Bill Allowing Transfer.

A legislative bill designed to limit the power of the courts in contempt cases where the character or conduct of a judge has been attacked was placed on the statute books yesterday by Gov. Emmerson when he attached his signature to the bill sponsored by Attorney Harris B. Gaines, former assistant state's attorney.

HARRIS B. GAINES.

The new law prevents a judge, who thinks he has been assailed as to his integrity or conduct, from acting as judge, jury and prosecutor in the subsequent contempt proceedings, according to the author of the new law. The defendant in such a case can now take a change of venue and have some other judge hear the merits of the complaint against him.

Text of New Law.

"When any defendant in a proceeding for contempt arising from an attack occurring otherwise than in open court, upon the character or conduct of a judge, which proceeding is pending before the judge whose character or conduct was impugned, fears that he will not receive a fair and imparial trial before such judge, he may petition the court for a change of venue from such judge, such a petition to be verified by affidavit of the defendant, and thereupon such change shall be granted."

"I proposed the new law because of the things which occurred while I was an assistant state's attorney, mostly in the Municipal courts," said Attorney Gaines. "Frequently persons were summarily brought into court for criticizing the findings of a judge and without much of a chance of a hearing were fined or sentenced to jail.

No Chance for Defense.

"In many cases the individual cited for contempt may have only been telling the truth of the situation. Under the old systetm they did not have much of a chance to defend themselves."

The attorney pointed out that under the old system when the judge cited a defendant for contempt he had already made up his mind that he had been aggrieved and so the defendant cited probably would be found guilty.

Henry Barrett Chamberlain, operating director of the Chicago Crime commission, who is an attorney, was skeptical as to the constitutionality of the new law. He points out that all the courts, except the Municipal court, are created by the constitution, and that the legislature is without authority to abridge the inherent powers of a court so created. Power to punish for contempt is inherent with such courts, he points out. However, other lawyers are inclined to the opinion that the Municipal court having been created by the legislature would be subject to any rules or laws it might pass.

GOVERNOR SIGNS BILL FOR ILLINOIS AIR COMMISSION

An aerial navigation commission for Illinois, with powers to regulate air traffic, airplanes and flyers, was created yesterday when Gov. Emmerson signed a bill passed by the last legislature providing for the appointment of such a commission.

The commission is authorized to make rules governing all airports, air schools, and air beacon lights. It is given the power of supervision of all aircraft and pilots operating in the state and is directed to require them to comply with the federal regulations governing licenses as provided for by the department of commerce.

The governor is expected to appoint the members of the commission shortly. The law provides for five members, two of whom are to be experienced flyers. An appropriation of $40,000 is provided.

H. S. WILLIAMS CHOSEN BY G. O. P. TO OPPOSE JONES

Dark Horse Nominated on Seventh Ballot.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Alton, Ill., July 10.—[Special.]—Harold S. Williams of Taylorville was nominated by the Republican convention of the 3d supreme district early tonight as the G. O. P. candidate for the vacancy of the supreme bench caused by the retirement of Justice William M. Farmer of Vandalia. The action came on the seventh ballot. He will make the race against Judge Norman L. Jones of Carrolton, who was picked by the Democrats at Vandalia Wednesday on the 78th ballot.

Williams started as a dark horse and finished as a band wagon. Six candidates were placed before the delegates. On the seventh ballot only two survived and the vote stood: Williams, 137; Judge Jesse R. Brown of Alton, 117. To nominate 128 votes were necessary.

Judge Brown, a giant of a man, six feet six in his socks, had been regarded as the most likely candidate until last night, when Walter M. Provine, an old Deneen warhorse and former U. S. district attorney at Springfield, struck town with a boom for Williams, who is his law partner at Taylorville.

Warhorse Grooms Dark Horse.

All night and morning long the dark horse was groomed, Judge Brown meanwhile finding something of a handicap in two contesting delegations from his own county of Madison. It was settled late today by the seating of the pro-Brownites.

Mr. Williams is about 52 years old. His boomers argued at that he is older than was Floyd Thompson when elected to the high bench. He is a world war veteran, and has been state's attorney for Clay county. He is a son of Thomas S. Williams, who resigned from congress some two years ago to take an appointment by President Hoover to the federal court of claims. Mr. Provine, his chief sponsor, had been listed as a possible candidate, but announced his name would not go before the convention.

Senator Andrew S. Cuthbertson, also rated as a possibility in the pre-convention gossip, likewise refrained from entering. The sage of Bunker Hill told the convention he did not want his name presented.

Four Others Enter Race.

The four candidates placed before the delegates, in addition to Williams and Brown, were Judge Donovan D. McCarthy of Olney, who was put up by Senator William R. McCauley; Fred W. Gee, who was named by Perry B. McCullough of Lawrenceville; A. B. Johnson of Roodhouse, who was nominated by Stuart E. Pierson of Carrolton, director of agriculture, and Judge William Mumford of Pike county, who was named by Fred Kiser of Pittsfield.

There were several other dark horses sickering in the paddock and at dewy morn candidates seemed sprouting from every bush, but when the convention got down to brass tacks only the six names were put up.

Towards the close a resolutions committee was picked, but after the final ballot a demonstration was staged for Williams, and in the hubbub Chairman June C. Smith of Centralia whanged down the gavel and the convention dispersed without troubling over resolutions.

Battle Cry sounded.

At the kickoff, however, the Republicans gave symptoms that they thought of following the lead of the Democrats in exhorting party workers to make the special election Aug. 31 a curtain raiser for the campaign of 1932.

C. J. (Tip) Doyle, Republican state chairman, in calling the delegates to order, ripped off a keynote speech. He tore into the Democrats for speaking of partisan politics at their Vandalia convention Tuesday and then chanted the praises of the Hoover administration. The Doyle keynote was taken as the battle cry for a blistering struggle between the rival organizations Aug. 31, although a judicial election generally draws a light vote.

Despite the endeavor to keep partisan politics out of judicial elections in comport with tradition, the politically minded appear set for a tug of war.

A Defy to Democrats.

"The Democrats have challenged us Republicans," cried State Chairman Doyle. "Let us accept the challenge and in August show the world that Illinois, home of Lincoln and birthplace of the Republican party, is still faithful to its traditions.

"One thing noticeable about the Democrats at Vandalia was the character of the partisan speeches. At a time when the world was hoping the great constructive program of President Hoover would bring stabilization, the Democrats a. Vandalia were dealing in partisan bitterness. Many regret that a judicial election should be set on partisan lines.

"The Democrats seem to take comfort in the business depression and hope it will continue until they are swept into office. The Republicans have a different notion. We do not believe in depression; we believe in prosperity and that it is bound to come."

Many Notables Present.

The convention drew old Republican battlers from the 21 counties in the district, among them old war horses such as A. Hanby Jones of Robinson, John J. Brown of Vandalia and Judge W. C. Hollenbeck of Marshall.

Prominent in the hall were Senators McCauley of Olney, Arthur A. Miles of Rosiclare, and Guy L. Smith of Pana.

Judge James E. McClure of Carlinville was secretary, assisted by Tom Williamson of Edwardsville, who as reading clerk at Republican national conventions used to rattle the rafters at the Coliseum in Chicago without the aid of amplifiers.

Archduke Pilots Plane for the Princess Ileana

VIENNA, July 10.—(AP)—Princess Ileana and her fiancé, Archduke Anton, today flew to the Castle Manoah to visit Queen Helen. The archduke piloted the ship.

Just to remind you

Blue Ribbon Malt has been packed full 3 lbs. for years—both plain and hop flavored. But, what is more important, is the fact that in Blue Ribbon Malt you get the best as well as the most.

It is today, as it has been for years, America's Standard of Quality, the richest, finest, all barley malt obtainable, made by the world's largest manufacturers of malt extract. And this high quality is kept uniform by constant laboratory testing.

And just as outstanding as its quality is its leadership. So many more people prefer it that Blue Ribbon Malt outsells any other brand by many millions of cans every year. It is America's Biggest Seller and Chicago's Biggest Seller.

Wherever you go, you find Blue Ribbon Malt and whenever you buy it, you find it packed full 3 lbs. to the can, both plain and hop flavored.

JURORS TO QUIZ POLICE MONDAY ON BIG INCOMES

Seek Sources of Captains' Wealth.

Assistant State's Attorney Charles J. Mueller said yesterday that the special grand jury which has been making an investigation of police graft charges will be ready on Monday to question a number of police captains. The jury has been making a systematic examination of the sources of the wealth of a number of the captains. At least twenty captains are to be called upon for explanations, Mueller stated. Those who cannot or will not explain incomes far in excess of their salaries are to be sent before the trial board, according to present plans.

Get Records from Banks.

"We have obtained the records of every bank in the city and county in which any of the police captains carried an account," Prosecutor Mueller said. "We have investigated each deposit and each withdrawal and carefully studied each monthly balance.

"We have obtained all records from brokerage concerns concerning the speculations by the captains. We have examined every transaction they have had with building and loan associations.

"The records of the recorder's office were examined for every transaction in which a police captain bought or sold a piece of real estate. We have secured lists of all captains' real estate deals registered under the Torrens system of the county recorder's office. Where rental agents were employed by police captains we have their records.

"Our present work is in putting all the records together so that we will have some kind of a balance sheet for each captain. His salary, his rents, his dividends and legitimate revenues are compared with his deposits. What we lack is a record of anything that may have gone into a safety deposit box.

To Ask Immunity Waivers.

"Every captain called before the grand jury to ran explanation will be required to sign an immunity waiver. If any refuse we will immediately notify Acting Commissioner Alcock, Major Cermak, and the civil service commission. If a captain refuses to answer questions proper action will be taken. We do not expect to get such evidence as would justify indictments, but we do hope to be able to kick a few dishonest captains off the force. If we do that we will consider it a great accomplishment.

"This grand jury was impaneled to investigate charges of crookedness in the police department. We have directed our endeavors only to the higher ups so far and when we get through with them we will decide on a future course of action."

TO BE BRIDE

DOROTHY MACKAILL.

Los Angeles, Cal., July 10.—(AP)—Dorothy Mackaill, film actress, returned from Honolulu today with the announcement she is "definitely and officially" engaged to be married to Neil Miller, Honolulu sugar man.

Miss Mackaill and Miller arrived on the same ship. They said no plans for a wedding have been made.

IDENTIFY NIAGARA VICTIM'S BODY AS SWIMMING STAR

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., July 10.—[Special.]—Emil Mende of Kitchener, marathon swimming star, lost his life in an attempt to swim the Niagara river to the American shore, it was revealed tonight, when identification was made of the body discovered in the whirlpool on Wednesday.

The body was found by William (Red) Hill, riverman, who recently negotiated the whirlpool rapids in a barrel. The provincial police have been in possession of information which pointed to the body being that of the Wrigley swimming star, but refused to admit its correctness until tonight.

WITNESS ABOUT TO BARE GRAFT KILLS HIMSELF

New York Dock Engineer Dies Under Train.

New York, July 10.—[Special.]—The key witness of the Hofstader legislative committee's investigation of the dock department committed suicide today, an hour before he was to make a clean breast of bribery and graft involving himself and other city officials. He was Traugott F. Keller, chief engineer of the dock department. He jumped in front of a subway train at the Bowling Green station and was instantly killed.

At 11 o'clock Keller was to have appeared before Counsel Samuel Seabury and Associate Counsel Henry J. A. Collins to "tell everything" about corruption in his department. He had been working up to it for three days past, successively revealing more and more about bribes he had taken, the shipping companies who gave them to get docking concessions, and the other city officials he split them with.

Ready to "Come Clean."

Just before he walked out of the investigation headquarters in the state office building yesterday afternoon he called Mr. Collins aside and told him that he had decided to "come clean" and tell everything he knew about practices of the dock department that have been under suspicion for a long time.

He had hinted more than once that he knew the identity of the "Frank Baxter" who figured in the pier lease investigation more than a year ago—the "Frank Baxter" who was supposed to have gotten the $250,000 the United American line paid former Kings County Judge W. Bernard Vause.

Today he was to have told Mr. Seabury and Mr. Collins definitely who "Baxter" was and, as far as he knew, what became of the quarter of a million dollars Vause said he passed on to "Baxter."

Tells Many Details.

On the three days this week that Keller was questioned he was examined privately by Mr. Collins and Assemblyman Hamilton F. Poter, the latter sitting as a sub-committee of one. Some of the things he is said to have told are these:

That certain shipping companies—whom he named—had paid him for favored treatment on city owned piers.

That he had split those bribes with other city officials involved. He named the officials.

That he had on at least one occasion helped a construction company to draw up plans for pier work so that it would be passed by the engineering bureau, of which he was the head.

Accountants checking over Keller's bank accounts since the dock department has been under inquiry found he had deposits of about $100,000.

LORADO TAFT MUCH BETTER BUT CRISIS IS NOT YET PASSED

Muncie, Ind., July 10.—[Special.]—The condition of Lorado Taft, 71 year old Chicago sculptor, who was stricken by a heart attack with gastro-intestinal complications Tuesday night while attempting to give a lecture at Ball State Teachers' college, took a decided turn for the better today. The upturn came suddenly after Mr. Taft had spent a night that was described as "only fair."

"Mr. Taft is much improved, although he has not passed the crisis, and, while it is too early to predict the outcome positively, I believe he will recover," said Dr. L. R. Mason, one of his physicians, late this afternoon.

Mrs. Taft, who has sat almost constantly at her husband's bedside since her arrival Wednesday, was able to take considerable rest today. There was a notable air of optimism among the physicians and cheerfulness on the part of Mr. Taft's nurses. The sculptor is said to be anxious to return home to Chicago, but physicians indicated that, even under the most favorable auspices, he could not be removed for several days.

FORMER CASHIER ADMITS TAKING $97,084 AT BANK

John Chester Vastine, former cashier of the defunct Exchange State bank of Chicago, entered a plea of guilty to a charge of embezzlement before Judge John Prystalski in the Criminal court yesterday.

Sentence was deferred until July 22 when Assistant Prosecutor Henry Ayers hopes to have in custody Roscoe H. H. Luckenbill, president of the bank, who is the object of a nation-wide search. The prosecutor charges that Luckenbill was the brains and Vastine the dupe in the operations which brought about the criminal action. Vastine's peculations amounted to $97,084.

A search for Luckenbill, in which a reward was offered for his capture, was started after the bank, located at Chicago avenue, Ogden avenue, and Wood street, was closed on Nov. 21, 1929. The two are charged with diverting money from the bank and using it in stock market manipulations which failed in the crash of the bear market.

Arrested on Charge of Impersonating Officer

Paul Meyers, 29 years old, 3039 South Union avenue, was arrested yesterday on orders of the racket bureau of the state's attorney's office, on the charge that he borrowed a Municipal court bailiff's star and impersonated an officer to repossess an automobile owned by Leo Nunley, 15 West 140th court, Riverdale. According to Assistant State's Attorney Edward L. Duffey, Meyers confessed that he also forged the name of Clerk Joseph L. Gill of the court on the affidavit of replevin which he used in seizing the car.

SHERIFF TELLS WHO RECEIVED DEPUTY STARS

Explains as City Ban Becomes Effective.

Just what distribution he has made of special deputy stars, which have drawn criticism, was explained yesterday by Sheriff Meyering.

SHERIFF MEYERING.

Mr. Meyering made his explanation as the new city ordinance prohibiting the use of "I gotta drag" stars on automobiles went into effect. Through it and a similar law passed by the general assembly—recently signed by Gov. Emmerson—it is hoped to stop "special privilege" insignia which enable possessors to defy state and city laws.

900 New Stars Purchased.

The stars issued by the sheriff do not come under the "I gotta drag" classification, he believes. He said he purchased a total of 900; half of which have been given out, or will be, to his regular deputies and to county employés. Of the other half, 176 have been distributed to "thoroughly responsible" persons, said Mr. Meyering as follows:

State's Attorney Swanson's office	30
The Secret Six	15
Special railroad police	50
Bank officials	12

Individuals who have shown that they might have legitimate occasion to use the police power resting in a deputy sheriff make up the remaining 79 star holders, said Mr. Meyering. Every person who has such a star is required to put up a $30,000 surety bond.

Asked about the 750 courtesy cards which have gone out of his office Mr. Meyering said they carried no power or influence whatever and were given "more as a means of identification than anything else."

"No one save myself has authority to issue these cards," the sheriff stated. "The county highway police under my control have been given no instructions concerning them and they do not entitle the carrier to immunity from arrest or any other privilege. I don't regard them as indicative of anything, and I make certain that the person carrying them are respectable citizens before I give them out."

Since the Cook county board refused to approve a bill for the 600 stars, Mr. Meyering said that he planned to ask each of the special deputies to pay $2 for his own star, and would present a bill for the regular employés stars at the next meeting of the board.

BEER FLAT SLAYING PROBED BY 'SCOTLAND YARD' POLICE SQUAD

Detectives from the the new "Scotland Yard" police bureau were investigating the murder yesterday of Frank Caliendo, 29 years old, owner of a beer flat at 1438 Ferdinand street, on the theory he was killed in retaliation for the murder of John [Red] Carr, another beer flat owner who was shot at Fry and May streets two weeks ago.

Caliendo, who lived at 8836 North avenue, was shot to death in the Ferdinand street flat. Frank Schults, aged caretaker of the place, said he heard a shot and looked into the barroom, which was dark, and seeing no disturbance, went back to sleep. No one was in the place except Caliendo, who he thought was asleep, he said.

Mrs. Lillian Hall, who lived with Caliendo at the North avenue address, said she went to the beer flat about 3 o'clock in the morning and was unable to get in. She then went to sleep in an automobile parked in front of the place, and at daylight went home. Clarence Stojak, 22 years old, 2633 North Merrimac avenue, was found asleep in the automobile when the murder of Caliendo was discovered. He said he had heard nothing, nor had he known that Mrs. Hall had been in the automobile with him part of the night. Mrs. Hall said she had not noticed Stojak either. Both were being held for questioning.

WOMAN IN PARTY HURT ON HOOVER RUN TO RAPIDAN

Luray, Va., July 10.—(AP)—A newspaper man and his wife, who were accompanying President Hoover and his party to the Hoover camp near here, were injured en route in an automobile accident tonight.

The chief executive was uninformed of the crash until he reached his camp, as his car was at the head of the calvacade and that in which Frank Connor, correspondent of the New York Herald-Tribune, and Mrs. Connor were riding was at the rear.

Mrs. Connor was given first aid treatment and taken to Washington, suffering with a broken collar bone and shock. Mr. Connor was only slightly scratched. The accident occurred near Fairfax, Va., about half an hour after the five automobiles left the White House for the slightly over 100 mile drive to the Rapidan camp.

Moving along between 50 and 55 miles an hour, the Connor car collided with a large bus. It was overturned twice and thrown more than 25 feet from the road.

Canada Plans Law to Make Doukhobors Wear Clothes

OTTAWA, Ont., July 10.—(AP)—An amendment to the criminal code, aimed at preventing the Doukhobors of western Canada from appearing in public almost nude, will be introduced in the house of commons shortly by Hugh Guthrie, minister of justice, he said today. The amendment provides three years' imprisonment for the offense.

UTILITIES CHIEF ASKS 12 MILLION IN LIBEL ACTION

Kansas City, Mo., July 10.—(AP)—A $12,000,000 libel suit filed today by Henry L. Doherty, utilities magnate, was met by the Kansas City Star with the statement that the newspaper would not swerve from its campaign "to get fair gas rates for domestic consumers in the cities of Kansas and Missouri."

"The Star does not propose to be intimidated into any letup in its fight to force a reduction of rates to a fair level as determined by the constituted authorities of Kansas and Missouri, the public service commissions," the newspaper said.

"It is common tactics to bring libel suits in order to bluff off aggressive newspapers that are fighting the public's battles."

Charges Personal Libel.

Doherty, head of the Cities Service company, which through various subsidiaries supplies natural gas to Kansas City and other municipalities of Missouri and Kansas, alleged the Star had libeled him personally in a series of articles attacking rates and methods of his companies.

In addition to today's $12,000,000 suit Doherty's representatives here said other damage actions would be brought against the Star.

The nature of the forthcoming litigation was not disclosed, but Doherty announced in New York several days ago he had instructed his attorneys to seek damages in behalf of the stockholders of the Cities Service company.

Sale of the company's stock, except the first preferred, has been ordered stopped in Kansas by the state securities commission and Doherty blamed the Star and Gov. Harry Woodring, whom the utilities magnate described as "a tool" of the Star, for instigating this action, which Doherty is combating in the courts.

The libel suit was based on charges published by the Star that Doherty had profited personally from an "engineering and management fee" of 1¾ per cent of the gross revenues of the subsidiary companies collected by the Cities Service company.

Denies He Gets Salary.

Doherty's petition denied that he had received any salary or income from the fees and said for many years he has received no salary as president of Cities Service or any of its affiliated concerns.

A charge in the petition that the Star and its officers "had planned and attempted to organize a competitive company to furnish natural gas in the Kansas City territory" was declared by the Star to be "preposterous and untrue."

George B. Longan, president; Roy A. Roberts, managing editor, and Frad C. Trigg, Kansas editor, all members of the board of directors of the Kansas City Star company, were named as defendants. The Star is owned entirely by members of the staff, who purchased it after the death of Laura Nelson Kirkwood, daughter of William Rockhill Nelson, the founder.

CHARGE YOUTH IS SET AFIRE IN INSURANCE PLOT

Victim Seriously Burned; Seek Policy Holder.

New York, July 10.—[Special.]—Because Earl Spencer Fox was neither a few inches taller nor shorter, nor a few pounds more or less in weight, he became the central figure today in a "horror story" that might have been created by Poe, and suffered burns which may cause his death.

Investigators are working on the theory that young Fox was the victim of an insurance plot, and that he was chosen by a man whom he resembled in the hope that his charred body would be mistaken for that of the policyholder.

Fox, whose home is in Syracuse, came to New York a week ago to look for work, and had been living on the Bowery since. Clad only in a shirt, he staggered up to a gasoline filling station in the Bronx, early today.

Set Afire, He Says.

"I was set afire in a bungalow down there. I jumped fourteen feet from a window to get out."

An interne from Fordham hospital reported that the flesh of Fox's arms and legs was badly seared. Meanwhile, detectives interviewed the burned man further, and learned the framework of his story.

He had met a man whom he believed to be Luigi Raffi on the Bowery Thursday and had been promised a job as a soda clerk, Fox said. He went with his "employer" to the latter's home in the Bronx. He had several drinks and finally fell into a deep sleep. Later he awoke and found Raffi sprinkling a liquid over the bed and about the room.

Dives Through Window.

Fox said that Raffi explained that the liquid was water "to make you cool," and again dozed. When he next awoke flames were leaping toward his body. Fox sprang from the bed, he said, and dove through a window to the street. He noticed that his trousers were blazing and tore them off.

Neighbors turned in an alarm. The fire was soon extinguished. Detectives found that runners of twisted rags, soaked in some chemical, apparently kerosene, ran from room to room, and that coats and blankets had been placed over the windows.

Detectives learned from Raffi's wife that the premises had been insured for $4,500 and that Raffi carried $2,500 in life insurance, the policy providing for double indemnity in case of accidental death.

Officers have found no trace of Raffi.

"The newspaper is an institution developed by modern civilization to present the news of the day, to foster commerce and industry, to inform and mold public opinion, and to furnish that check upon government which no constitution has ever been able to provide."

THE STRANGE CASE OF THE CHICAGO RIVER.

In the Boulder dam legislation the Colorado river assumes navigability. It is in legal theory a commercial artery of the country, carrying trade and commerce and therefore subject to improvement by the United States government. Its flood waters, when and if, may be controlled and its channel may be improved and maintained for water transport of goods. These assumptions permit the United States to undertake the construction of a dam, advancing the money for it, which will help Los Angeles and other southern California cities to a domestic water supply and an electric power development. All this—and it is virtually the only purpose of the improvement—is upon the theory that the Colorado river is being navigated. Even in first estimates the government advances will come upward of $200,000,000 and what the supplementary estimates will get to can only be guessed.

The Chicago river is a navigable stream, the northern entrance to the Illinois-Mississippi waterway to the gulf. It connects the central states with the gulf port and opens them to water carried commerce. It is recognized as the greatest development of natural resources the region has known. The expense of the Chicago and Illinois river link has been borne almost entirely by the people of the sanitary district of Chicago and the people of the state. The sanitary district expenses have been about what the federal government advances to provide Los Angeles with a water supply. The federal government will add a few million dollars to the Illinois expenditure.

The Chicago river also provides a pure water supply for Chicago. Its reversed flow keeps the lake from pollution and protects the health of the second city of the country. For this purpose and for navigation in the country's greatest waterway a diversion of water from the lake is required. Here is where the discrimination becomes notable. The government's gift to California is a prodigious appropriation which enables diversion into the water mains of cities. The gift to Chicago is a prohibition of sufficient diversion to maintain navigation and safeguard the water supply after the expense has been carried by the people themselves.

The government attitude and the Supreme court decision in this case constitute for Chicago the equivalent of a treaty of Versailles putting it in bondage. The denial of sufficient diversion for water purity is coupled with a mandate that the city shall build plants and establish a system of sewage disposal entailing a crushing burden of taxation upon a community which already has presented the nation with a great waterway and which now is beyond the limit of obtainable revenue.

Among the idiosyncrasies of governmental discrimination these distinctions between the Colorado and the Chicago rivers and the purposes they serve must remain forever notable.

GREAT AMERICANS ABROAD.

Mr. Stimson is having a triumph in Italy. He has spoken well of the Bay of Naples and the greatness of Italian culture. The Italian press responds with descriptions of the strong statesman whose daily routine sets him down to affairs of state about 5 a. m. and does not lift the hand of care from him until the people he serves have been long in bed. This gets Mr. Stimson's European trip off to a wonderful start. It will be good even without the three weeks in Scotland in August with the grouse. His legend will gather as he goes north to cross the Alps.

Mr. Mellon has gone to Cape Ferrat to pick up the tangled ends of his vacation on the French Riviera. He is visibly worn by his vigil with the reluctant French officials with whom he and Mr. Edge wrestled out the moratorium settlement. He is hailed by Europe as a magnificent old gentleman who gave the last ounce of his strength to the unexpected duties which fell on his shoulders. Bay leaves for Mr. Mellon and a rose for his idler hours.

In Berlin the enthusiasm will be satisfied with nothing less than a street for Mr. Hoover. Hooverstrasse will preserve the memory of the savior of the German republic. It comes to mind that nothing less than streets would express Italian and French regard for Mr. Wilson when that American President went to Europe to see the countries he had saved and to make a lasting and beautiful peace. A little later and the names of the streets were changed again. Where Mr. Wilson's name raised shouts of joy and adoration a dill pickle could have had more worship.

As Americans again appear on the European horizon as good and heroic, premonitions must start again at home. Mr. Stimson is great and good, Mr. Mellon is great and good, and President Hoover is great and good because the United States has surrendered $260,000,000 of revenue, but gratitude still remains a lively sense of favors to come.

HOW THE SCHOOL BOARD ECONOMIZES.

After a secret meeting of the board of education, President Myers announced that savings amounting in all to $2,162,000 had been agreed upon.

The details were left vague, but it was announced that substantially half the saving, $1,012,000, is to be achieved through increasing the number of children in each class by two and cutting a few days off the school year.

The board is faced with the task of reducing expenditures. It is notorious that the cost of operating the school plant in Chicago is substantially twice as high as it is in the dozen other largest cities in the United States. That being so, a competent school board seeking ways to economize would turn first to the costs of heating, lighting, cleaning, and repairing the schools with a view to reducing the costs that are plainly excessive.

The school children will not suffer in the least if maintenance charges are reduced to a minimum. The children will suffer materially if the size of the classes is increased again. Already, the average class in Chicago is larger than it is in other cities, and much larger than it should be in any well regulated educational system. At present there are 46 children per class. President Myers' economy program would increase the number to 48. Educators are universally agreed that a class of 30 is too large.

Children are not all alike. Their capabilities and talents differ. Some must be encouraged; others must be driven to apply themselves. It is the teacher's task to train the children in sound habits of study and work. If that training is neglected because the teacher has too many children in her charge to give them anything resembling individual attention, a great part of the possible values in an educational system is sacrificed. Bright children become listless; dull children become duller. The probability that the child will acquire bad habits is greatly increased, and in this connection it must be remembered that the habits acquired in the schoolroom are the habits which persist through life.

It may yet be found necessary to increase the size of classes to tide over the temporary financial difficulties, but that is the last measure of economy which a school board ought to consider. The fact that this board has placed it first in the list is all the proof that any one needs of the fact that the members of the board either know nothing about education or are supremely indifferent to the welfare of the children.

While the educational values of the school system are being sacrificed with a free hand, the janitorial services are being operated at a cost which represents millions of dollars of waste and the school board's business department continues to provide salaries for political refugees from the previous administration. The Cleveland Audit company recommended a saving of $514,000 in the business department. It recommended the saving of $400,000 in plant operations and $514,000 in the board's bureau of architecture. The board has paid scant attention to these recommendations which unquestionably erred on the side of conservatism. Rather than injure a discredited political faction, the board has chosen to injure the children.

THE MEXICAN INCIDENTS.

El Universal Grafico, a publication of Mexico City, remarks that recent incidents in the United States prove the dislike of Americans for Mexicans. The thought is natural but not realistic. One episode was the killing of two Mexican youths, one a nephew of the president of Mexico, a short time back by a deputy sheriff near Ardmore, Okla. Another was the jailing of the acting consul of Mexico in Chicago by a Municipal court judge. Neither affair proved anything of the feelings of the people.

The Oklahoma deputy would have shot an American or two Americans just as willingly as he shot the unfortunate Mexicans. Enforcement officers have killed Canadians with the same unconcern. In this there is no most favored country unless it should be the United States itself, but there is no evidence that law officers discriminate at all. They actually kill more Americans, but that is because they see more of them. It is not apparent that they prefer Americans. The nationality is merely one of the discoveries in identification made after the shooting.

The incident in the Chicago court has had its judicial reversal without much clearing up of facts. The federal government is asked to apologize in this case as it did in the Oklahoma murder and may do so. Mexico should reflect that the federal government has not apologized to the families of any of the American victims of law enforcement manslaughter, which would indicate that if there is any ill feeling it is not against Mexicans but against Americans. At the particular moment of the judicial episode the judge, it may be taken for granted, would have comported himself toward the British or the French consul just as he did toward the Mexican.

Editorial of the Day

AND THEN THE TRUTH CAME HOME.

[Detroit News.]

Of late the truth appears to be finding acceptance that the government of the United States costs money and that this cost is paid by the people of the United States. Time was when the support of the government at Washington, paid by so-called "indirect" taxation, was regarded by Mr. Average Citizen as negligible.

Something of this ingrained notion came to have its influence upon the attitude of the taxpayers toward the state. Of course, every one knew that there were state laws, but they, too, did not bulk large among the listings of the tax bill.

And so came the practice of "shifting" tax burdens. Groups and organizations that had "programs" sought aid of the federal government to lighten the burdens of the states. Uncle Sam would give dollar for dollar for every sum appropriated by the states. It became a popular plan. Nothing could be better calculated to inspire the making of big appropriations, for "If we put up a million, the government will give us a million, and thus we get two for one."

It worked so well that the counties began to try it. "If we put up a million, the state will give us a million," what a fine way to get "something for nothing." And the townships heard of it. And they began to put up money if the county would help them out, "dollar for dollar." The phrase begins to rhyme like a popular song.

And then, all of a sudden, the truth came home that those obligated to pay all those dollars, township, county, state and federal, are we, the people of the United States, who form this more perfect union. Economic truths have a way of becoming unpleasant like that.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may. RAE

AS SOMETHING ELSE to talk about besides the moratorium and prohibition people have turned in desperation to discussing whether the w. k. lost dauphin of France, son of Louis XVI. and Marie Antoinette (deceased), died in his prison in the Temple, as history says, or was spirited away to Canada, married, and his descendants became honored citizens of South Carolina. If this were the winter time we might permit ourselves to get all worked up to a high pitch over the lost dauphin, but, being summer, we decline to get excited. Anyhow, even if the dauphin did escape to Canada, the fact that he was born the 27th of March, 1785, would argue that he is in all probability quite dead at this time. It looks like a press agent's story to attract American tourists to Canada for their vacation this summer. Just as though Canada didn't have enough attractions, both in quart and pint sizes, without dragging in the poor little dauphin.

ABORIGINE.

MAHATMA GANDHI says he is not coming to America to plead for India's freedom. He probably fears the competition; there are so many around the world airplane heroes landing these days that a martyr wouldn't be given a look unless he was burned at the stake, and then nobody would hear him unless he made his last anguished howls over the radio. And he would have to be introduced by a radio announcer, and that's something that even a martyr would dread.

IVAN DHROSKY REPORTS.

Ivan Dhrosky, high imperial agent of the Russian Secret Office, reported to M. Offski in the home office: ". . . and I am glad to report that conditions in America are very bad." "That's very gratifying," replied M. Offski. "And just how bad are they?" "Well, they are awful bad," whispered Ivan Dhrosky. "I understand that three weeks ago all the American schools closed down." "No!" exclaimed M. Offski. "Yes," said Ivan Dhrosky. "But that is not all: M. Lenin's idea of a larger golf ball for the American consumer has worked out splendidly; locker rooms are rapidly filling with an oversupply of American made golf strokes and the market is already glutted." "You don't say so!" ejaculated M. Offski. "I do say so," said Ivan Dhrosky, "—and another thing: our five year mouse plan is functioning perfectly. I saw mice in every American city I visited. Smart manufacturers are moving to the woods and building mouse trap factories; however, just as soon as they are running at full capacity Russia will act accordingly and cut off her supply of mice." "That is indeed interesting," said M. Offski, "—but tell me: is our ten year radio plan working out successfully?" "Quite so," replied Ivan Dhrosky. "Every hour more and more American people are going crazy while listening in, and I think a few thousand rubles and kopeks distributed among the entertainers will increase the noise to its maximum capacity." "You don't say so," said M. Offski. "Indeed, yes, I do say so." replied Ivan Dhrosky, "—and another thing: the twelve year Sunday paper plan will not take over four; the Sunday editions of the American newspapers are getting bigger." "Are they being scattered sheet by sheet all over the American home?" interrupted M. Offski. "They are," replied Ivan Dhrosky; "and the American woodshed and the American attic and the American cellar are filling rapidly. One Sunday edition will now reach from the front door of the American home, down the hall, through the living room, and around the dining room table twice." "And how far," put in M. Offski, "will the Sunday roast beef in the American home go?" "In the matter of roast beef the Russian government has failed," said Ivan Dhrosky. "The Sunday roast beef in the American home will hardly go around the dining room table once." "You don't say so!" cried M. Offski. "Yes, I do say so," responded Ivan Dhrosky. ORACLE.

THE NEW BALLOON GOLF BALL is a washout. We arrive at this decision after carefully interviewing one hundred golfers and golferesses. Those whose game is off this summer say it's the fault of the new ball; those whose game is better this year than it's ever been say, "Oh gosh, I'd be international champion this year if we still used the old ball."

MUSSOLINI'S PLAY, "The Hundred Days," woven around Napoleon, which was a big hit in Italy, is to be presented in London. It may not go so well there because, of course, you must admit that a play has a better chance of success when the author is in a position to throw the critics into jail. Here's a chance for some smart London paper to create a little excitement by hiring Smedley Butler for its dramatic critic the night the Duce's play opens.

GOOD-BY, THYMUS WORRIES.

As some new diseases come in there are others that disappear. Of these, one that appears to be headed for the scrap heap is status lymphaticus.

Located behind the topmost part of the breastbone of a baby there is a structure commonly called the thymus gland. This gland was supposed to belong to the group of ductless glands. It was supposed to have something to do with starting the new born babe in the proper way. Largest at birth, it gradually decreased in size and, finally, disappeared about the time growth was attained.

Nobody was ever very certain as to just when it disappeared, since nobody could be sure as to whether the supposed remnants of thymus were such, or were only ordinary lymph glands. When X-ray pictures became available, enlarged thymus as a menace to health and life seemed to call for new interest. Pictures often showed a large shadow behind the upper part of the breastbone. When this shadow was seen it was customary to explain to the parents that this might endanger the life of the child, and a few X-ray treatments were advised. When these treatments were given the shadows decreased in size and the danger was supposed to have passed.

The risk from enlarged thymus and persisting thymus glands was that they were thought to be the cause of status lymphaticus, and this condition, in turn, was supposed to be the cause of sudden death. Young babies sometimes die without any demonstrable cause. Even grown people sometimes die suddenly for no ascertainable reason. Sudden and unexpected death sometimes follows the use of anesthetics. In such cases it has been customary to say that the cause was status lymphaticus and, oftentimes, the explanation runs back of that to some alleged disorder of the thymus gland.

A report made by the Medical Research Council of Great Britain says that there is no such condition as status lymphaticus. There may be no such gland as a thymus. It is true that there is a mass behind the upper breastbone in a young baby, but this seems to be simply a cluster of lymph gland tissue, similar to an enlarged adenoid or tonsil. This lump of lymph gland tissue in the upper chest does no special harm and tends to disappear spontaneously.

There is no particular reason for treating it with X-rays. A baby with an adenoid shadow back of his breastbone is in no great danger of dying suddenly. If death does occur without warning the state should not be called status lymphaticus and further study dropped. It is sometimes possible to find a reason.

Animal breeders have found that when a mother animal has young that perish without known cause the probable explanation is improper feeding.

IRON FOR RHEUMATISM.

G. J. N. writes:

1. What foods contain iron chiefly?
2. Is iron needed in cases of rheumatism?
3. By what test can one determine amount of iron in the system?
4. Should strawberries and tomatoes be avoided in rheumatism?

REPLY.

1. The foods richest in iron are liver, tripe, kidney, heart, bone marrow, yellow of egg, oatmeal, cracked wheat, whole grain breads, molasses, peas, beans, spinach, chard, and greens.
2. Yes.
3. A test of the coloring matter in the blood.
4. No.

CALOMEL AND SULPHATE OF ATROPIN.

E. E. E. writes:

1. Please write about calomel. What will it do for one in the course of time if taken about once or twice a week?
2. Also, please write on sulphate of atropin.

REPLY.

1. Taking calomel about once a week causes constipation. It may cause mercury poisoning, pyorrhea, and some other disorders. It is useless as well as harmful.
2. Sulphate of atropin is a very strong drug. In minute doses it enters into the combinations called laxative pills and after-dinner pills. Physicians use the drug in full doses for a few disorders. It is much too powerful to be carelessly or ignorantly used.

TUMOR MAY BE CAUSE.

Mrs. D. D. J. writes: What are some possible causes of bloody urine? The person examined is a woman 73 years of age who is apparently well except for several attacks of this hematuria.

REPLY.

Close search should be made for a cause. The best guess is that there is a tumor somewhere. It might be nothing more than a vegetation, something like a wart. A varicose vein is another possibility. Also, ulcer. A possible cause is hypernephroma, a kidney tumor. Stone is a possibility.

GYPPED.

Chicago, July 3.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—1. Is there any law by which one could make a man take property back that has been sold for more than it is worth? 2. The man retained a good sized piece of land covered with trees that belonged originally with the sold property? 3. My father was past 60 years of age when he bought this land and not well acquainted with laws and prices? 4. If there is such a law is there any way besides hiring a lawyer, or fighting it out in court, that the man can be forced to take back his property?

1. This fact alone would not give the buyer relief.
2. You do not state that there was any misrepresentation. In general, a purchaser is supposed to read the deed by which he takes title.
3. This fact might be material if you could show affirmative misrepresentation or concealment.

MORE FACTS NEEDED.

Chicago, July 3.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—1. May holder of a matured $500 first mortgage note, unmatured balance $29,500 held by others, foreclose? 2. What percentage of total must join in action? 3. May minority past holder obtain judgment, ignoring security, and garnishee? The property has a fair income. 4. Which of the two actions is the more preferable? 5. Would either of the above actions be detrimental to the unmatured holders and would the actions subject the said holder to any financial burdens, not considering cost of actions, to protect remaining holders? 16 YEARS AGO TODAY

JULY 11, 1915.

VERA CRUZ.—Mexico City has fallen. Gen. Gonzales this afternoon advised Gen. Carranza that his forces had killed 2,000 and captured 3,000 Zapatistas.

ROCHESTER, N. Y.—Archbishop James Edward Quigley of the Chicago diocese of the Roman Catholic church, died at the home of his brother, Joseph N. Quigley, chief of the Rochester police force. The end came quickly, the prelate being unconscious for several hours before he passed away. Chief Quigley, Mrs. Quigley, Sister Vincent de Paul of Ogdensburg, N. Y., a sister who is a member of the order of Gray Nuns, and two nephews, the Rev. Raymond Quigley and the Rev. John E. Masseth, were at his bedside at the time of death. The body will lie in state at St. Patrick's cathedral tomorrow and a special funeral train carrying the body will arrive in Chicago on July 12. The funeral will take place on July 15 in Chicago in the Cathedral of the Holy Name. Archbishop Quigley was born in the village of Oshawa, Ontario, on Oct. 15, 1855. He was made archbishop on Dec. 15, 1902.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Nearly $500,000 fell into the hands of the bandits who held up the New York-New Orleans Limited on the Louisville and Nashville railroad at Greenville, Ala., treasury officials said tonight. Officials here believed the haul to be the biggest of any train robbery in history.

CHICAGO.—Yesterday was the hottest day in Chicago's history. At 2 p. m. the thermometer stood at 101, at 3 o'clock at 102, and at 4 and 5 o'clock at 100. Then in a sensational acrobatic performance it dropped to 66 degrees, with a sharp veering of the wind from west to northeast. Thirty prostrations were reported.

CHICAGO.—[Extra]—Thomas Robinson of State and Oak streets, and William Richardson of 351 Elm street were seriously injured in the wreck of an automobile early this morning at Clark and Superior streets. It is feared Mr. Robinson is dying at Alexian Brothers hospital. The wrecked auto remained in the street as a curious sight to pedestrians.

ST. PAUL.—The state pardon board approved the parole of Coleman and James Younger, who have been in Stillwater penitentiary for the last 25 years for complicity in the robbery and murder at the time of the bandit raid on the Northfield, Minn., bank. The Youngers, five of them, were the chosen allies and associates of the James boys. They began their careers as members of Quantrell's band of guerrillas during the civil war and Cole and James were in nearly every one of the desperate battles fought. When peace came the Younger and James boys turned to a career as highwaymen and perpetrated a series of sensational bank robberies. Eight men participated in the attempted robbery at Northfield, the two James brothers, the three Youngers, Charles Pitts, Clell Miller and Bill Chadwell. They entered the town firing indiscriminately at all passersby. In the battle with citizens that followed Chadwell and Miller were killed and all the others wounded. The Youngers were captured but Jesse and Frank James escaped.

WASHINGTON.—For the first time since President Garfield was shot his doctors admit he has an even chance to live. They are vastly encouraged by signs of improvement. Dr. D. W. Bliss said the President is better than he has been at any time since he was shot and every day and hour adds to the hopes of his recovery. Dr. Bliss said, however, that he does not believe that the danger period has passed and expressed the opinion that it will not pass for a week. The 7 p. m. bulletin gave the President's pulse as 108, temperature 100.9 and respiration 24.

WASHINGTON.—Refusal of the authorities to furnish Charles J. Guiteau, who shot President Garfield, any information concerning the President's condition is affecting the assassin's spirits. District Attorney Corkhill said that for the first time Guiteau had passed a bad and restless night.

CHICAGO.—Ministers in nearly all of Chicago's churches preached sermons yesterday on the attempted murder of the President. Notable along this line were the discourses of the Rev. T. R. Strobridge at the Park Avenue Methodist church, Bishop Cheney at Christ church, the Rev. George R. Van Horne at the Michigan Avenue Methodist Episcopal church, the Rev. J. H. Walker at the Campbell Park Presbyterian church, and the Rev. E. C. Oggel at the Westminster Presbyterian church.

CHICAGO. — The second annual meeting of the Rabbinical Literary Society of the United States, an organization composed of Jewish rabbis of the country, opened in the lecture room of Sinai temple, Indiana avenue and 21st street, with Dr. Lilienthal, the president of the society, in the chair. The meeting will continue three days.

WISCONSIN LAWMAKERS.

Chicago, July 6.—In your editorial dated July 6, under the heading "Wisconsin Lawmakers," there appeared a statement to the effect that the only utilities act adopted by the legislature during the year to direct and control public utilities was the act permitting municipalities to enter the power and light business. This act, as was correctly stated, must be approved by the legislature in 1933 and submitted for approval upon referendum. However, the statement to the effect that it was the sum total of the vigorous campaign to direct and control public utilities is almost unbelievable in view of the actual facts and the other important and far reaching laws bearing upon public utility regulation which were enacted during the session.

Perhaps the most significant of the laws adopted during the year bearing upon public utilities was the Duncan bill. This act revises the railroad commission act and confers upon the commission control over the operations of holding and managament companies. Many other vital and necessary additions to the jurisdiction and powers of the commission were also adopted by the same bill. Another joint resolution authorized municipalities to exceed their existing limit of bonded indebtedness in acquiring public utilities. This resolution, since it was approved by the 1929 legislature, must now only receive the approval of the voters upon referendum in 1932.

Two other laws sponsored by the administration were also approved. One provides for the creation of the "Public Utility Corporation of Wisconsin." This corporation may purchase, acquire, or lease public utilities, including street and interurban railways. The last bill provides for the organization of public utility districts, which authorizes several localities owning utilities to serve their intervening territory.

In addition to these achievements THE TRIBUNE might well have noted that the governor has secured one of the ablest and most effective public service commissions since the origin of centralized public utility regulation by means of an administrative body of experts.

HARRY R. BOOTH.

THE GO-GETTER'S RESPONSIBILITY.

Chicago, June 25.—In all the profound [as well as half baked] opinions expressed by the nation's soothsayers on the subject of the depression, one notices a surprising lack of allusion to the part contributed by high pressure salesmanship.

Obviously, the captains of industry would want to steer clear of this phase of possible causes in their oracular pronouncements. However, the economists are generally considered to be in a position which will allow them to express opinions that are wholly disinterested, or at least opinions which involve no fear of self-incrimination. This being so, one wonders why, in their public utterances, they have not touched upon this particular subject. A little reflection upon the extent to which dynamic persuasiveness was practiced during the years following the war will surely suggest a probable connection with the present economic state of affairs.

While on the subject of scientific elimination of sales resistance the writer would like to ask: What has become of the go-getters of recent years? Can it be that they are in seclusion, busily engaged in perfecting bigger and better methods to be used when the fog bank of Hoover prosperity shall have lifted?

AROUND THE WORLD.

Fontana, Wis., July 1.—Have Harold Gatty and Wiley Post succeeded in making an around the world flight? By looking at the map on the back of today's TRIBUNE one wouldn't doubt that they have circled the arctic circle. In other words, they made an around the north pole flight. If I were to make an around the world flight I would follow the equator and nothing but the equator. There can never be a Magellan of the air if they cannot take the longest route around the world.

EUSEBIO R. AGUIRRE.

A NATION OFFENDED.

Chicago, July 2.—The action of Judge Green, who yesterday sentenced Mexican Consul Adolfo Domingues to six months' imprisonment on a charge of contempt, is a piece of unmitigated stupidity. This incident, coupled with the murder of two young Mexicans recently in one of our southern states, will do more toward impairing our relations with the Mexican populace than all of Mr. Lindbergh's aerial flirtations and Mr. Morrow's political shuffling.

A parallel situation involving an American consul in exactly such circumstances in some foreign country would raise the very dickens among our ears hundred per centers. We owe Mexico an apology, and Judge Green owes Adolfo Domingues more than an apology. The latter is a cultured individual of excellent character, finely educated, tolerant, and a gentleman in every respect. Both he and his country have suffered an injustice for which amends must be made. GEORGE BRONSON.

FROM THE TEACHERS' UNIONS.

Chicago, July 7.—The teachers' unions of Chicago desire to express appreciation of the confidence in the Chicago teaching force shown by THE TRIBUNE in its editorial, "The Unpaid Teacher," published on July 3.

The fair and generous recognition accorded the teachers in the first two paragraphs of this editorial convinces us that the later statements, to which we take exceptions, are due to misunderstanding of some essential phases of the situation.

For example, the editorial mentions the activities of only one teacher organization, and that one for the last fifteen years has not been affiliated with labor, yet it places the responsibility for the activities of that one group upon all Chicago teachers.

Moreover, not all the teachers were deluded by the promises of politicians, but even if this had been so, the fundamental causes of the financial debacle of Cook county were far beyond the control either of the teachers or of local governing bodies.

Finally, we desire once more to call your attention to the fact previously presented to you in our letter of May 14 that the teacher unions, some of which have been organized for the last eighteen years, and all of which are affiliated with labor, have never allied themselves with any political party or faction, and have never indorsed any candidate for political office.

SUMMER IN CHURCH.

Chicago, July 6.—I am just wondering whether some ministers belong to a labor union. Yesterday my wife and I entered a church with the hope of getting the usual order of summer service. The temperature was 72. This is what we got: One hymn, one prayer, one solo, one sermon (it was good but very short), and one collection. After the sermon the minister said: "This is the end of the service; you may go home." I was astounded. Not even a benediction, no closing hymn, no postlude. What's the big idea? Am I old-fashioned?

Ministers are always complaining that too many pews are empty. I believe a full service, without any cutouts, will do the trick.

When I go to church I want everything from prelude to postlude. They get my money, don't they?

LEGAL OPPORTUNITY.

Chicago, July 2.—Wouldn't it pay some bright lawyer to organize the small bondholders in the defunct apartment buildings of Chicago and make it possible for them to act as a unit in the protection of their holdings instead of handing them over to the people who profit by squeezing them out? A. H.

TERMINAL PLAN GOES TO COUNCIL; SUPPORT ASKED

Reveal Rail Presidents Not Consulted.

The plan of the city council railway terminals committee, providing for two new south side stations to accommodate the railroads now using four outworn terminals, was submitted to the council yesterday and was ordered published.

Copies of the plan, with charts and tables showing the proposed improvements, will be delivered to all aldermen, to the railroad officials, and to civic and improvement organizations and interested citizens.

Rail Heads Not Consulted.

It was revealed yesterday that none of the railroad presidents or terminal engineers was consulted by the committee's engineer, Edward J. Noonan, in the preparation of the plan. At present the proposal is sponsored solely by the committee, and after consideration by the entire council it probably will become the official terminal plan of the city government.

Ald. Oscar Nelson [46th], chairman of the railway terminals committee, in presenting the report to the council yesterday, stated that he hoped every alderman would make himself familiar with the plan and would support it.

"Then we can call in the railroads," Mr. Nelson said, "and say to them: 'Here is our plan, what are your objections?' And if they have no criticism, than we shall be in a position to insist that the plan be adopted and put into operation."

Gorman Refuses to Talk.

Thomas Gorman, president of the Rock Island lines, who has acted as chairman of the railway executives in the terminals conferences, was asked for comment on the plan yesterday.

"Why," he said, "I know nothing about it. I have just read it in the newspapers and so you know as much about the plan as I do."

Asked what steps the railroads would take to consider the plan, Mr. Gorman declined to make answer.

Noonan Explains Purpose.

The purpose of the council committee in preparing its own plan, independent of what plans the railroads may be formulating, was explained by Engineer Noonan. He said the railroads had been figuring on plans which were prohibitive in cost, and that the committee had determined that a feasible plan could be worked out at a cost which would be not unreasonable for the railroads to bear. Mr. Noonan said the committee's plan would allow the two new stations to be built at a cost of between 20 and 25 million dollars, and that this sum could be raised by the railroads without great difficulty, even in these depressed times.

Plan to Handle Freight.

The railroad engineers have been speaking of plans to spend 120 to 140 millions, Mr. Noonan declared. "But these plans have included the handling of freight in the downtown terminal area. They have included in their figure costs of improvements south to 34th street, and from Canal street to the river. There is no necessity for doing the whole job at once. Our plan provides for handling passengers, and doing it efficiently. There is no need for meeting the entire problem at once."

Under the committee's plan, a new station will be erected on the present site of the Illinois Central station at Park row, and another station will be built on Harrison street, between La Salle and Wells streets. The old La Salle street, Grand Central and Dearborn street stations will be razed.

SERRITELLA AND HOCHSTEIN WILL GET EARLY TRIAL

CRIMINAL COURT.

Senator Daniel Serritella, former city sealer and a lieutenant of Al Capone, and Harry Hochstein, his former assistant in the sealer's office, were charged with conspiracy against the public in indictments returned yesterday before Acting Chief Justice Gorman Sabath of the Criminal court.

Both were released on bonds of $5,000. They denied all charges, and said that "politics" was back of the action against them, and said they wanted an early trial. Assistant State's Attorneys Harold Keele and Harry B. Seyfarth said the pair would be brought to trial shortly.

The true bills were voted by the grand jury Thursday night. The indictments are the result of an investigation of the sealer's office under the new administration and charge conspiracy to obstruct justice through failure to prosecute merchants giving short weight and measure, conspiracy to obtain money under false pretense, and conspiracy to defraud the public.

Daughter of Millionaire Lumberman Asks Divorce

Mrs. Dorothy B. Pole, daughter of Edward E. Bartelme, millionaire president of the Keith Lumber company, filed suit for divorce yesterday in the Circuit court against James S. Pole, former engineer for the Chicago & North Western railroad. She charged that he committed adultery with one Jane B. McCormick of Evanston on last New Year day and with other women on various other occasions. The couple, married Nov. 15, 1927, separated on July 1, and Mrs. Pole is living with her parents at 1214 Sheridan road, Winnetka.

Hundred Unable to Identify Body of Lake Victim

The body of a well dressed man in middle age, found a week ago in the lake, remained unidentified yesterday while police continued their efforts to learn his name. Nearly 100 persons have visited the undertaking rooms on Broadway to view the body, but so far no clew to his identity has been found. The man is about 5 feet 10 inches tall, weighs 165 pounds. Police found a paper which showed he had visited a dentist at 24th and Wentworth, Milwaukee.

YOUTH KILLED

JOHN DEMKO.

John Demko, 20 years old, 5040 South Maplewood avenue, was shot and killed last night near his home. Soon afterward the police started a search for Peter Veslincko, 23 years old, 2140 West 50th street, a rejected suitor of the victim's sister, Anna Demko.

Anna's engagement to John Patrick was recently announced and a shower in her honor was held at the Demko home on Thursday. Young Demko and Polly Gallient, 18 years old, 5037 South Maplewood avenue, were discussing the party last night when Veslincko approached and roughly ordered the girl to go home.

"I want to talk to John," he said.

Polly had reached the steps of her home when she heard three shots fired. She ran back to find Demko dying on the sidewalk. Veslincko had fled. Relatives of the slain youth said that Veslincko had called Anna a few days ago and told her he was going to break both her legs and then kill her.

NORWAY CLAIMS GREENLAND AREA HELD BY DENMARK

OSLO, Norway, July 10.—The Norwegian government late tonight proclaimed the annexation of an area lying between 75.40 degrees and 71.30 degrees north latitude on the coast of east Greenland, thereby precipitating a controversy with Denmark which will have to be ended by the world court at The Hague.

After a five and a half hour cabinet meeting, to which King Haakon was summoned hurriedly from his summer palace, a communique was issued announcing that Norway had resolved to annex the desolate coast line, which it considers a "no man's land," and in no way under Danish jurisdiction. Denmark has claimed sovereignty over the land in question for many years. The Norwegian action was based on the fact that an expedition of Norwegians recently planted their flag in the contested area.

Negotiations Broken Off.

Following announcement of the annexation a statement was handed to the Danish minister, Oldenburg, with an intimation that Norway now considered its negotiations with Denmark in connection with the dispute over the area broken off.

"The annexation we are affecting is purely technical," he explained tonight. "It is taken with a view to future proceedings at The Hague. I am afraid our procedure will be misunderstood in Denmark and I am determined to do all I can to prevent ill will between us."

[Copyright: 1931: By the New York Times.]

COPENHAGEN, Denmark, July 10.—Peter Munch, Danish foreign minister, announced tonight that Denmark would lodge a complaint with the world court against the Norwegian occupation of East Greenland. Denmark regards this as a clear violation of the Danish-Norwegian treaty of 1924.

"On our part," he said, "we have endeavored up to the very last to meet Norway's wishes and thus prevent a step of such irregular character as has just been taken.

"Of course we must stand by our rights. It would have been far better if the two nations could have gone to The Hague by mutual consent. The procedure Norway has chosen will not strengthen her case. Naturally it will cause bitterness in Denmark, but it must be hoped that the ties relating us so closely will prove strong enough to withstand this crisis."

Wallace Wins $5,000 from Lewis Gold

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, July 10.—Edgar Wallace, England's prolific writer of detective stories, plays, and articles on dog racing, was awarded $5,000 damages today against Lewis Goldfiam, author, in a libel suit today. Goldfiam sent out copies of a letter written to Wallace to newspapers, alleging that the latter's play, "The Caldendar," had been copied from Goldfiam's book, "Love de Fool," which was published in 1928. Wallace was awarded damages on the evidence that the play appeared before Goldfiam's book.

MICHIGAN FINDS ALL WELL WITH TOURIST TRADE

Expects Repetition of Invasion Last Year.

BY HAL FOUST.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Lakeview, Mich., July 10.—[Special.]—The Michigan Tourist and Resort association, following a three day tour with association of commerce and newspaper men through the woods and lakes region of the northern part of the state, concluded today that the 1931 tourist season will bring into Michigan more than the $300,000,000 which set a record in 1930.

"Other industries may still be suffering from the general slack," said Henry H. Turner, of Grand Rapids, in charge of the tour, "but the business of catering to the pleasure motorist continues to grow as roads and automobiles continue to improve. The fishing lodges, the lake hotels and the golf links are receiving a heavy patronage, much of it from Chicagoans. This means a lot to Michigan where the tourist trade is second in importance only to the manufacture of motor cars."

No Limit on Speed.

THE TRIBUNE'S road car was one of six automobiles that made up the recent association's motorcade. As testimony corroborating Mr. Turner's statement about the development of roads and motors it might be told that the management of the tour took full advantage of Michigan's law limiting the maximum speed to that consistent with safety. The half dozen machines swung over hills, through woods and around lakes at between sixty and seventy miles an hour.

After traveling up the coast of Lake Michigan on Wednesday and Thursday, the party turned around at Mackinaw City to spend last night in a cluster of log cabins on Bellaire lake, one of the twenty six lakes in Antrim county, divided by hills and with dense growths of pines, maples, beaches, and birch. Sleep was under double blankets with the thermometer registering 44 degrees when some of the party returned from a moonlight trout casting expedition.

Reforestation Program Started.

The route led south from Bellaire, on the dustless gravel of Michigan-66, through stumped hills where once there was a mighty forest. The state of Michigan has two million acres of such land, acquired mainly through tax defaults, and is working on a reforestation program.

Nine miles from Lake City, the party visited a peculiar mound, circular in shape, about six feet high and about a hundred feet in diameter, recently acquired by the University of Michigan for archeological exploration. It is presumed that the mound was built by a race, now extinct which preceded the Indians in this country.

The location and marking of such places of interest to visiting motorists was the main purpose of the resort association's three-day tour. Historical and legendary data were gathered from local residents along the route. The information will be submitted to the Michigan historical association for verification and then recommendations will be made to the highway department for marking the places.

ROBINSON HINTS WAR ON TARIFF AT NEXT SESSION

Little Rock, Ark., July 10.—(AP)—Senator Robinson [Dem., Ark.] today answered a challenge of Senator Watson [Rep., Ind.] by announcing that "an earnest effort" will be made to reduce tariff rates when congress convenes in December.

JOSEPH T. ROBINSON.

Senator Watson last night challenged the Democratic leader to "assume the leadership in a fight to make a 'serious revision' of the present tariff law."

"I feel justified in replying," Senator Robinson said here today, "that when the congress convenes an earnest effort will be made to reduce tariff rates which, in the sound judgment of business men and economists, have tended to restrict foreign markets for American products and to inspire retaliatory measures on the part of foreign countries."

Senator Robinson, in his statement, said that present tariff rates are "important factors in causing the existing depression."

Herman Oker, 632 Arlington place, was released by Judge Matthew Hartigan yesterday when he convinced the judge that he was an artist and that it was hunger that drove him to attempt to pass stage money for the real article. Oker had given Henry Ornstein, a jeweler at 650 Maxwell street, two fake $100 bills, used for display purposes, in exchange for a ring. As Oker walked out Ornstein discovered he had been duped and ran into the street screaming "Phoney money! Phoney money." Other merchants in the Maxwell street neighborhood came running and pounced upon the artist. The [illegible]

in Jackson park which, is to house the museum of science and industry, is 97.5 per cent finished. This was reported yesterday at the offices of the south park board.

The south park commissioners are expected to consider the specifications for the interior finish of the building, and to call for bids on that work, at their meeting July 18. It will take another year to complete the building, architects said.

The model yacht sailing basin, a pool approximately 300 by 500 feet, at Hyde Park boulevard and the outer drive, has been completed and is open to the public, park authorities announced. It is designed for sailing contests of model boats.

World Authors Discuss Peace at The Hague

BY FANNY BUTCHER.

THE HAGUE.—[Special Correspondence.]—The ninth annual congress of the P. E. N. was presented with practically the entire key ring of Holland when 366 members of the writing fraternity from thirty-one countries spent June 22 and 23 in The Hague and Rotterdam and June 25 and 26 in Amsterdam. It was indeed a congress of letters—and languages. Everything that was discussed in the congress—officially—was said in three languages: English, French, and German. Everything that was said unofficially hurtled out in dialects that would be a foundation for a school of languages.

All of the obvious countries were represented: The United States, Great Britain and its overseas dominions of Australia and Canada, Germany, Austria, Belgium, France, Denmark, Hungary, Holland, Italy, Poland, Portugal, Czecho-Slovakia, Sweden, and Switzerland. Besides those there were delegates from Argentina, Bulgaria, China, Esthonia, Finland, Iceland, Lithuania, Palestine, Rumania, and there were six members of a Central Yiddish club.

The tenor of the official meetings was all toward the furtherance of international peace, as was to be expected, for the P. E. N. was founded on that corner stone. One of the most important of the resolutions adopted was to the effect that the members expressed their "profound disapproval of every kind of brutal violence and especially of war." They hoped for the establishment of permanent peace.

The principal figure of the meeting was, of course, John Galsworthy, honorary president. The afternoon that I arrived I went to call on Mr. and Mrs. Galsworthy. They graciously insisted on my dining with them. There was a long official evening ahead of every one, starting at 7:30 [the Dutch dine early] and every one was dashing from a vast tea through a hasty dinner. At our little table for four we whizzed through one of the long Dutch dinners—at which there always appear two kinds of meat. That gives a rough idea of the other proportions of the meal. The Galsworthys were not able to stay for the entire congress, for after having received five honorary degrees at various times Mr. Galsworthy was to be presented with a sixth by his own college, Oxford, on a date that came during the congress.

He grows more and more into the classic form of a great English country gentleman, one of the pillars of a civilization. He is the personification of what makes England a great civilization. He is gentle, quiet, a little remote from human foibles, and somehow very right and very real. The passion of his life is, as was shown by his recent lecture trip in America, the preservation of permanent peace.

The evening's entertainment consisted in a theatrical performance at Scheveningen, the seaside resort just outside The Hague. The most amusing event of the evening was a play written for the occasion and produced by what certainly were the greatest linguistic actor and actress on any stage. Everything which they said was spoken in the three official languages of the congress and the flow of the drama was never interrupted. At the end the remarkable linguists welcomed the members of the congress in every language represented.

We saw at the reception which followed the American delegate, Mr. Alfred Dashiell, editor of Scribner's Magazine, and his delightful wife, both of them so friendly and charming that before the congress was over they had a pocketful of cards and invitations to all parts of the civilized world. The Americans were a curiosity to some of the delegates, I am sure. "Peaux rouges" they expected us to be—really redskins. To find us looking and acting if not talking just like themselves was a great surprise.

I saw there, too, Rene Fülop Miller and his wife. Herr Fülop Miller spent much of last year in the United States and is going back this fall. Hollywood interested him very much, and he still remembers the afternoon when I took him to the Tribune tower and presented him with Chicago in panorama. He still does not speak English although he understands it. Mme. Fülop Miller is likely to be shanghaied by the Hollywood producers. I never have seen such lovely limpid blue eyes—the true Viennese type, with infinite charm. Her husband was one of the two guests of honor from Austria. Jakob Wassermann was the other one. And Felix Salten was one of the official delegates.

All three of them have been in America comparatively recently. Herr Wassermann I remember talking to one blustery day in a suite at the Drake hotel. He was distracted by our language, our climate and our rush. He made a speech at the banquet on June 24.

Schalom Asch also spoke at the banquet—in Yiddish—which was not comprehensible to as many as it might have been. He was the guest of honor of the Central Yiddish center. Herr Wassermann also spoke, as did others whose names are known to American readers, Mme. Jo Van Ammers-Kuller, who was the secretary of the congress and is one of the two best known Dutch women novelists. A book seller in The Hague told us that Ina Boudier-Bakker was considered by the Dutch themselves as a greater portrayer of Dutch character. She has not been translated into English, however. She is from Utrecht and her greatest piece of work is a vast novel called "De Klop op de Deur," the Knock on the Door, it would be in English.

Mrs. C. A. Dawson Scott was the founder of the P. E. N. and she was called "Mother Pen" in the meetings, as if she had founded a new religion. I was much amused one morning when she came up to me and said "I am Mother Pen and you are one of my daughters whom I do not know. I know who you are, though, and want you to meet every one here," and she began to buttonhole every passer-by.

Yale Prof. Heads Group to Promote U. S. Histories

Prof. Ulrich B. Phillips of Yale university, author of the prize winning "Life and Labor in the Old South," is chairman of the committee of the American Historical association in charge of the Albert Beveridge fund, which is now planning to promote the editing of documentary collections in the field of American history by grants to young scholars. The committee is about to publish a volume of editorials on the secession movement, gathered from southern newspapers of the period.

NOW LEWIS BROWNE GIVES HIS VERSION OF CHRISTIAN HISTORY

Lewis Browne, who wrote "This Believing World" and "That Man Heine," is the author of "Since Calvary" [Macmillan], an account of the progress of Christianity from Christ's death on the cross to the present day. It is a book of 427 pages with decorations by Myna Browne and maps by the author.

As "Men of Art," by Thomas Craven, reviewed the history of great painter from the days of Giotto to the modernist school, "Since Calvary" surveys the field of Christianity, throws the spotlight on religion in its steady march through history, and brings the subject up to the recent anti-religious parades in soviet Russia. What a world of material there is here! Great figures in Europe's record of events, wars, feudalism, the power of the popes, the growing influence of monarchs stream across the pages of Mr. Browne's book.

It was the desire of the author to create a dramatic narrative rather than an erudite thesis. He chose to appeal to the layman rather than the scholar of theology and so his prose is simple, vigorous, and easy to follow. He selects out of the welter of facts those most interesting to the average person and presents them in the light of "the most recent school of New Testament criticism." According to this school "the gospels are valid sources only for the history of the primitive church, not for the life of Jesus."

Many readers will disagree with some of the theories and hypotheses of Mr. Browne. Others will take their stand with the author and the modernists. It all depends on which side of the fence you are standing.

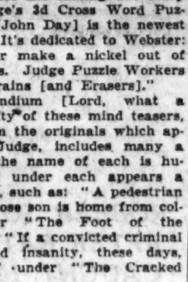
How Chicago Tempts Those WhoLike Eating

Drury's Guidebook Points Kitchenward.

BY EDITH WEIGLE.

GOING away for the week-end? Here are three little books to slip in your traveling bag. If your hostess lives out of town all the year round you might leave one of them with her: "Dining in Chicago, an Intimate Guide," by John Drury [John Day]. There are any number of people in town, too, who will be glad of this tabulated list of eating places.



JEAN RHYS.

As Chicagoans we should really be set up. With Mr. Drury's book we can now feel as important as New York and Paris, for we have our own gastronomical guide, and chatty and clever it is, too. You'll feel first a touch of astonishment at the huge number of restaurants, cafés, night clubs, etc., that dot our town. "I had no idea there were so many places to go," you'll say.

Then you'll begin to get hungry just reading about all the delectable things to be had here. What mouth won't water at the mention of filet mignon, omelette au fromage, poulet belle meuniere, stuffed lobster, New Orleans pompano and creole gumbo, chicken under glass, frogs' legs, waffles and maple sirup and good old ham 'n' eggs? This accommodating little guide tells you just the place to get just what you crave most, locates it for you and gives the price of the meal and the name of the maitre d'hotel, and draws a thumb nail sketch of the restaurant, naming the famous persons who like to dine there and describing its atmosphere.

As a present "Dining in Chicago" is God's gift to hostesses and to any one who believes in showing his stomach a little kindly consideration. Consult it when you feel bored, blue, or hungry.

Believe it or leave it, cross word puzzles still are with us. O, yes, they are, and I don't mean perhaps. They're as popular as potatoes and are the staples of the book store. And new ones are coming out every day. "Judge's 3d Cross Word Puzzle Book" [John Day] is the newest of the new. It's dedicated to Webster: "He'll never make a nickel out of these puzzles. Judge Puzzle Workers use their Brains [and Erasers]."

A compendium [Lord, what a word!] of fifty of these mind teasers, selected from the originals which appeared in Judge, includes many a laugh, for the name of each is humorous and under each appears a bit of a joke, such as: "A pedestrian is a man whose son is home from college," under "The Foot of the House," and "If a convicted criminal doesn't plead insanity, these days, he's crazy," under "The Cracked Nut."

Perhaps you'd like a novel to take along to read on the train. One of the very best I've read lately is "After Leaving Mr. Mackenzie," by Jean Rhys [Knopf]. It is really a long short story, written with the utmost economy of words and emotion under which lie such stark realism and tragedy that long after the story is finished the memory of Julia Martin remains.

Julia was a woman whom circumstances drove to "utter ruin." The tragedy lies in the fact that she was a gentle, peace loving person, that she did no one any harm, that her only wrong was her weakness, and yet that she was hounded by disaster, shut out from security as a little alley dog finds doors slammed in his face, that she was persecuted by fate until at last, as the book ends, she reaches the depths of humiliation. Only the ragged tatters of life are left for her.

Excludes Death Verses.

Margaret E. Sangster, who in private life is the wife of George Illian, illustrator, achieved a unique feat in compiling a book of 100 fine English poems without a single mention of death—a feat accomplished by no previous anthology. These poems are presented in "The Cheerful Convalescent: A Bedside Anthology" [Greenberg].

AMONG NEW BOOKS

FICTION.

Grounds of Indecency, by Milton Herbert Gropper and Edna Sherry [Macauley], is about a girl who offers herself to her father's creditors rather than have them force him into financial ruin.

The Truth About Lovers, by Margaret Widdemer [Farrar and Rinehart], consists of the stories of ten women of a smart suburb of a small town gathered together to play the game of "truth."

The Other Passport, by Harold MacGrath [Doubleday Doran], tells how a hot blooded tenor of Milan forgot his ambitions to be the leading tenor in opera and followed a runaway American prima donna from the Paris Opera Comique.

MYSTERY.

The Company of Shadows, by J. M. Walsh [Brewer, Warren and Putnam], tells how thrilling disappearances and hangings upset all London and finally how Scotland Yard trails the lawless person causing all the disturbance.

NONFICTION.

Radio in Advertising, by Orrin E. Dunlap Jr. [Harpers], is written for the advertiser who is still wondering about the power of the new medium.

The Fine Gold of Newman, selected by Joseph J. Reilly [Macmillan], is a collection of Cardinal Newman's most important thoughts and is for those who consider him a great spiritual leader and important literary figure.

Red Villages, by Y. A. Yakovlev [International Publishers], tells about the revolution in Russian agriculture under the five year plan and makes a comparison between soviet agriculture and that in the United States.

The Romance of the Hive, by Frank C. Pellett [Abingdon Press], gives the author's personal observations and experiences with bees.

"Old Bowery Days" Tells About New York's Past

There are four streets by which the city of New York is known: Broadway, Fifth avenue, Wall street, and the Bowery. Mention any of them to a man in Moscow or Calcutta or Buenos Aires, and he recognizes it. Broadway is the longest street in the world, so long that every sort of human activity and inactivity may be seen on it. Fifth avenue, long the abode of millionaires, is now our proudest and costliest shopping street. Wall street, a short and narrow little lane, is the symbol and center of great finance. The fourth is simultaneously the Broadway of the cosmopolitan east side and the Fifth avenue of the tenements—the black sheep of the flock. The stories of the first three have been told, but not until now has the historian touched the Bowery. Alvin F. Harlow's "Old Bowery Days" [Appleton] has just been published and it tells in delightful style and with curious and plentiful pictures the whole story of the street of the most vivid contrasts in the world.

We hope Alfred Batson soon will write another travel tale along the lines of "Vagabond's Paradise" [Atlantic Monthly Press-Little Brown], one of the gayest bits of true adventure penned since Harry Foster's "Beachcomber in the Orient," which it resembles in many ways.

Batson, a Canadian-American, was yanked out of the Nicaraguan rebel army, in which he was an officer, by an American colonel of marines and told to be on his way. Not having funds to exit by the usual steamer, he decided to beat his way to the States through Central America and Mexico.

Tropical tramping isn't as easy as it is in the U. S. A., and Batson had a more thrilling trip through jungles and deserts than any regulation hobo ever had on Yankee rails. Equipped with good health, good humor, and a quick temper to keep up the balance of excitement, he plunged through a long and stirring series of adventures.

One of the oddest was his seizure by Mexican bandits after he'd been forced to leap from a freight train by Greaser soldiers, who sped him on his way with bullets. Later he was freed by the outlaws, who had treated him as an honored guest, and formally "rescued" by more Mexican troops.

The plan of the city council railway terminals committee, providing for two new south side stations to accommodate the railroads now using four outworn terminals, was submitted to the council yesterday and was ordered published.

Copies of the plan, with charts and tables showing the proposed improvements, will be delivered to all aldermen, to the railroad officials, and to civic and improvement organizations and interested citizens.

It was revealed yesterday that none of the railroad presidents or terminal engineers was consulted by the committee's engineer, Edward J. Noonan, in the preparation of the plan. At present the proposal is sponsored solely by the committee, and after consideration by the entire council it probably will become the official terminal plan of the city government.

Ald. Oscar Nelson [46th], chairman of the railway terminals committee, in presenting the report to the council yesterday, stated that he hoped every alderman would make himself familiar with the plan and would support it.

"Then we can call in the railroads," Mr. Nelson said, "and say to them: 'Here is our plan, what are your criticisms?' And if they have no criticisms, then we shall be in a position to insist that the plan be adopted and put into operation."

James Gorman, president of the Rock Island lines, who has acted as chairman of the railway executives in their terminals conferences, was asked for comment on the plan yesterday.

"Why," he said, "I know nothing about it. I have just read it in the newspapers and so you know as much about the plan as I do."

Asked what steps the railroads would take to consider the plan, Mr. Gorman declined to make answer.

Noonan Explains Purpose.

The purpose of the council committee in preparing its own plan, independent of what plans the railroads may be formulating, was explained by Engineer Noonan. He said the railroads had been figuring on plans which were prohibitive in cost, and that the committee had determined that a feasible plan could be worked out at a cost which would be not unreasonable for the railroads to bear.

Mr. Noonan said the committee's plan would allow the two new stations to be built at a cost of between 20 and 25 million dollars, and that this sum could be raised by the railroads without great difficulty, even in these depressed times.

Plan to Handle Freight.

"The railroad engineers have been talking of plans to spend 120 to 140 millions," Mr. Noonan declared. "But these plans have included the handling of freight in the downtown terminal area. They have included in the figure costs of improvements going south to 34th street, and from State street to the river. There is no necessity for doing the whole job at once. Our plan provides for handling passengers, and doing it efficiently. There is no need for meeting the entire problem at once."

Under the committee's plan, a new station will be erected on the present site of the Illinois Central station at Park row, and another station will be built on Harrison street, between La Salle and Wells streets. The old La Salle street, Grand Central and Dearborn street stations will be razed.

SERRITELLA AND HOCHSTEIN WILL GET EARLY TRIAL

CRIMINAL COURT.

Marion Williams, robbery, sentenced to 1 year to life in the penitentiary by Judge Philip Finnegan.

State Senator Daniel Serritella, former city sealer and a lieutenant of Al Capone, and Harry Hochstein, his former assistant in the sealer's office, were charged with conspiracy against the public in indictments returned yesterday before Acting Chief Justice Joseph Sabath of the Criminal court.

Both were released on bonds of $5,000 each. They denied all charges, declared that "politics" was back of the action against them, and said they wanted an early trial. Assistant State's Attorneys Harold Keele and Harry E. Seyfarth said the pair would be brought to trial shortly.

The true bills were voted by the grand jury Thursday night. The indictments are the result of an investigation of the sealer's office under the last administration and charge conspiracy to obstruct justice through failure to prosecute merchants giving short weight and measure, conspiracy to obtain money under false pretense, and conspiracy to defraud the public.

Daughter of Millionaire Lumberman Asks Divorce

Mrs. Dorothy B. Pole, daughter of Ferdinand E. Bartelme, millionaire president of the Keith Lumber company, filed suit for divorce yesterday in the Circuit court against James S. Pole, former engineer for the Chicago and North Western railroad. She charged that he committed adultery with one Jane B. McCormick of Evanston on last New Year day and with other women on various other occasions. The couple, married Nov. 12, 1907, separated on July 1, and Mrs. Pole is living with her parents at 1134 Sheridan road, Winnetka.

The body of a well dressed man in middle age, found a week ago in the lake, remained unidentified yesterday as police continued their efforts to learn his name. Nearly 100 persons have visited the undertaking rooms at 3616 Broadway to view the body, but so far no clew to his identity has been found. The man is about 5 feet 10 inches tall, weighs 165 pounds. Police found a paper which showed he had visited a dentist at 24th and State streets, Milwaukee.

JOHN DEMKO.

John Demko, 20 years old, 5040 South Maplewood avenue, was shot and killed last night near his home. Soon afterward the police started a search for Peter Veslincko, 23 years old, 2140 West 50th street, a rejected suitor of the victim's sister, Anna Demko.

Anna's engagement to John Patrick was recently announced and a shower in her honor was held at the Demko home on Thursday. Young Demko and Polly Gallent, 18 years old, 5027 South Maplewood avenue, were discussing the party last night when Veslincko approached and roughly ordered the girl to go home.

"I want to talk to John," he said.

Polly had reached the steps of her home when she heard three shots fired. She ran back to find Demko dying on the sidewalk. Veslincko had fled. Relatives of the slain youth said that Veslincko had called Anna a few days ago and told her he was going to break both her legs and then kill her.

NORWAY CLAIMS GREENLAND AREA HELD BY DENMARK

OSLO, Norway, July 10.—The Norwegian government late tonight proclaimed the annexation of an area lying between 75.40 degrees and 71.10 degrees north latitude on the coast of east Greenland, thereby precipitating a controversy with Denmark which will have to be ended by the world court at The Hague.

After a five and a half hour cabinet meeting, to which King Haakon was summoned hurriedly from his summer palace, a communique was issued announcing that Norway had resolved to annex the desolate coast line, which it considers a "no man's land," and in no way under Danish jurisdiction. Denmark has claimed sovereignty over the land in question for many years. The Norwegian action was based on the fact that an expedition of Norwegians recently planted their flag in the contested area.

Negotiations Broken Off.

Following announcement of the annexation a statement was handed to the Danish minister, Oldenburg, with an intimation that Norway now considered its negotiations with Denmark in connection with the dispute over the area broken off.

"The annexation we are affecting is purely technical," he explained tonight. "It is taken with a view to future proceedings at The Hague. I am afraid our procedure will be misunderstood in Denmark and I am determined to do all I can to prevent ill will between us."

Denmark to Protest.

[Copyright: 1931: By the New York Times.]

COPENHAGEN, Denmark, July 10.—Peter Munch, Danish foreign minister, announced tonight that Denmark would lodge a complaint with the world court against the Norwegian occupation of East Greenland. Denmark regards this as a clear violation of the Danish-Norwegian treaty of 1924.

"On our part," he said, "we have endeavored up to the very last to meet Norway's wishes and thus prevent a step of such irregular character as has just been taken.

"Of course we must stand by our rights. It would have been far better if the two nations could have gone to The Hague by mutual consent. The procedure Norway has chosen will not strengthen her case. Naturally it will cause bitterness in Denmark, but it must be hoped that the ties relating us so closely will prove strong enough to withstand this crisis."

MICHIGAN FINDS ALL WELL WITH TOURIST TRADE

BY HAL FOUST.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Lakeview, Mich., July 10.—[Special.]—The Michigan Tourist and Resort association, following a three day tour with association of commerce and newspaper men through the woods and lakes region of the northern part of the state, concluded today that the 1931 tourist season will bring into Michigan more than the $300,000,000 which set a record in 1930.

"Other industries may still be suffering from the general slack," said Henry H. Turner, of Grand Rapids, in charge of the tour, "but the business of catering to the pleasure motorist continues to grow as roads and automobiles continue to improve. The fishing lodges, the lake hotels and the golf links are receiving a heavy patronage, much of it from Chicagoans. This means a lot to Michigan where the tourist trade is second in importance only to the manufacture of motor cars."

No Limit on Speed.

THE TRIBUNE'S road car was one of six automobiles that made up the reroast association's motorcade. As testimony corroborating Mr. Turner's statement about the development of roads and motors it might be told that the management of the tour took full advantage of Michigan's law limiting the maximum speed to that consistent with safety. The half dozen machines swung over hills, through woods and around lakes at between sixty and seventy miles an hour.

After traveling up the coast of Lake Michigan on Wednesday and Thursday, the party turned around at Mackinaw City to spend last night in a cluster of log cabins on Bellaire lake, one of the twenty six lakes in Antrim county, divided by hills and with dense growths of pines, maples, beaches, and birch. Sleep was under double blankets with the thermometer registering 44 degrees when some of the party returned from a moonlight trout casting expedition.

Reforestation Program Started.

The route led south from Bellaire, on the dustless gravel of Michigan-66, through stumped hills where once there was a mighty forest. The state of Michigan has two million acres of such land, acquired mainly through tax defaults, and is working on a reforestation program.

Nine miles from Lake City, the party visited a peculiar mound, circular in shape, about six feet high and about a hundred feet in diameter, recently acquired by the University of Michigan for archeological exploration. It is presumed that the mound was built by a race, now extinct, which preceded the Indians in this country.

The location and marking of such places of interest to visiting motorists was the main purpose of the resort association's three-day tour. Historical and legendary data were gathered from local residents along the route. The information will be submitted to the Michigan historical association for verification and then recommendations will be made to the highway department for marking the places.

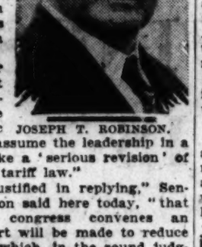
Little Rock, Ark., July 10.—(AP)—Senator Robinson [Dem., Ark.] today answered a challenge of Senator Watson [Rep., Ind.] by announcing that "an earnest effort" will be made to reduce tariff rates when congress convenes in December.



SENATOR JOSEPH T. ROBINSON.

Senator Watson last night challenged the Democratic leader to "assume the leadership in a fight to make a 'serious revision' of the present tariff law."

"I feel justified in replying," Senator Robinson said here today, "that when the congress convenes an earnest effort will be made to reduce tariff rates which, in the sound judgment of business men and economists, have tended to restrict foreign markets for American products and to inspire retaliatory measures on the part of foreign countries."

Senator Robinson, in his statement, said that present tariff rates are "important factors in causing the existing depression."

Herman Oker, 632 Arlington place, was released by Judge Matthew Hartigan yesterday when he convinced the judge that he was an artist and that it was hunger that drove him to attempt to pass stage money for the real article. Oker had given Henry Ornstein, a jeweler at 650 Maxwell street, two fake $100 bills, used for display purposes, in exchange for a ring. As Oker walked out Ornstein discovered he had been duped and ran into the street screaming "Phoney money! Phoney money." Other merchants in the Maxwell street neighborhood came running and pounced

BY FANNY BUTCHER.

THE HAGUE.—[Special Correspondence.]—The ninth annual congress of the P. E. N. was presented with practically the entire key ring of Holland when 386 members of the writing fraternity from thirty-one countries spent June 22 and 23 in The Hague and Rotterdam and June 25 and 26 in Amsterdam. It was indeed a congress of letters—and languages. Everything that was discussed in the congress—officially—was said in three languages: English, French, and German. Everything that was said unofficially hurtled out in dialects that would be a foundation for a school of languages.

All of the obvious countries were represented: The United States, Great Britain and its overseas dominions of Australia and Canada, Germany, Austria, Belgium, France, Denmark, Hungary, Holland, Italy, Poland, Portugal, Czecho-Slovakia, Sweden, and Switzerland. Besides those there were delegates from Argentina, Bulgaria, China, Esthonia, Finland, Iceland, Lithuania, Palestine, Rumania, and there were six members of a Central Yiddish club.

The tenor of the official meetings was all toward the furtherance of international peace, as was to be expected, for the P. E. N. was founded on that corner stone. One of the most important of the resolutions adopted was to the effect that the members expressed their "profound disapproval of every kind of brutal violence and especially of war." They hoped for the establishment of permanent peace.

The principal figure of the meeting was, of course, John Galsworthy, honorary president. The afternoon that I arrived I went to call on Mr. and Mrs. Galsworthy. They graciously insisted on my dining with them. There was a long official evening ahead of every one, starting at 7:30 [the Dutch dine early] and every one was dashing from a vast tea through a hasty dinner. At our little table for four we whizzed through one of the long Dutch dinners—at which there always appear two kinds of meat. That gives a rough idea of the other proportions of the meal. The Galsworthys were not able to stay for the entire congress, for after having received five honorary degrees at various times Mr. Galsworthy was to be presented with a sixth by his own college, Oxford, on a date that came during the congress.

He grows more and more into the classic form of a great English country gentleman, one of the pillars of a civilization. He is the personification of what makes England a great civilization. He is gentle, quiet, a little remote from human foibles, and somehow very right and very real. The passion of his life is, as was shown by his recent lecture trip in America, the preservation of permanent peace.

The evening's entertainment consisted in a theatrical performance at Scheveningen, the seaside resort just outside The Hague. The most amusing event of the evening was a play written for the occasion and produced by what certainly were the greatest linguistic actor and actress on any stage. Everything which they said was spoken in the three official languages of the congress and the flow of the drama was never interrupted. At the end the remarkable linguists welcomed the members of the congress in every language represented.

We saw at the reception which followed the American delegate, Mr. Alfred Dashiell, editor of Scribner's Magazine, and his delightful wife, both of them so friendly and charming that before the congress was over they had a pocketful of cards and invitations to all parts of the civilized world. The Americans were a curiosity to some of the delegates, I am sure. "Peaux rouges" they expected us to be—really redskins. To find us looking and acting if not talking just like themselves was a great surprise.

I saw there, too, Rene Filop Miller and his wife. Herr Filop Miller spent much of last year in the United States and is going back this fall. Hollywood interested him very much, and he still remembers the afternoon when I took him to the Tribune tower and presented him with Chicago in panorama. He still does not speak English although he understands it. Mme. Filop Miller is likely to be shanghaled by the Hollywood producers. I never have seen such lovely limpid blue eyes—the true Viennese type, with infinite charm. Her husband was one of the two guests of honor from Austria. Jakob Wassermann was the other one. And Felix Salten was one of the official delegates.

All three of them have been in America comparatively recently. Herr Wassermann I remember talking to one blustery day in a suite at the Drake hotel. He was distracted by our language, our climate and our rush. He made a speech at the banquet on June 24.

Schalom Asch also spoke at the banquet—in Yiddish—which was not comprehensible to as many as it might have been. He was the guest of honor of the Central Yiddish center. Herr Wassermann also spoke, as did others whose names are known to American readers, Mme. Jo Van Ammers-Kuller, who was the secretary of the congress and is one of the two best known Dutch women novelists. A book seller in The Hague told us that Ina Boudier-Bakker was considered by the Dutch themselves as a greater portrayer of Dutch character. She has not been translated into English, however. She is from Utrecht and her greatest piece of work is a vast novel called "De Klop op de Deur," the Knock on the Door, it would be in English.

Mrs. C. A. Dawson Scott was the founder of the P. E. N. and she was called "Mother Pen" in the meetings, as if she had founded a new religion. I was much amused one morning when she came up to me and said "I am Mother Pen and you are one of my daughters whom I do not know. I know who you are, though, and want you to meet every one here," and she began to buttonhole every passer-by.

Yale Prof. Heads Group to Promote U. S. Histories

Prof. Ulrich B. Phillips of Yale university, author of the prize winning "Life and Labor in the Old South," is chairman of the committee of the American Historical association in charge of the Albert Beveridge fund, which is now planning to promote the editing of documentary collections in the field of American history by grants to young scholars. The committee is about to publish a volume of editorials on the secession movement, gathered from southern newspapers of the period.

NOW LEWIS BROWNE GIVES HIS VERSION OF CHRISTIAN HISTORY

Lewis Browne, who wrote "This Believing World" and "That Man Heine," is the author of "Since Calvary" [Macmillan], an account of the progress of Christianity from Christ's death on the cross to the present day. It is a book of 427 pages with decorations by Myna Browne and maps by the author.

As "Men of Art," by Thomas Craven, reviewed the history of great painter from the days of Giotto to the modernist school, "Since Calvary" surveys the field of Christianity, throws the spotlight on religion in its steady march through history, and brings the subject up to the recent anti-religious parades in soviet Russia. What a world of material there is here! Great figures in Europe's record of events, wars, feudalism, the power of the popes, the growing influence of monarchs stream across the pages of Mr. Browne's book.

It was the desire of the author to create a dramatic narrative rather than an erudite thesis. He chose to appeal to the layman rather than the scholar of theology and so his prose is simple, vigorous, and easy to follow. He selects out of the welter of facts those most interesting to the average person and presents them in the light of "the most recent school of New Testament criticism." According to this school "the gospels are valid sources only for the history of the primitive church, not for the life of Jesus."

Many readers will disagree with some of the theories and hypotheses of Mr. Browne. Others will take their stand with the author and the modernists. It all depends on which side of the fence you are standing.

How Chicago Tempts Those Who Like Eating

BY EDITH WEIGLE.

GOING away for the week-end? Here are three little books to slip in your traveling bag. If your hostess lives out of town all the year round you might leave one of them with her: "Dining in Chicago, an Intimate Guide," by John Drury [John Day]. There are any number of people in town, too, who will be glad of this tabulated list of eating places.

JEAN RHYS.

As Chicagoans we should really be set up. With Mr. Drury's book we can now feel as important as New York and Paris, for we have our own gastronomical guide, and chatty and clever it is, too. You'll feel first a touch of astonishment at the huge number of restaurants, cafés, night clubs, etc., that dot our town. "I had no idea there were so many places to go," you'll say.

Then you'll begin to get hungry just reading about all the delectable things to be had here. What mouth won't water at the mention of filet mignon, omelette au fromage, poulet belle meuniere, stuffed lobster, New Orleans pompano and creole gumbo, chicken under glass, frogs' legs, waffles and maple sirup and good old ham 'n' eggs? This accommodating little guide tells you just the place to get just what you crave most, locates it for you and gives the price of the meal and the name of the maitre d'hotel, and draws a thumb nail sketch of the restaurant, naming the famous persons who like to dine there and describing its atmosphere.

As a present "Dining in Chicago" is God's gift to hostesses and to any one who believes in showing his stomach a little kindly consideration. Consult it when you feel bored, blue, or hungry.

Believe it or leave it, cross word puzzles still are with us. O, yes, they are, and I don't mean perhaps. They're as popular as potatoes and are the staples of the book store. And new ones are coming out every day. "Judge's 3d Cross Word Puzzle Book" [John Day] is the newest of the new. It's dedicated to Webster: "He'll never make a nickel out of these puzzles. Judge Puzzle Workers use their Brains [and Erasers]."

A compendium [Lord, what a word!] of fifty of these mind teasers, selected from the originals which appeared in Judge, includes many a laugh, for the name of each is humorous and under each appears a bit of a joke, such as: "A pedestrian is a man whose son is home from college," under "The Foot of the House," and "If a convicted criminal doesn't plead insanity, these days, he's crazy," under "The Cracked Nut."

Perhaps you'd like a novel to take along to read on the train. One of the very best I've read lately is "After Leaving Mr. Mackenzie," by Jean Rhys [Knopf]. It is really a long short story, written with the utmost economy of words and emotion under which lie such stark realism and tragedy that long after the story is finished the memory of Julia Martin remains.

Julia was a woman whom circumstances drove to "utter ruin." The tragedy lies in the fact that she was a gentle, peace loving person, that she did no one any harm, that her only wrong was her weakness, and yet that she was hounded by disaster, shut out from security as a little alley dog finds doors slammed in his face, that she was persecuted by fate until at last, as the book ends, she reaches the depths of humiliation. Only the ragged tatters of life are left for her.

Excludes Death Verses.

Margaret E. Sangster, who in private life is the wife of George Illian, illustrator, achieved a unique feat in compiling a book of 100 fine English poems without a single mention of death—a feat accomplished by no previous anthology. These poems are presented in "The Cheerful Convalescent: A Bedside Anthology" [Greenberg].

AMONG NEW BOOKS

FICTION.

Personals, by Eleanor De Lamater [Farrar and Rinehart], tells the stories back of the society column of a small town newspaper.

Grounds of Indecency, by Milton Herbert Gropper and Edna Sherry [Macauley], is about a girl who offers herself to her father's creditors rather than have them force him into financial ruin.

The Truth About Lovers, by Margaret Widdemer [Farrar and Rinehart], consists of the stories of ten women of a smart suburb of a town gathered together to play the game of "truth."

The Other Passport, by Harold MacGrath [Doubleday Doran], tells how a hot blooded tenor of Milan forgot his ambitions to be the leading tenor in opera and followed a runaway American prima donna from the Paris Opera Comique.

MYSTERY.

The Company of Shadows, by J. M. Walsh [Brewer, Warren and Putnam], tells how thrilling disappearances and hangings upset all London and finally how Scotland Yard trails the lawless person causing all the disturbance.

NONFICTION.

Radio in Advertising, by Orrin E. Dunlap Jr. [Harpers], is written for the advertiser who is still wondering about the power of the new medium.

The Fine Gold of Newman, selected by Joseph J. Reilly [Macmillan], is a collection of Cardinal Newman's most important thoughts and is for those who consider him a great spiritual leader and important literary figure.

Red Villages, by Y. A. Yakovlev [International Publishers], tells about the revolution in Russian agriculture under the five year plan and makes a comparison between soviet agriculture and that in the United States.

The Romance of the Hive, by Frank C. Pellett [Abingdon Press], gives the author's personal observations and experiences with bees.

"Old Bowery Days" Tells About New York's Past

There are four streets by which the city of New York is known: Broadway, Fifth avenue, Wall street, and the Bowery. Mention any of them to a man in Moscow or Calcutta or Buenos Aires, and he recognizes it. Broadway is the longest street in the world, so long that every sort of human activity and inactivity may be seen on it. Fifth avenue, long the abode of millionaires, is now our proudest and costliest shopping street. Wall street, a short and narrow little lane, is the symbol and center of great finance. The fourth is simultaneously the Broadway of the cosmopolitan east side and the Fifth avenue of the tenements—the black sheep of the flock. The stories of the first three have been told, but not until now has the historian touched the Bowery. Alvin F. Harlow's "Old Bowery Days" [Appleton] has just been published and it tells in delightful style and with curious and plentiful pictures the whole story of the street of the most vivid contrasts in the world.

We hope Alfred Batson soon will write another travel tale along the lines of "Vagabond's Paradise" (Atlantic Monthly Press-Little Brown), one of the gayest bits of true adventure penned since Harry Foster's "Beachcomber in the Orient," which it resembles in many ways.

Batson, a Canadian-American, was yanked out of the Nicaraguan rebel army, in which he was an officer, by an American colonel of marines and told to be on his way. Not having funds to exit by the usual steamer, he decided to beat his way to the States through Central America and Mexico.

Tropical tramping isn't as easy as it is in the U. S. A., and Batson had a more thrilling trip through jungles and deserts than any regulation hobo ever had on Yankee rails. Equipped with good health, good humor, and a quick temper to keep up the balance of excitement, he plunged through a long and stirring series of adventures.

One of the oddest was his seizure by Mexican bandits after he'd been forced to leap from a freight train by Greaser soldiers, who sped him on his way with bullets. Later he was freed by the outlaws, who had treated him as an honored guest, and formally "rescued" by more Mexican troops.

Five Transferred Convicts to Be Sent Back.

New York, July 10.—[Special.]—As a result of a conspiracy to transfer federal prisoners from Atlanta penitentiary to army reservation road camps, where life is comparatively free and easy, an individual in Atlanta, who either occupied or pretended to occupy an official position, banked $35,000 during the last year, a federal investigator was informed today.

This information, to be forwarded to the department of justice in Washington, came from the attorney for one of five federal prisoners, who will be sent back to Atlanta tomorrow from Fort Wadsworth, Staten island, one of the camps to which more than 180 prisoners have been transferred during the last eighteen months.

Accounts to Be Scanned.

Though the statement is in conflict with one issued earlier in the day from Washington, to the effect that no officials have accepted bribes and that only a "comparatively small amount of money" was involved, it was said here that investigators would examine the bank accounts of the person named.

It was said at the Federal building that if any offense has been committed prosecution will take place in Georgia or wherever the prison in question is located.

The prisoners who will be sent back to Atlanta tomorrow are Harry Goldhurst, serving a term for mail fraud, who was a close friend and stock market adviser of Bishop Cannon, John T. Locke, sentenced to three years in Atlanta in 1929 for fraud in promoting shares of the Canario Copper corporation; and Paul Rebkin, Solomon Rubman and Joseph Y. Pearlman, smugglers of Swiss watch movements.

Bared in New York.

Though the department of justice inquiry has been nation-wide, its local ramifications came to light when the last three prisoners were brought to the federal building for questioning as to further customs evasions by Alvin McK. Sylvester, assistant United States attorney.

Officers who took Rabkin back to the barracks at Fort Wadsworth found in his possession a letter from a convict in Atlanta, asking how to go about purchasing a transfer from Atlanta to Fort Wadsworth or to some other military reservation.

Rabkin is said to have admitted that he had bought his transfer for $1,000 and that Radkin and Rubman and Pearlman had also paid for their comparative freedom on the island.

Plot "Broken Up."

In Washington, department of justice officials announced that the plot had been "completely broken up," and "appropriate action" had been taken to discipline "those involved."

"Certain of the prisoners," it was said, "have induced other inmates to pay them small amounts to facilitate their transfer to road camps. A small number of men are involved and a comparatively small amount of money was paid."

Quiz Health Inspector at Civil Service Trial

Dr. James Brown, a health inspector, underwent a long cross-examination by the defense yesterday at the trial before the civil service commission of Dr. Edmund L. Brunswick, supervising health inspector, who was suspended by Health Commissioner Bundesen and charged with using his office for unwarranted political activities. Dr. Brown testified concerning the circulation of pledge cards for the former administration by health office employes prior to the last city election.

COMMUNISM NO GERMAN PERIL, COPLEY INSISTS

Finds Russians Are Enslaved.

Boston, Mass., July 11 [Saturday]:—(AP)—Ira C. Copley, publisher of 23 newspapers in Illinois and California, left his yacht, Happy Days, in Boston harbor early today after a honeymoon voyage across the Atlantic with his bride, the former Mrs. Chloe Davidson Worley, whom he married in Paris on April 27.

Copley, returning from a tour which took him through several European countries, expressed the opinion that President Hoover's proposal for a debt moratorium was "sound" and that there could be no great prosperity in the United States unless Germany, France, and England prospered generally.

His observation in Russia, he said, caused him to believe that the communist government in Russia could not succeed, although he noticed some apprehension in Germany concerning a so-called "Red menace."

Comments on Russia.

Mr. Copley regarded as "highly significant" a recent announcement by Stalin that a six day week was to be inaugurated in Russia.

"I take that to mean," he said, "that Russia has found she cannot make the individual work his hardest for other men's wives and children. There never was such an anomaly in the history of the world as Russia offers today. The soviet grants certain liberty—which in some cases amounts to license—but at the same time Russians are the most completely enslaved people the world has ever seen. Slave labor doesn't pay. It takes one man with a bayonet to keep another at work.

Copley said there was apprehension among many Germans lest another financial disaster befall them. Because of this fear, he said, German people had sent millions of dollars into other countries for deposit and investment. Nevertheless, he said, the French and German peoples presented the greatest bulwark against bolshevism.

Refuse to Sell Farms.

"The French and Germans never will give up their farms for community ownership," he said. "Why, a friend of mine has tried for years to buy a farm in Germany and hasn't succeeded yet. If they won't sell their land they never will give it up. I believe communism will blow up in a few years."

Mr. Copley plans to visit his son "Billy" at a camp at Wolfeboro, N. H., before heading "directly back into harness."

POLICE, WARNED OF BANK HOLDUP, SLAY 1, SEIZE 2

Friendship, Tenn., July 10.—(AP)—Policemen, who concealed themselves in the Bank of Friendship as the result of a warning that the bank was to be robbed, today shot to death one alleged bandit and wounded and captured his two companions.

The slain man was identified as Claude McCleish, 55, Haywood county, the others gave their names as Carl Butler, 30, Dyersburg, Tenn., and Deward Mullin, 40, Haywood county.

The trap was planned at Memphis by Will T. Griffin, inspector of detectives, and T. E. Fowler, assistant chief of the Tennessee highway patrol, who obtained the first tip on the contemplated robbery.

"McCleish walked over to Willard York, cashier, and told him to 'stick 'em up,'" Fowler said. "York started to raise his hands, then dropped behind the counter, and we started shooting. McCleish shot back at us, until he dropped."

Fowler said Butler was wounded and captured as he attempted to run from the bank, and that Mullin, seen waiting in a car, was shot before he could escape. Neither was seriously wounded.

Inspector Griffin said in a statement at Memphis that an arrest of a "public official" would be forthcoming soon.

ROBBER SOUGHT AFTER BATTLE IS CAUGHT IN IOWA

Suffering from a bullet wound in the head, Francis Haines, 26 years old, alleged third member of a bandit trio who engaged in a spectacular gun battle with police on the south side on Wednesday, was captured yesterday in Sioux City, Ia., the detective bureau was notified last night.

Of the other two members of the robber crew, one, Orie Lahnum, 6668 South Michigan avenue, is dead, and James Clark, 26 Eeast 23d street, is in custody. The three men tried to hold up the cigar store of William Carey at 1500 East 55th street. Sergt. Redmond Gibbons and Policeman Louis Olsen surprised them. Lahnum was killed and Clark was wounded and caught.

Detectives went to the south side home of Haines. His wife said he might have gone to the home of his mother, Mrs. Arthur Lentz, in Sioux City. Chief of Detectives Norton notified Sioux City authorities and Haines was captured as he slept in his mothers home. He refused to waive extradition. Haines has a police record in Iowa.

GUN TESTS ADD NEW MYSTERY IN ISLAND KILLING

Tests of the firing pin impressions made by an old revolver added new mystery last night to the murder of Charles Eldredge, a stage game warden and former Chicago lawyer, who was shot on his island retreat near Richmond, McHenry county, on July 4.

When Eldredge was found slain, his old revolver was discovered more than 100 feet away. It contained one empty cartridge. It was assumed that the slayer had disarmed Eldredge and used the latter's gun for the killing.

Tests completed last night by Sheriff Lester Edinger changed part of that theory. The tests consisted of firing cartridges from the game warden's revolver. All, it developed, bore different firing pin impressions from that on the shell supposedly used in killing Eldredge. Sheriff Edinger declared last night he believed that the murderer killed Eldredge with his own weapon, and then inserted the discharged cartridge into Eldredge's revolver to lend the appearance of suicide.

Dentist Held to Jury on Confidence Game Charge

Dr. Joseph Schwartz, 31 years old, a dentist, was held to the grand jury yesterday in bonds of $5,000 on a charge of operating a confidence game. He was arraigned before Judge Matthew D. Hartigan in Felony court. Mrs. Pearl Godbout, 32 years old, a rooming house keeper, charged that Dr. Schwartz had refused to marry her or to return $6,606 which she had given him to finish his course at a dental school and establish himself in practice.

MRS. BOYD, FIRST POLICEWOMAN IN CHICAGO, DIES

Mrs. Mary A. Boyd, Chicago's first policewoman, died yesterday in her home at 955 Cornelia street after an illness of two months. She was 66 years old and the mother of two sons.

In 1913 Mrs. Boyd was appointed policewoman by Mayor Carter H. Harrison. She was assigned to the detective bureau, where she was active in solving juvenile crimes. However, major crimes were included in her operations. One of them was the killing of Detective Prendergast, which she cleared up.

For the last three years Mrs. Boyd had been attached to the missing persons bureau.

Guy Clark, Veteran Indiana Politician, Dies, Aged 60

Guy D. Clark, 60 years old, for many years a picturesque figure in the political life of Lake county, Ind., died of a heart attack yesterday at his home, 105 South street, Crown Point. Mr. Clark had lived in Lake county all his life. He was a member of the county's election board for 20 years and also served as deputy county clerk for eight years. Funeral services will be held at 1:30 p. m., Sunday, at the home. Burial will be in Crown Point cemetery. Mr. Clark is survived by his widow, Mrs. Lenora Clark, and a son, Malcolm.

Green, professor of pharmacy at Notre Dame university, was killed this morning when a car in which he, his parents, two brothers, and a driver were riding overturned six miles north of Hessel, Mich. Other occupants of the car suffered minor injuries.

Measure to Tax Cigarets Signed by Ohio Governor

Columbus, O., July 10.—[Special.]—Without comment, Gov. White today signed the bill placing a one cent tax on every 10 cigarets. The bill is effective Sept. 1, to expire Dec. 31, 1933.

Legislative leaders estimate collections will be $6,000,000 and balance the budget for 1931-'32, except for the deficit inherited from the previous administration.

Deaths of a Day

CARROLL, Ia.—(AP)—Judge Ben I. Salinger, 71, former justice of the Iowa Supreme court, died from bronchial pneumonia. Surviving are his widow, twin sons, Ben I. Jr. of Chicago and L. H. Salinger of Carroll, and a daughter, Mrs. John P. Minchen of Carroll.

MATTOON, Ill.—(AP)—Adolf Summerlin, publisher of the Lerna Eagle and for 50 years identified with newspaper enterprises in central Illinois, is dead.

SACKETTS HARBOR, N. Y.—(AP)—Sergt. John White, 70, retired, who was with the reinforcements that arrived too late during the Black Hills campaign to save Custer in his last stand, died. He carried the American flag up San Juan hill and planted it at the top during the battle there in the Spanish-American war.

J. G. WOZENCRAFT, GLEN ELLYN REAL ESTATE MAN, DIES

John George Wozencraft, a resident of Glen Ellyn for several years and a well known real estate dealer, died suddenly on Thursday. He was born in Arkansas in 1877 and was a Presbyterian minister for many years. He is survived by his widow and three children, Marian, Sarah, and George. Funeral services will be this morning at 10 o'clock under the auspices of the Masonic lodge at the chapel of the First Methodist church of Glen Ellyn. Burial will be at Charleston, Ill.

Sigmund Zeisler's Will Leaves Estate of $250,000

The will of Attorney Sigmund Zeisler, who died on June 4, was admitted to probate by Oscar S. Caplan, assistant to Probate Judge Henry Horner. His widow, Mrs. Amelia Zeisler, received $50,000; a son, Leonard, was given $5,000, and the remainder of the $250,000 estate, except for $6,000 given to charity, will be divide between Leonard and two other sons, Paul and Ernest.

PARIS, July 10.—(AP)—Dr. René Jacquemaire Clemenceau, grandson of the wartime premier, who contracted an infection recently while caring for a patient, died here tonight. Just before his death the minister of hygiene conferred on him the cross of the Legion of Honor, as a "victim of science."

APPEALS COURT UPHOLDS BAN ON RADIO STATION

Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson's injunction restraining radio station WMBB-WOK, operated by the American Bond and Mortgage company and the Trianon ballroom at Homewood, from operating without a license from the federal radio commission was upheld yesterday by the United States Circuit Court of Appeals.

The license of this station was not renewed in 1928 when the federal radio commission reduced the number of broadcasting stations to lessen radio interference. At that time station WMBB-WOK was not able to show that it came within the classification of stations considered legitimate for "public interest, convenience and necessity."

The station, however, continued operation without a license until Judge Wilkerson issued the injunction. In commenting on the station's claims, Judge Evan A. Evans, who wrote the opinion upholding the district court, said that the reduction of the number of broadcasting stations was for the general interests of the public.

Wife Sues Official of Union for Separation

Mrs. Marguerite A. Peterson, 2142 Warner avenue, yesterday filed a suit for separate maintenance in the Superior court against George Peterson, secretary of the Structural Iron Workers' union. The bill charges Peterson lived with a Miss Maude Scroggins for two years, returning to his wife several times on promises to reform. Recently he again left his wife for Miss Scroggins, the bill avers. The Petersons have two children, Marguerite, 6 years old, and George Jr., 2 years old.

FLOWER OF THORNS

By Marie Conway Oemler

SYNOPSIS.

Sally Rutherford, the last of a proud old southern family, falls heir to the heavily mortgaged Oakleigh plantation following the ruin and suicide of her grandfather. She determines to keep the home for her grandmother. A porter's lodge, facing the Dixie highway, a mile from the old house, gives her the idea of starting a hot dog stand. She is engaged with a milkman, who says he is Mr. Forman, foreman of the Winstead estate, to deliver milk. Mr. Forman is really Samuel Forman Winstead, only son of Peter Winstead, town banker and holder of the Oakleigh mortgage. The Rutherford neighbors "don't know" the Winsteads, of carpetbagging stock, whose estate adjoined Oakleigh. Sam, well educated and traveled, prefers farming to finance.

HOT DOGS.

As she walked down the tree avenue toward Oakleigh, Sally thought grimly that the boy had a handsome face and, really, very good manners. She rather liked him, as a Miss Sally Rutheford might regard a milk truck driver. His bright wavy hair, his young resolute face with its fine features and unbelievably blue eyes, held one's attention. The chance meeting with a stranger so young, smiling, friendly, made the sad day brighter.

"So this," reflected the truck driver on his way to Winsteads, "is Sally Rutherford! N-no, she hasn't changed much. She's still the pretty child on horseback, proud as Lucifer, poor kid; but she's lovely and fine and gallant, and she's in deep waters, and if I can help her in any way without being offensive I'll do so." He stopped, with some astonishment, to regard the fact that he most intensely wished to be of service to her; in fact, that he wished it more intensely than he had ever wished anything in his life; more yet, he thought that if he wasn't to be allowed to do so he would be more than willing to die. This so troubled him that he brought the truck to a halt just outside Winstead gates and sat thinking deeply.

"Now, we don't want Oakleigh, we don't need Oakleigh, we simply won't have Oakleigh!" he reflected. "And that girl does, and must. She shall. I shall have to take a hand in the game, Sally Rutherford, and here's where you begin to notice the milkman, my dear!" For the first time in his life young Mr. Winstead's mind dwelt persistently on a particular girl.

"Miss Sally Rutherford, you mayn't know it yet, or even dream it, but I'm damn sure that your future husband and my future wife met each other this afternoon," thought Sam Winstead.

Mose scrubbed, Moses whitewashed, Sally painted and ransacked Oakleigh for necessary furnishings. A gay old gingham laid aside in the attic was found washed and ironed, and transformed into curtains. Discarded small articles were salvaged and painted in gay colors to contrast with the dark walls.

Sally was giving a small table a coat of Chinese red when a car stopped outside and a moment later young Mr. Forman stood in the open doorway. "Hello! It begins to look right pretty here. What are you doing?"

"Painting a table," said Sally briefly. He was taller than she had thought.

"Myl. You've got the brownest eyes!"

big athletic fellow—and even better looking than he had seemed in the truck.

"What's the table for?"

"Serving what?"

"Coffee, tea, hot biscuits, bread, sliced ham, cake, pie. Whatever you'd like to serve. But mostly," she hesitated for a fraction of a second, and her head went up, "but mostly we hope to serve . . . hot dogs."

"Hot dogs!" said he, as one might say "Whoopee!" "Gosh, that's great! I crave hot dogs myself when I'm going and coming. I mayn't be particularly particular about other things, but I'm real pernickety about my hot dogs. They've got to be just so. Do you know how to make really good ones?"

"A girl in my class used to make them. With ketchup, and sauerkraut, and mustard. They were really nice," said Sally.

"A man in my class eats 'em," said the milkman gravely. "That's why I have to be so particular. A fine hot dog is a work of art, lady. Say, you'll need a counter to stand behind and lean your elbows on if you're going to give the right sort of hot dogs."

"I'll make you a counter, miss—didn't I tell you I was a sort of—uh—carpenter, too, sometimes? Have you any boards, or shall I bring some with me? I've got some nice boards I don't need right now."

Sally flushed.

"My, you do hate like all getout to let people do neighborly things for you, don't you?" Sam looked at her shrewdly. "I suppose you can't help it, I like that, you being Miss Rutherford, and all. You're a pretty smart girl in some ways—but you take it from me, you're a pretty mistaken one in some ways, too."

Sally Rutherford could hardly believe her ears. She straightened up and stood looking at him. It was such a look as had at times put other rash youths in their places; it had absolutely no effect on the milkman.

"Myl you've got the brownest eyes!" he exclaimed suddenly, as one who has just made a thrilling discovery. "I never thought of it before, but I like brown eyes—I like 'em best of all." His own, astonishingly blue, glowed with frank admiration.

"You are not to talk to me like that, please." This time there was more than an edge to her voice. Rutherford pride looked nakedly out of the brown eyes, informed every feature of the young face.

"No? But you have got brown eyes, haven't you? Very brown, aren't they?" said he. "All right, Miss Rutherford, when do you want me to bring the boards over? The sooner I get that counter built the better for business. All those gimcracks you've got around are for sale, too, aren't they? I don't know, I believe you got a surefire hunch about this stand."

"Do you really think so?" she asked eagerly, all pride and resentment forgotten. "I have to do something—and this seems the best I can do under the circumstances. I happened to glance at this cabin and the idea came to me."

"It was a swell idea, all right. Come to think of it, I never saw a hot dog stand fail yet, did you?"

"No, I don't think I have," reflected Sally.

"I've got some fine ideas, myself," reflected the young man. "If I were you, Miss Rutherford, I'd plant the brightest, hardiest flowers I could get around this cabin, and I'd call the place 'Sally's Shack.'"

"You'd call the place 'Sally's Shack'?"

"I wouldn't call it anything but. It's a mighty nice little name—sort of friendlylike. Come to think of it, I reckon Sally is my favorite name," his eyes upon her were free from guile. "So I vote to call the place 'Sally's Shack.' Because it is," he finished unanswerably.

"Oh!" said she, bewildered. "Very well, the name shall be 'Sally's Shack.'"

"Great. Now about those flowers I want you to plant. Of course, it's a little late in the season for seeds, but I think I could transplant some zinnias, and petunias, and calendulas, and salvias."

"But I'm a neighbor! Why, I work right next door to you."

"Does being neighborly include building shelves and counters and planting flowers?" she asked with some asperity.

"Oh yes'm. It includes heaps more," said he, still without any shadow of guile. "It even includes," he added with a light laugh, "giving a neighborly dogs to keep him from going hungry when he's driving his car."

And he set about measuring the windows, making figures in a little book he carried in a pocket. He was one of those who hum to themselves when they're thinking and sing when they're actively working.

"What is that you're singing?" asked Sally.

"Song out of date before you were born," said the milkman absently. "Students used to sing it—in the middle ages, you know." Still absently he hummed 'Flor de Espina——'"

"What!" Sally's eyes widened.

He waked up with a jerk. Turning, he smiled—his friendly, guileless smile. "One of our professors lectured on that once—medieval students' songs, I mean. It seems they used to like this one especially. It's pretty, too. Flor de Espina—Flower of Thorns."

"You seem to have learned quite a variety of things in that school."

"I learned some of the things I wanted to learn, that a fellow like me needs to learn, so I was able to jump into a good job. Mr. Henry Winstead was one

Three Day Limit to Liquid Diet Is Best for Average Person

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

A correspondent asks about going on a milk diet for a month—how much milk she should consume daily and how the intervals should be spaced.

For amateur treatment I should not advise a person to go on more than a three day liquid diet of any kind, unless it is done under medical direction. Milk diets often are recommended by physicians, but they should be conducted under their direction. The method is not unpleasant, as Dr. James M. Booher tells in his booklet on reducing. The first day or two the lack of solid food causes discomfort and craving for solids, but after that the milk seems all sufficient and enjoyable, too.

Dr. Booher tells a story about how the famous Kneipp sanitarium in the Tyrol worked the milk cure. This institution caught the high livers whose troubles were stoutness and other nutritional disorders.

The patient arrived at the old Tyrolean castle surrounded by beautiful grounds and wide lawns. Every morning he was routed out of bed early and sent to walk barefoot on the lawn. This was insisted on to compel a certain amount of exercise, early rising, and the novel appeal of the dew wet grass under the feet. No food other than milk was taken during the cure, and no other drink than milk allowed. Each patient was assigned a special cow from the dairy stables.

The patient had to drink a glass of milk at a time, as often as he desired. The size of the glass was increased as the cure progressed. Mild laxatives were administered if necessary and the cure lasted for from seven days to two weeks. In that time the system was thoroughly cleaned out and the patient left anywhere from fifteen to thirty pounds lighter—and in a far better condition of health.

I don't suppose it would hurt any of us in normal health to go on a liquid diet for seven days, but since there are acid and digestive conditions to be reckoned with where people thing they are in normal health, it is not safe for a layman to advise the experiment of a prolonged milk diet treatment.

Which Should Love More, Man or Woman? Is Open to Argument

BY DORIS BLAKE.

"Which is better? asks Greta. "That the man be more in love with the girl or the girl be more in love with the man?"

Unqualifiedly—that the man be the one more in love, though the ideal state would be a much evener distribution of the heart emotions.

But because women have the heartier appetite for love, or should we put it another way, and revert to the bromide about love being the mainstay of a woman's life, with it only a runner up in man's.

Anyway, I'll wager if you put the query to a thousand women, the few who would vote against the desirability of the man being the more in love of the two would be negligible. Mythical in foundation or not, it's just the old principle of keeping the hunter instinct alive in the stronger sex that we base this surmise on—although I imagine we lean a bit too heavily on that idea for modern application. I fancy that an old hunter that has been kept on the scent for some fifteen, twenty, or thirty years just might up and seek a new trail. Judging from divorce records, one is led to suspect that they are doing so. So you can't count too much on the "suspense" motive in matrimony.

Women are such ornery creatures, too, some of them would rather slave their lives away for a gentleman who'd never tell 'em with roses than for one who swore eternal devotion daily. Then some women, too, in love are happiest when they're the most miserable—if you can make that out. Give one of these a husband whose love she was absolutely sure of and she wouldn't thank you for the blessing.

Who started this discussion, anyway? Who expects it to be answered intelligently?

The only way to solve it properly is to pray that you draw one over whom the question never need be raised.

FARM AND GARDEN BY PAUL POTTER

SELLING MILK AT ROADSIDE.

Milk at reduced prices at roadside stands, where city dwellers stop and fill up gallon, five gallon, or even ten gallon containers to take back to their homes has caused considerable comment among distributors, who say the practice is slowing up city sales.

Officers of the Pure Milk association, which is comprised of more than 18,000 farmers producing and delivering milk for consumption in the Chicago area, report that many of the signs indicating milk is available to tourists and country shoppers are found on the gateposts of members of the association. So-called "surplus" milk is being sold at 20 to 25 cents a gallon, or nearly the "base" milk price that the farmer receives from the dealer except for surplus.

"It does not seem that farmers could be so shortsighted as they are in this instance," is the substance of a report issued by the Pure Milk association. "This milk is raw milk, not pasteurized, and, should it result in an epidemic in any of the markets, milk would be blamed and such an epidemic might result in a marked decrease in sales on all markets."

The roadside sale of surplus milk is termed by the association a market menace. Prosecution of members found selling milk at the roadside is promised through means within the control of the organization and said to be drastic enough to cut off offenders from marketing basic milk through the association.

EMBARRASSING MOMENTS

Something Different.

I was invited to a birthday party, and, having no spare time, asked one of my girl friends to purchase a suitable gift and to have it sent c. o. d. As it was quite late when I got home, I removed the wrapping paper and wrapped the box again, not troubling to see what was in the box.

Everything at the party went along finely until time for opening the gifts. Imagine my chagrin, when my gift was announced, to see a c. o. d. ticket for $4.95 fall out. E. S.

Request for Ice Boxes.

"In our district we have a great number of families who are receiving money for ice but who have no ice boxes. In order to spend THE TRIBUNE Ice Fund in the best possible way, I am eager to secure ice boxes for these people. Would you be able to secure any from your readers?

"E. R."

This need is an urgent one for having ice in the summer time is most important especially since many of these poor families have small babies. Fresh milk induces good health. Can you help the cause by giving the ice chest you no longer use?

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—"The simpler the line, the greater the chic," is the motto of the new Paris gowns, chosen by the famous élégantes who really set the styles for the whole feminine world. Women have had enough of that rampant femininity that expressed itself in picturesque period stuff. One thousand nine hundred thirty-one has its own beauty, a clean cut, decks-stripped-for-action air, that is akin to the trim beauty of a racing yacht.

The latest Paris evening gowns owe much of their charm to the natural grace of the figure, which they reveal with frank simplicity. Bias cuts allow supple fabrics to fall and cling as they will; shining satin emphasizes slended curves, and pastel tones give a more alive effect to the scene than the blacks that were ubiquitous for several seasons.

The evening gown of pale blue satin, sketched today, is a perfect example of the new trend. Lucien Lelong made it for the Duchesse d'Albe, one of the greatest ladies, and also one of the best dressed women, in France.

The bodice, as you see, is slenderly fitted and emphasizes the under arm décolleté one of the signs of the very newest evening gowns for formal occasions. The bodice is cut in one with the upper skirt on the right side. A circular flounce describes a long spiral from in front of the left hip to the back. It's edged with a ruching, made of circles of the pale blue satin, placed side by side, that looks like a glorified incarnation of those paper serpents sold by little Chinese boys at Parisian fêtes. The earrings are of sapphires and diamonds and a diamond clip is worn at the left of the waistline.

Society Plans to View Polo at Onwentsia

THE International Polo Challenge match, that exciting and unprecedented event for which Lake Forest has been preparing excitedly during the last month, will run this afternoon at Onwentsia country club.

Needless to say, this first game between the much heralded Santa Paula and Old Aiken teams will be more exciting to society than anything that's happened for a long time.

The Argentine players and the Old Aiken four, since their respective arrivals on Sunday and Wednesday, have been fêted at as many parties as their strict training rules would permit, and there are many more festivities scheduled for the coming week. Tonight there will be half a dozen dinners for the players and for out of town guests, and a dance at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Chatfield Taylor.

Some of the prominent easterners who will attend the games include Mr. and Mrs. William Hitt of Washington, house guests of Mr. and Mrs. Ogden H. Armour; Mr. and Mrs. Marshall Field, who are to be with Mr. Field's cousins, Mr. and Mrs. T. Clifford Redman; Mr. and Mrs. Walter Lanahan of Baltimore, who are visiting Mr. and Mrs. John Wentworth; Mr. and Mrs. Jock Whitney, guests of Mr. and Mrs. Austin Nibloe; Mrs. Robert L. Bacon of New York, who is a guest of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Linn, and Louis Stoddard of New York, president of the United States Polo association, and Mrs. Stoddard, who are visiting Maj. and Mrs. Frederic McLaughlin.

Miss Carol Bourne and J. C. Howe Jr. to Wed Today.

The marriage of Miss Carol Bourne, daughter of Mrs. Rudolph Prussing of East Cedar street, to Edward C. Howe Jr. will be solemnized at 4:30 o'clock this afternoon at St. Chrysostom's church.

Miss Marion Gilman will be maid of honor for the bride and the bridesmaids will include Miss Rosemary Sidney, Miss Eleanor McPherrin of Denver, Colo.; Miss Marjorie Cornell of Utica, N. Y., and Miss Jane Spalding of New York. Jack Ackerman will be best man and Waldo Tobey, Thomas Wyman, Morris Dowd Van Petten, and Robert Lenz will usher. A reception will follow the ceremony at the Prussing residence. The bride's maternal grandmother, Mrs. J. Hill Whiting, has come from her summer residence at Easthampton for the wedding.

Miss Miss Virginia Woodland is married to William Thomas Heagney of Havana on Tuesday afternoon she will be attended by Mrs. Fred Doepke of Milwaukee as matron of honor and by Miss Virginia Prussing, Mrs. Leland H. Danforth, and Miss Letitia Chisolm as bridesmaids. Windsor Hector of Boston will act as best man for Mr. Heagney and Kenneth Gilmore of Havana. George Woodland, and Thomas Heagney of New York will usher.

The ceremony will be performed at 5 o'clock at the Kenilworth residence of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Woodland, and will be followed by a reception at Indian Hill. Miss Woodland's grandmother, Mrs. George Woodland, and her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Buchanan Woodland, are motoring from Miami for the wedding.

London Lists Bridal Gifts as Very Latest Fashion.

Speaking of brides and weddings—her London correspondent says complete lists of wedding gifts are now being published in the London society columns, and that now custom "may serve the purpose of reducing the number of standard lamps and coffee pots young brides are wont to receive."

The Garden club of Barrington asks us to remind the Saturday motorists that any one driving in the direction of that suburb today may visit eight of its prettiest gardens between 11 and 4 o'clock. The "open" places include those of Mrs. James E. MacMurray, Mrs. H. Stillson Hart, Mrs. Alexander Reichmann, Mrs. John W. Esmond, Mrs. James R. Cardwell, Mrs. Herbert Johnson, Mrs. Marvin E. Miner Jr., and Mrs. John B. Macauley.

H. G. Wells Meets H. G. Wells in London; Drell! Eh, What?

Mrs. William J. Sinclair's brother is H. G. Wells, a scientist, who writes weighty and important books and articles. He is acquainted with the British author, and had lunch with him in London one day. On his way into the restaurant some one asked the Englishman with whom he was to have lunch and he said "H. G. Wells." "Ah, good company, I see," remarked the inquirer, thinking it was a joke. The American Mr. Wells pleased the English one by saying: "You write best sellers, and I write worst sellers."

WASHINGTON SOCIETY

Washington, D. C., July 10.—[Special.]—President and Mrs. Hoover left Washington this afternoon for their Rapidan camp, to remain over the week-end. Their guests at the camp are Vice President Curtis and his brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Everett Gann; the secretary of commerce and Mrs. Lamont, the acting secretary of state and Mrs. Castle, the assistant attorney general and Mrs. Seth Richardson, Assistant Secretary of Commerce Julius Klein, Mr. and Mrs. Alan Fox of New York, and Mr. and Mrs. Thomas F. Healey.

Mrs. Robert P. Lamont of Chicago, wife of the secretary of commerce, who has been spending the last week with her daughter, Mrs. Chauncey Belknap, in Georgetown, Conn., returned today in time to leave with the secretary for the presidential camp. She will leave early in the week for the Lamont summer home in Wisconsin, stopping en route in their Chicago home.

Mrs. Richard Wilmer Bolling, sister-in-law of Mrs. Woodrow Wilson, and her daughter, Barbara, left today for Haven, Me., for the remainder of the summer. Her older daughter, Miss Clara Bolling, whose marriage to Harry R. Fowler, son of Dr. and Mrs. H. A. Fowler of this city, will take place in the early autumn, is remaining with her father until the first of August, when she will go to Haven.

Play Tomorrow for Charity

MRS. PAUL BUTLER.

Two of the strongest polo teams to be selected from the Chicago territory will play an exhibition match tomorrow afternoon at Oak Brook Polo club. The Santa Paula and Old Aiken teams, here for the International Challenge match, will be guests of the club. Proceeds of the Sunday games at Oak Brook go to the Hinsdale Infant Welfare society, of which Mrs. Paul Butler and Mrs. W. W. Kimball are co-chairmen.

Jade Fillings for Teeth May Set Fashion

Dentists of this day and date have not as yet adopted jade as ornaments and inlays for the molars of their patients, but the fad may strike any time now. For J. Eric Thompson, leader of the third Marshall Field archeological expedition to British Honduras and Guatemala, returned yesterday with a collection of such rare and curious objects, relics of the smart set among the ancient Mayas. And you recall what happened when King Tut's sarcophagus started a new fashion.

There were no anaesthetics in Central America of those days, Mr. Thompson commented yesterday as he mulled over a heap of sets of teeth with the inlays of jade which were considered the proper thing among the belles and beaux of that time and country. But any amount or torture, mainly by drilling with a sharpened stone turned by a string bow, was gladly endured for the sake of the pulchritude achieved in a dental display of jade and other colored stones. Dentists were chiefly old women who had acquired great proficiency at the job.

Several months' excavation of some fifteen burial mounds on a site near San Jose in British Honduras yielded these and other relics for the expedition.

Before the work could progress it was necessary to clear the site, hitherto untouched by archeologists, of a heavy outgrowth of forest, in which trees attained the height of 100 feet.

Brandeis Idea for Palestine Adopted at Congress of Zionists

BASEL, July 10.—(AP)—Leaders of the British and German delegations to the Zionist congress today renewed their demand for reelection of Dr. Chaim Weizmann as president of the world Zionist organization, asserting their belief he would agree to be a candidate.

Meantime the Jewish Telegraphic agency reported the political commission remained deadlocked on a resolution regarding a Jewish majority in Palestine. As a compromise the general Zionists have offered a resolution to the effect that "the mandatory power shall not hinder the Jewish work leading to a Jewish majority."

The agency says the labor delegates and Dr. Weizmann would support a modified form of that resolution, but the revisionists, supported by part of the American delegation, oppose it.

The congress voted for the separation of economic from political affairs and the removal of Palestine economic work from the control of the Zionist political control group, as proposed years ago by Justice Louis D. Brandeis of the U. S. Supreme court.

Sally's Gang of 100 Will Be Named in Tribune on Sunday

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

Tomorrow will be an important day for all the boys and girls in and around Chicago for tomorrow's SUNDAY TRIBUNE will divulge the secret of the winners of invitations to our baseball party which will be held next Thursday. Hundreds of young fans wrote to me to be invited to this game and it seems a shame that all but one hundred of you must be disappointed. But even if your name isn't with the list of lucky winners, there'll be good news for you. It will be news of another party and though I can't tell you now what it will be, I do assure you that it will be a good one.

It was extremely interesting to read the letters I received this week. All of you are so well informed about our national sport and all of you have your favorite players. Knowing so much about baseball and being so vitally interested in it should make this party a perfectly thrilling one for you.

PATTERNS BY CLOTILDE

[Registered U. S. Patent Office.]

WOMAN'S AND MISS' DRESS.

Naturally you will want a sleeveless dress for town wear that has one of those becoming cape collars that falls over the upper arms. A circular flounce around the dress just below the hips gives youthful animation to the slender skirt, breaking into rippling fulness at the hem. Flat silk crêpe, linen, and shantung; are pleasing suggestions.

The pattern, No. 2904, comes in sizes 14, 16, 18, and 20 years and 36, 38, and 40 inches bust measure. Size 16 requires 4½ yards of 39 inch material.

How to Order Clotilde Patterns.

Write your name and address plainly on dotted lines, giving number and size of such patterns as you want. Inclose 10 cents in stamps or coin [coin preferred; wrap it carefully], for each number, and address your order to Clotilde Patterns, CHICAGO TRIBUNE, 220 East 42d street, New York City.

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

I think parents often use the expression "puppy love" to their children in a kind of fear—a fear that they will marry too young or without enough experience. But even at that, I think parents have needless fears in this direction. The attractions of the middle teens often seem to have no connection with marriage in the minds of boys and girls, themselves. Their emotional life is, as a rule, of a different quality from the emotional life of mature men and women—marriage, a home, babies, and especially passion in the accepted sense of the word do not seem to enter much into their thoughts and feelings.

As a rule, very young love doesn't lead to marriage. But if it should I'm wondering if that is such a dreadful thing. From my observation young marriages are quite as successful as those entered into at a mature age.

But one fact experience in general has proved—if parents want to squelch an attachment that they do not approve of or that they think is too intense, they are not wise in resorting to ridicule to do it. Probably many fancies would pass if they were not treated so, and were not, as a result, driven to dignify themselves by sudden marriages—or sometimes in the same sort of defiance by unwise relations. They feel the need to "show" their parents, as if to say, "See—you were wrong. It wasn't puppy love, at all. It was a very grownup and serious affair."

Of course, sometimes there are early attachments that you feel you must discourage for perfectly valid reasons—reasons other than that of too great youth. Where this is the case, tread lightly, deal gently—not with derision, not with gibes, but with delicacy and understanding and perhaps frank explanations. The tactful, not the rough shod way, will win out and leave no sting behind.

Tomorrow's—Sunday's—article will be on the subject of "Puppy Love."

U. of C. Official Tells More of New Teaching

A new plan of examination through which the bachelor's degree will be awarded at the University of Chicago was announced yesterday by George A. Works, university examiner and dean of students. Dean Works addressed delegates at the institute for administrative officers of higher institutions which closed a three day session at the university yesterday.

In addition to being the basis for exit from the college division, which will require the average student a two year period of study under the new educational plan, comprehensive examinations also have been adopted in three of the upper divisions and one professional school as the basis for awarding the bachelor's degree.

The three divisions which have adopted the new plan are the humanities, physical sciences and social science divisions. The school of commerce and administration previously had adopted the examinations. To pass from the college or lower division students must pass six examinations.

In a later address Dean Charles H. Judd of the school of education at the university stressed the need for an examination method which places more emphasis on ability to draw inferences and to reason from facts rather than on mere memory.

"Many of the examinations now given in American schools and colleges test the learner's memory for facts and his ability to define technical terms," said Dr. Judd. "Insofar as such examinations serve as a means of selecting those who are allowed to go forward into higher schools, they emphasize or select memory as the most desirable, or at least the most tangible, trait to be cultivated through the educational process."

Dr. Judd suggested that promotion should be based on the learner's ability to reason.

Food Talk.

Saving the dinner plates in the oven is a good habit to acquire, especially during the warm weather season. It is an excellent time and labor saving scheme not only when it comes to the actual serving but also to the dishwashing.

Then, too, it is great fun to arrange the food attractively on the plates and watch how quickly it disappears, for even a tired appetite will perk up at the sight of a beautifully served plate of well cooked food.

When planning plate dinners [they should always be planned to be most satisfactory] try to choose foods that will harmonize in color, flavor, and texture. Bring in enough color to make the plate a pleasing appearance. If possible, however, to use so much color that the plate will appear as though it had run riot. In summertime there is an abundance of highly colored vegetables and it is always an easy matter to provide an interesting dish.

As important as the color or appearance of the plate is the variation of flavors of the foods on the plate. Mild flavors, subtle flavors and pronounced ones running from the mild to the salt and the acid should be included.

A variety in the texture of foods always adds an interest to the things we eat. Soft foods, crunchy ones, tough, fragile ones, and sometimes foods that are almost tough and offer resistance like the crust on hard rolls or rye bread are necessary to make a meal enjoyable.

The plate dinner should be planned around a protein food—meat, fish, cheese, eggs, or legumes—and rightly so, for protein is an essential food for body building and repair of body tissue. A few suggestions for plate dinners follow:

YOU NEVER KNEW BRAN COULD BE SO DELICIOUS

KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN is a delightful surprise. It is as good to eat as it is good for you.

This appetizing ready-to-eat cereal protects and relieves you from constipation—and from the headaches, the dizziness, the lack of "pep" that go with it.

Start the whole family on this health-habit tomorrow. Two tablespoonfuls of ALL-BRAN, eaten daily, will prevent and relieve both temporary and recurring constipation. In severe cases, eat ALL-BRAN with each meal.

Delicious with milk or cream, fruits or honey added. ALL-BRAN also furnishes iron, which brings color to cheeks and lips. At all grocers in the red-and-green package. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

ELEVEN RACE TODAY IN ARLINGTON OAKS

ARGENTINE FOUR AND OLD AIKEN BATTLE TODAY

Onwentsia Scene of International Polo.

Polo Facts

PLACE—Onwentsia club, Lake Forest, Ill.

TIME—4:30 p. m. today.

HOW TO GET THERE—By automobile, drive route 43 to Lake Forest. The polo field is just west of the North Western railroad tracks in Lake Forest. Turn west on Deerpath avenue, Lake Forest. By rail take either the Chicago and North Western or North Shore trains to Lake Forest.

ADMISSION—$3 for one game or $5 for both of these games.

BY TOM PETTEY.

Old Aiken will meet the Argentine polo team at Onwentsia club at 4:30 o'clock this afternoon in the first of a series of three polo games. It will be Chicago's first international match and a crowd of more than 5,000 is expected to fill the new grand stands built for the occasion.

The velvet green turf of the field has been given its final grooming and play has been permitted within its the border rails for several days in order that it might be kept in perfect condition.

Both the Old Aiken men and the Santa Paula team went through light workouts yesterday, but there was no match play. Most of the day was devoted to rest and conversational polo. The men and their mounts are in tip-top physical condition and the game today should sell high goal polo to the man in the street as it never before has been sold in the middle west.

Every Pony Ready to Play.

Tommy Nelson, the Argentina team manager, said last night that every pony in the Santa Paula string of 16 was in condition to play. Word from the Old Aiken stables was to the same effect.

Chicago polo leaders are especially interested in getting the general public throughout the middle west to see international matches and the field has been thrown open to all who care to purchase tickets. The cost of bringing the two teams to Chicago for the series already has amounted to approximately $20,000, but if the attendance holds up to expectations the Onwentsia club probably will break even. No attempt has been made to make a profit out of the games.

Louis E. Stoddard, head of the United States Polo association, under whose auspices the Onwentsia series is being held, will arrive from New York in time for the first game this afternoon. Frank S. O'Rielly, secretary, will accompany him.

Parade Before Game.

Immediately before the game begins there will be a pony parade. The fine South American horses and thirty-six mounts from the Old Aiken string will march past the grandstand and around the field.

Leading the Argentine lineup will be Fiorelle, the fleet, white faced pony from Alfredo Harrington's string. Huracan, Pinchon, and Lafe, also from Señor Harrington's string, will be well up in the front. Juan Reynal will have eight mounts in the parade, Pampero and Mancha, in the front. Sinclair and Potrillo from Jose Reynal's string will draw attention from the crowd. Manuel Andrada has ten ponies here, the most known two being Biscocho and Massa.

A number of American bred ponies will be seen in the Old Aiken lineup. Eldridge T. Gerry, Harvard player, will have Coy, thoroughbred chestnut mare, at the head of his string. James Hills of Yale, has six mounts here. Three of them are American bred—Dash, a chestnut gelding; Black Betty, nine year old Wyoming mare, and Fuzzy, bay mare from New Mexico.

Rathborne to Show Four.

Stewart B. Iglehart, also a Yale player, will have eight mounts in the parade. They are all Texas bred except three which came from Chile.

Joseph C. Rathborne has four mounts, chestnut colored with the exception

Macks Defeat Yankees, 8-6, in 14 Innings

New York, July 10.—(AP)—For the seventh time this season the New York Yankees engaged in an extra inning conflict today and for the sixth time they went down in defeat as the Philadelphia Athletics beat them out, 8 to 6, in 14 innings.

Max Bishop's triple in the 14th, a wild pitch by Ed Wells, Al Simmons' single and a triple by Jimmy Foxx gave the champions their victory. George Earnshaw, who relieved Walberg in the seventh, held the Yankees scoreless through the five extra innings. The first two Yankees up in the 14th hit safely, but Earnshaw forced the next batter to pop up and then struck out the next two to end the contest. But for Lou Gehrig the A's would have won in the regulation time. Two Yanks were out in the last of the ninth when Babe Ruth singled and Gehrig deposited his twenty-second home run of the year in the right field bleachers to tie the score, 6 to 6. Score:

HERE'S MYSTERY: WHO ASKED FOR A NEW GOLF BALL?

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, July 10.—Always a diligent listener, I have heard up to now several hundred strong opinions of the new type of golf ball, all of them hostile, and have yet to learn who it was that raised the great popular clamor for the change.

It seems almost as if this had been a silent national outcry because things had been going along in an all-right sort of way in golf when, all of a sudden, the U. S. Golf association issued a bulletin which said, in effect, "we yield to public demand and in 1931 the standard golf ball will be larger and lighter."

Fortunately, the golf association is the most reasonable and the least officious and petty of all the bodies controlling sport in this country, so it is much more responsive to public displeasure over ill-advised legislation than a body of politicians would be in similar circumstances.

New Ball Won't Last.

So the new golf ball doubtless will be abandoned in no more time than the manufacturers will need to sell off their stocks and earn back some if not all of the money which they had to spend to meet the new specifications.

The more exasperated golfers in their impatience to play the old ball again under official sanction may argue that a man has only so many years to live and play golf and that he should not be penalized for the sake of those soulless corporations which manufacture the golf balls. But the golf association is their representative, and having made an honest and not very serious mistake, the association cannot honorably ask the manufacturers to stand the expense.

The people who play golf, if they weigh the benefits derived from the government which administers their game against this error in the matter of the new ball, will find that they have been served very well. They have only to glance at amateur tennis with its professional amateurs and its constant surrenders of sporting principle for the sake of gate receipts to understand the difference.

Golf Is Different.

When Tilden threatened to quit tennis unless the rules of amateurism were interpreted to suit his plans, the tennis association so interpreted the rules. But in golf, when Burke and Von Elm, in their playoff at Toledo, would have liked to share in the gate receipts, Mr. Ramsay, the president of the U. S. G. A., gave them their choice between playing according to the old accepted conditions or not playing at all.

Being very candid pros and parties to a long and wearing contest beyond the ordinary limits of the tournament, the young men could not be blamed for thinking that some portion of the additional receipts ought to be theirs. If Schmeling and Stribling had fought to a draw in Cleveland they would not have been willing to fight two more rounds without pay.

Obviously the boys of the golf association made a mistake, but obviously the golfers who are complaining so much about the difference between the old ball and the new are sympathizing too keenly with themselves. Any one who plays the game well enough to notice, or imagine that he notices, a serious difference, probably plays better than the great majority of those who struggle at the game, blaming only themselves for their agonies. It is the players who shoot in the eighties and low nineties consistently who moan loudest about the way of the new ball in the wind and on the rim of the cup. To most victims of the game this complaint has the sound of a millionaire's holler about the cost of matches.

Pros' Scores Almost Same.

The professionals were only slightly over their old scores in the recent big tournaments, and though many of their putts did stall short of the cups and others ran around the rims, it will be remembered also that those which

Talking It Over

BY ARCH WARD.

Much has been said and written about the late Knute Rockne. It is probable that more was said and written of him than about any American of our day.

But it remained for the Rev. Charles L. O'Donnell, president of the University of Notre Dame, to bring out something in the character of Rockne which in Father O'Donnell's opinion did not receive adequate recognition at the time of his death. That was his attitude toward his school.

Speaking at a recent Notre Dame alumni banquet, Father O'Donnell said:

"I do not know how I can bring before you more clearly Rockne's regard as an alumnus for his school than by reading you the last letter I received from him. It was written less than 24 hours before his death. It was dictated in my office. Rockne came to see me Monday afternoon, March 30, before leaving for Kansas City on the way to the coast. He had been offered $50,000 to take part in a moving picture which was to represent the spirit of Notre Dame.

"I was in Chicago and there was no chance for the final conference which he hoped to have with me. He laid on my desk a letter offering him this contract, and dictated to my secretary the following note:

"'Dear Father—The enclosed letter speaks for itself. I came up to see you and found you would be out of town for the day. I leave this matter entirely in your hands. They have offered me fifty thousand [$50,000] dollars for this proposition, which, however, doesn't interest me at all. The only thing I thought was that there might be a chance to put over a picture that would be instructive and educational as regards Notre Dame in every sense of the word.

"'Please wire me collect at the Hotel Biltmore, Los Angeles, where I will be Wednesday.

"'Sincerely yours, ROCK.'"

You hear a lot about alumni enthusiasm for alma mater, but here is something to talk about. Rockne was ready to set aside a remarkable offer if the head of his school thought it unwise to permit this picture to be made. It amounted in effect to a $50,000 donation to a school's ideal. In a few weeks Rockne could have made the equivalent of five years service on the coaching field.

Max Schmeling, a German, and Primo Carnera, an Italian, are going to fight for the heavyweight championship of the world in September. Think of it! A title boxing match without an American involved. This is something the Daughters of the American Revolution ought to look into right away.

It is encouraging to observe that a Chicagoan is first to rally to the support of your Uncle Sam. Mique Malloy, who appeared at the ringside in Cleveland the other night attired in a dinner coat, rubber boots, and a panama hat, has set about the task of developing a heavyweight who can win back America's fistic prestige.

Mr. Malloy on July 20 will present at White City arena the first of a series of bouts calculated to bring forth the next champion of the world. In fact, he threatens to run a heavyweight elimination tournament. Tuffy Griffith and Paul Pantaleo will be the principals in the opening match.

"Cleveland wanted me to stay there to run bouts in the new stadium," Mique explained last night. "And St. Louis insisted that I return there to revive the game. But I belong in Chicago. My first duty is to my native city. I am going to get 4,000,000 people talking about the great shows put on by Mique Malloy.

"The Golden Glove bouts showed what could be done by giving the fans high class entertainment at cheap prices. That's the policy I shall follow. Fifty cents to three dollars, with women admitted free to the unreserved sections. We'll pack 'em in."

Chicago has a new treat today, an international polo match. The series at Onwentsia between the Old Aiken players from Harvard and Yale and the Santa Paula team from the Argentine is expected to produce the best polo Chicago has seen.

Credit for arranging the match belongs to Maj. Frederic McLaughlin and the polo committee of which he is the head. They hope by presenting teams the caliber of Santa Paula and Old Aiken to awaken Chicago's interest in a sport that is played in nearly every civilized country in the world.

21 Yachts Off on Saugatuck Race Tonight

Twenty-one boats, representing three divisions, are entered in the eleventh annual Chicago to Saugatuck, Mich., race sponsored by the Jackson Park Yacht club, which will start at the foot of Van Buren street at 7 o'clock tonight.

All of the leaders in last year's race and several new contenders will be among the starters in the cruising, Seawanhaka and universal divisions. Included in the field is the Alert VI., owned by Charles Wiman of the Chicago Yacht club, which is favored to win the universal time prize following its showing in the Columbia Yacht club's Michigan City race and the Jackson Park club's Independence day regatta. It will receive strong competion, however, from the O'Rourke brothers' Intruder, which won in its class last year.

Cruising Division New.

The cruising division is an added feature of the race this year, and will draw six starters, including Velma, Hilaria, Niobe, Beaver, Voyageur and Seabird, the last named being the only out of town entrant, hailing from Milwaukee.

The 1930 Saugatuck race was a real struggle, with Intruder taking the time prize in the universal division, while Edith II. won in the Seawanhaka class. Columbia was the first boat to finish, coming in seconds ahead of Intruder, but the Edith II.'s time allowance gave her the prize.

Heavy Sea Is Peril.

The starting breeze last year held until about 3 o'clock in the morning when it hauled to northwest, and within a few minutes considerable sea was kicked up, so much in fact, that by daybreak the yachts were having difficulty in heading in for Saugatuck. Fame, Circe and a few others decided to head for South Haven in the early hours, rather than beat 25 miles up the shore. The yachts which had followed the true northeast course during the night, jibbed over and close reached for the finishing port, some 30 miles away.

Previous Winners

Boys, 14 and 15—Mike Howlett.
Boys, 12 and 13—Robert Marriott.
Girls, 14 and 15—Claudia Eckert.
Girls, 12 and 13—Bernadette Connolly.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Four Chicago boys and girls won 100 yard swimming championships last year. On July 26 at Lincoln park lagoon ten champions will be determined in the second annual meet sponsored by THE TRIBUNE.

These ten—five boys and five girls—will receive gold medals in recognition of their speed. But while the events will produce a series of closely contested races which have no equal in the central states in number of entries, the championships, in themselves, are not as important as the universal competition.

How Fast Can You Swim?

These races are annual tests in ability to swim 100 yards. Thousands of Chicago's youngsters and grownups daily use the pools of the city and park districts or play along the lake shore. Only a small percentage actually swim 100 yards each day, and few ever know how fast they can swim a set distance.

This then is the purpose of THE TRIBUNE'S races, to offer a swimming test for young and old. For some it may be an easy test. Others scarcely may be able to swim 100 yards, but in both cases increased interest fosters safety for those who use Chicago's beaches and pools.

Each swimmer who completes the 100 yard test will receive a merit badge, a reward for accomplishment and a souvenir of the competition.

With the rearrangement of the age classifications this year, it will be possible for champions of last year to defend their titles. In the future the swimming meet will follow the same rules that have been in force for the Silver Skates Derbies. Champions may race the following year if they advance to the next class. With the present five divisions, two age divisions in effect last year have been split. Where last July the 14 and 15 year olds competed together, now the 13 and 14 and the 15 and 16 ages are grouped. The age classification for the races July 26 follow:

Class A—11 and 12 years of age.
Class B—13 and 14 years of age.
Class C—15 and 16 years of age.
Class D—17 and 18 years of age.

Entries close July 20.

TOMMY THOMAS.

WES FERRELL.

Two of the leading pitchers in baseball oppose each other at Comiskey park this afternoon when Tommy Thomas leads the White Sox against Wes Ferrell of no hit, no run fame, and the Cleveland Indians.

Thomas Meets Ferrell Today as Sox Resume

BY EDWARD BURNS.

The White Sox and the Cleveland Indians will be back at their baseball playing at Comiskey park this afternoon, all refreshed from a day off dedicated to the business of making the turnstiles sing at a double header tomorrow.

Yesterday was an open date in the schedule for emergency purposes, but when the emergency arose in the form of a postponed game the Sox management decided that it would be dandy for the customers to get a bargain on the Sabbath.

Thomas Opposes Ferrell.

The arrangement didn't make any one mad, so far as could be learned. The ball players were especially delighted with the privilege of having a day off in July that was not occasioned by bad weather. Ball players don't like double headers, but they're always willing to play them in return for a day of leisure.

This afternoon, however, there will be only one game. But it should be a good one, for two of the best known pitchers in the American league, Tommy Thomas and Wes Ferrell, will oppose each other. Ferrell will be out for his 12th victory and Thomas will begin working on the project of making the young man lose his No. 8.

Sox Head East Monday.

Thomas' season record is not nearly so impressive as Ferrell's—Tommy has won five and lost nine—but in recent starts the pride of Baltimore has been showing a lot of his old time class.

After Sunday's games the Sox will head for the east, where on Tuesday they will launch their second eastern invasion against the Washington Senators. They will play all the eastern clubs, of course, and will stop off in Detroit for a series with their cellar rivals, the Detroit Tigers.

TURF'S FASTEST FILLIES VIE FOR NATIONAL TITLE

Oaks Field

Horse.	Wt.	Jockey.	Odds.
1—Seattle	113	J. Raby	6-1
2—Canfil	110	F. Dyer	30-1
3—Sunny Lassie	118	G. Ellis	15-1
4—Cousin Jo	121	C. E. Allen	4-1
5—Dark Magnet	113	E. Watters	10-1
6—Rock Belle	116	J. C. Meek	40-1
7—Avenger	113	A. Roberts'n	4-1
8—Tony Princess	116	F. Munden	10-1
9—Blind Lane	118	F. Catrone	6-1
10—Tambour	121	F. Coltiletti	2-1
11—Anne Arundel	116	R. Jones	100-1

BY FRENCH LANE.

The 3 year old filly champion of America will be crowned at Arlington Park shortly before 4 o'clock this afternoon just after the Arlington Oaks, worth about $20,000, is run. Arlington officials expect more than 30,000 fans.

Last night eleven of the fleetest and gamest thoroughbreds of that sex and age in the country were awaiting the struggle.

The east was ready to make a spectacular bid for the honors as nine in the field represented owners from along the Atlantic seaboard. One other—Canfil—came from Texas, but Cousin Jo, a big, strong hearted chestnut daughter of Stimulus from old Kentucky, the winner of the Kentucky Oaks, was the filly most westerners and nearly all Chicagoans were backing to win the honors.

Faces Mighty Task.

Despite the backing Cousin Jo will get from Chicagoans and from the folks from Kentucky, she will not be the favorite. Tambour, from New York, owned by Preston Burch, the winner of the Coaching club American Oaks at Belmont, will enjoy that post of honor.

Cousin Jo can beat Tambour and still have a heart trying job on her hands. For there's Avenger, Dark Magnet, Scuttle, Sunny Lassie, Rockbelle, Toney Princess, Blind Lane and Anne Arundel in the eastern group ready to sweep in and pass Cousin Jo if she weakens at any stage of the battle.

Last night Tambour ruled as the 2 to 1 favorite. Cousin Jo and Avenger were the second choices at 4 to 1 and Scuttle and Blind Lane were the equal third choices at 6 to 1. If one wanted to back any of the others, he could just about write his own ticket.

The only missing topliner filly from the entries is Risque, from the stable of Mrs. John Hertz. But her last two races have been so bad many wonder if she really belongs in the top flight. At any rate she wasn't named overnight for the Oaks.

Oaks to Be Run Third.

The Oaks will be run as the third race at Arlington today to allow many persons who witness it to journey to Onwentsia in time for the first of the international polo matches between the Argentines and Old Aiken.

While the crowd at Arlington yesterday was speculating on the outcome of the Oaks a parade of long shots went marching past the line of finish on an off day program.

Who Win, one of the ne'er do wells in the stable of John Coughlin of Chicago's First ward, gave the long shot players their first chance to cheer long and loud when he won the Evanston purse over the mile Hertz course.

Neglected in the betting and paying $67.22 for a two dollar ticket, Who Win came home the winner of one of the most exciting races run in Chicago this season. It was just by the length of his nose that he won. Three other horses were so close to him that a blanket would have covered the first four as they came thumpty thump thump down the stretch to the finish.

Win Places by a Nose.

Only skilled eyes could determine the final outcome. Nostaw got second money, beaten a nose by Who Win, and Uluniu finished third, a nose back of Nostaw. And just a nose back in fourth place came Cheers.

The four leaders ran in that alignment all the way down the stretch and Who Win got the decision because Jockey McCoy slipped in through next to the rail and saved ground wherever it was possible, then lifted his head up and literally threw Who Win across the finish line to make him win.

Who Win was away last in the field of nine and he had but one horse beaten when the field headed into the stretch. But Jockey McCoy was smart enough to wheel him through the last part of the struggle next to the rail, saving an inch here and another inch there, and that is where he won his race.

Just after Who Win scored his unexpected victory along came Mouthpiece, owned by the Lemar Stock Farm stable, to show off a field of platers and win by three lengths. In the mutuels he paid $135.04 for a $1 ticket.

Mr. Marks, the wealthy New Yorker who is the boss of the Lemar Stock farm, was in the audience, but I am sure he did not bet on Mouthpiece. Neither did Trainer Mose Lowenstein of Chicago. If they had bet no such a price as $135.04 would have prevailed.

New York, July 10.—[Special.]—The Aqueduct meeting ended today with Charon a winner of the Myrtle claiming stakes, the Queens County Jockey club's old test which first was run in 1887. The stake now is at a mile, and the four year old son of Cudgel and Gladbrook galloped the distance in the good time of 1:39 2-5.

It was not a very exciting getaway day, as the horses came down in the stretch in Indian file for the most part, but Charon had none too easy a time beating eight others. He was in a drive to beat Black Mammy by half a length with Backagammon, the hot favorite, a length back in third position.

The winner was at 5 to 1, while Black Mammy was an outsider at 20 to 1, but it was her closing rush that made Charon do his best, and run a faster Myrtle than Bridegroom and On Top, winners respectively in 1929 and 1930.

Before the running there was a great stir in the paddock as to the respective merits of Backagammon, Quarter Deck and Bathorse. True, Charon was mentioned, but only decreatingly, and his price went up from 7 to 2 to 5 to 1.

French Honey soon took command and, drawing away from her opponents after leaving the back stretch, was an easy winner. Koster Maid finished fast on the inside and got up in the last stride to beat White Flier for second place. White Flier was also going well at the finish. Mad Step tired in the last sixteenth. Pandis showed a flash of speed but broke slowly.

SECOND RACE—About two miles. Purse $2,000, allowances, steeplechase, 4 year olds and upwards, to winner, $1,400; second, $350; third, $225; fourth, $125.

Icicle, always within striking distance of the leaders and jumping well, rushed to the front taking the twelfth fence and quickly opening up a long lead was eased up at the finish. Canterbury, showing good speed from the start, took a good lead entering the stretch and held away to the end. Jem, in close quarters early moved into a contending position when clear and made a game bid in the stretch but could not catch the winner. Kadiak, away slowly, made up much ground in the last quarter. Dr. Parrish also closed ground. Dacite dwelt at the start. Andora tired badly. Toney Joe, a forward contender early, was tiring when he broke down and fell in the last furlong, and Dark Simon, attempting to hurdle him, also lost his rider.

SEVENTH RACE—One and one-eighth miles. Purse $1,500, claiming, 3 year olds and up. Net value to winner, $1,100; second, $225; third, $125; fourth, $50.

Newgro, a beat winner, was benefitted by the fast start and soon took a good lead, showing the way throughout and won easily. Tommie Kirnan was also off quickly and was a forward factor throughout. Point Final went well and improved his position in the stretch but was never serious. Unemployed and Roy Arvie were shuffled back early and had little chance. Sophist also met with early interference. Prince Ascot had early speed but tired.

Adine assumed a handy advantage after going a quarter and, racing well, showed the way to the end to win easily. Burs Leary was never far from the pace and held Annapolitan at the finish. Annapolitan lacked speed but made up some ground in the stretch. Sweet Scent closed a gap and was going well at the finish. Inside made up much ground on the inside. Twenty Odd early speed but was tiring at end. Oh Yeah and Suneros met with interference.

FIFTH RACE—One mile. Purse $1,800. Allowances 4 year olds and up. Net value to winner, $1,300; second, $360; third, $150; fourth, $50.

Who Win, under a strong ride, saved much ground in final quarter and, finishing very fast, found clear sailing on the inside through the stretch to get to the front nearing the end won under a drive. Nostaw, never far from the pace, made a game challenge in the last furlong but could not get up. Uluniu raced forwardly from the start and finished close up. Cheers opened up a good lead in the early running but weakened near the end. Culloden was blocked repeatedly and he had little chance. Martis showed a good effort. Sun Falcon tired.

Fort Dearborn went to the front soon after the start and, showing good form, led most of the way to win under urging. Punishment went well and was gaining on the winner at the finish. Albazano acted badly at the barrier but came on the outside most of the way but made up ground in the stretch. Macedon closed some ground. Black Bull had early speed but tired. St. Agnes also weakened after going one mile.

*Field. Time, :24, :48 4-5, 1:14 1-5, 1:39 3-5, 1:52 4-5. Two dollar mutuels paid: Dunmore, $8.52 straight, $4.12 place, $3.52 show; Ladrone, $7.60 place, $5.24 show; Cabildo, $5.84 show. Start good for all but Torch Fire. Won easily, place driving. Went to post at 6:02. At post 3½ minutes. Trained by S. W. Ward.

Dunmore, close up from the start, saved much ground around the last two turns and, taking a good lead entering the stretch, won easily. Ladrone held under restraint in the early stages was taken around the outside when making his move and made a game finish. Cabildo came strongly in the stretch to finish fastest of all. Spanflow was prominent most of the way. Stick Around, Stone Martin and Otilla were used up in the early running and all tired. Peter Peter acted badly at the barrier and was started from outside the stall gate. Torch Fire dwelt at the start and was off badly.

Twenty Grand Is Due Today at Arlington

Twenty Grand, winner of the Wood Memorial, Kentucky Derby, Belmont and Dwyer revivals, will reach Arlington Park at 3 o'clock this morning, according to a message received last night by Otto Lehman, president of the Arlington Park Jockey club, from James Rowe, trainer for Mrs. Helen Hay Whitney.

The message said the 3 year old had left New York yesterday. Twenty Grand is reported in fine condition and appears a certain starter in the Classic at Arlington next Saturday. Rowe also is bringing Mrs. Whitney's other Classic prospect, St. Brideaux.

Tom Donohue, who trains the steeplechasers in the stable of Joseph E. Widener, thinks Arlington Park is the standout racing plant in America. Such a statement from Mr. Donohue may roil his New York friends, for his employer, Joseph E. Widener, is vice chairman of the Jockey club in New York and the boss of the Belmont Park track.

But Mr. Donohue spoke his piece. "I don't believe there is a more beautiful place anywhere. I've never looked at a better course for flat racers or a finer fencer's field," he said. Trainer Donohue didn't appear worried about what the New Yorkers might think of his statement.

French Honey, a daughter of Epinard-Honey Pot, finally rolled home an easy winner in the maiden 2 year old race which opened the program at Arlington yesterday. She's from the Audley Farm stable and was somewhat of a mystery to Trainer Kay Spence until she won so easily, for early in the spring Spence thought she was the best 3 year old he had ever handled, and he's trained a lot of topnotchers in his time. He took her to Belmont in May and thought she was a cinch to beat some good eastern juveniles, but French Honey was not quite ready and failed. She later failed at Washington Park and still later was a disappointment at Arlington. But she finally made amends in the short 5½ furlong dash yesterday and paid 6 to 1 to those who backed her.

Word to Racing Secretary Joseph McLennan from New York is that James Fitzsimmons will leave Aqueduct tomorrow. With him will come James W.

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

The old golf ball yesterday swept into the biggest advantage it has yet held over its new rival in the poll being conducted by THE TRIBUNE and the Chicago Daily Fee association among players on the daily fee courses. Yesterdays' voting concluded the ballot among the daily fee golfers, and the total count for the three weeks' campaign will be announced tomorrow. A poll of several private courses in the Chicago district will start next week.

Yesterday's total, compiled from three daily fee courses—Big Oaks, Techny Fields, and Cog Hill—showed 118 players who wish the return of the ball banished by the United States Golf association at the beginning of the year, while only 23 are content with the pellet which replaced it.

The heaviest vote was polled at Big Oaks, and it was there that the new ball suffered one of its worst defeats, for it was outdistanced on all three of the important issues of the poll. First, there were 71 votes for the old ball, and only 12 for the new. Then 66 of the voters took their stand against the shot to the green with the new ball, while 17 supported it. And the old ball's margin in the matter of putting was almost as convincing, forty-one Big Oaks golfers prefer to make their shots to the cup with the old ball, as against 22 who are satisfied with the present version.

Old Wins Approachers, Putters.

The result of the vote on approaches and putts at Big Oaks marked the first time during the daily fee poll that the new ball has not enjoyed a slight advantage. Even though a majority of players might demand the return of the discarded ball, practically every course's count gave the shots to the green and cup with the new ball an edge over the old.

Techny Fields and Cog-Hill were as positive about their aversion to the ball now in use as was Big Oaks. The former voted thumbs down on it by a score of 17 to 7, while Cog-Hill was for the old ball by 20 votes to four. The new ball and its apparent superiority in approaching and putting asserted itself at the two courses again, drawing a larger number of votes than its predecessor in each case.

It has been noted during the poll that the one point which appears to bring the players over to the old ball's side, even though they may have nothing against it from the standpoints of approaching and putting, is driving. Players were asked to tell the distance they clubbed on tee shots with the old ball and the new ball, and the poll showed a decrease of from 15 to 20 yards with the new ball.

Here Are the Results.

BIG OAKS.

Want old ball back	71
Want to keep new ball	12
Like shot to green with new ball	17
Don't like it	66
Like putt with new ball	22

TECHNY FIELDS.

Want old ball back	27
Want to keep new ball	7
Like shot to green with new ball	23
Don't like it	11
Like putts with new ball	22

COG HILL.

Want old ball back	20
Want to keep new one	4
Don't like it	9
Like putts with new ball	14
Don't like it	10

HELEN MOODY ON WAY EAST TO WIN BACK U. S. TITLE

San Francisco, Cal., July 10.—(AP)—America's foremost woman tennis player—Mrs. Helen Wills Moody—left tonight for the east on an invasion on hopes will return to her the national championship she voluntarily relinquished last year.

Winner of the national crown six times and holder of the English title on several occasions, Mrs. Moody this year is playing what experts say is the finest tennis of her career. Weeks of intensive practice have fortified her game and she has added new chop strokes to her repertoire.

Mrs. Moody will open her invasion in an invitational tournament at Manchester, Mass., July 20. On Aug. 7 and 8 she will play in the Wightman cup matches at Forest Hills and will finish up with the nationals Aug. 17-22.

Pro Grid Chiefs Meet Here to Consider New Members

Club owners of the National Professional Football league will meet here today and tomorrow to consider the advisability of expanding the circuit. Several petitions for franchises have been made. President Joe Carr has refused to comment on the league's probable action. He did say, however, that the clubs which finished last season's schedule were certain to be included for the next campaign, the schedule for which will be drawn up tomorrow.

Boston Store Team Wins Soft Ball Championship

The Boston Store won the State Street Soft Ball league championship by outlasting the Fair yesterday at Lincoln park, 6 to 4. Rothfeld allowed the Fair only seven hits and struck out 13. Score:

Batteries—Hill and Friedman; Rothfeld and Kennedy.

DOROTHY FOSTER WINS WOMEN'S JUNIOR CROWN

Miss Dorothy Foster of Springfield, Ill., won the 12th annual women's western junior golf championship at La Grange yesterday, defeating Miss Eleanor Tobin of Flossmoor, 6 and 5. Miss Foster, out in 45, was 7 up at the turn. Miss Tobin's game was far below that in the semi-finals, when she covered the first nine in 44, the best score of the tournament.

Miss Foster played consistent golf throughout, except on the 11th, where Miss Tobin's par 5 resulted in her only hole victory of the match. At the 12th a question arose as to whether Miss Tobin's ball had moved on the green when she was addressing it. The referee ordered them to play another hole, which they halved.

Miss Folger Wins.

This is the last junior tournament Miss Foster will be eligible to compete in, as she becomes 18 years old in September. When she was 15, she won the Grand View club championship, which she held for three years. She is also the city champion of Springfield. She will compete in the women's western championship at Exmoor on Aug. 24.

The championship consolation was won by Miss Evelyn Folger of Illinois, who was one down at the turn to her 13 year old opponent, Miss Virginia Jensen of Mohawk. Virginia was playing in her first tournament Miss Folger, 15 years old, was playing in her third Western Junior tournament.

Doris Garrison Beaten.

The first flight was won by Miss Roberta McKay, Midlothian, 7 and 5, from Miss Louise Willard of Exmoor In the first flight consolation Miss Evelyn Murphy of Olympia Fields defeated Miss Doris Garrison of Mohawk, 5 and 3.

Miss Mary Ann Bates of La Grange defeated Miss Evelyn Glasser, Mohawk, in the second flight final, 2 and 1. Second flight consolation was won by Miss Josephine Buhl, Highland Park, when Miss Mary Cronin of Evanston defaulted.

CITY FINAL TODAY

BY BETTY ECKERSALL.

Mrs. Rose Marshall of Marquette Park scored her fifth consecutive victory in the 13th annual women's city golf tournament at Marquette Park yesterday, defeating Mrs. Mary King, a clubmate, 3 and 2, in a semi-final match.

Mrs. Rose Long, Jackson Park champion, was eliminated by Mrs. Dorothy Meany of Cog Hill, 3 and 2. Mrs. Long was expected to be Mrs. Marshall's opponent in the final, but Mrs. Meany, whose golf has improved within the last year, played too steady a game for the veteran Mrs. Long. The latter's hooking of tee and fairway shots, with subsequent out of bounds penalties, lost her the match.

Mrs. Marshall and Mrs. Meany will meet for the title this morning at 9 o'clock. The two play a similar game, both relying upon their putting and approaching rather than tee and fairway shots.

Miss Violet McQueen of Jackson Park won the first flight championship, defeating Mrs. Elizabeth B. Smith, also of Jackson Park, 6 and 5. The consolation championship was won by Mrs. Helen Levy, unattached, who defeated Mrs. Betty Netzorg of Olympic 1 up on the 20th hole.

Mrs. E. T. Nicholas Jr. of Lincolnshire shot a 44—42—86 to lead the field of 55 in the Chicago Women's District Golf association open at Butterfield yesterday. Mrs. O. E. Shiell of Glen Oak, a newcomer in the district play, was second with 88. Women's par is 79.

Scores were comparatively high. Mrs. Lee Mida of the home club, one of the district's leading golfers, had an 89, while Miss June Beebe of Olympia Fields, recently crowned women's western champion, had an 18 hole total of 90.

Mrs. Nicholas encountered putting trouble on nearly every hole. She took three putts on the par four 16th for a 6. The leading scores:

Mrs. E. T. Nicholas Jr., Lincolnshire	86
Mrs. O. E. Shiell, Glen Oaks	88
Mrs. Lee Mida, Butterfield	89
Mrs. O. C. Bell, Edgewood Valley	89
Miss Jane Weiller, Vernon Ridge	89
Mrs. T. B. Malcolm, Maywood	89
Miss June Beebe, Olympia Fields	90
Mrs. Lillian Zeck, Tam o'Shanter	91
Mrs. E. Mathews, Tam o'Shanter	94
Mrs. John F. Fisher, Edgewood Valley	94
Mrs. C. J. Gorman, Westward Ho	94

Two Who Transported Dempsey Films Pay Fines

Harry O. Voller, former manager of Texas Guinan at the Green Mill cafe, and Harry M. Pollock of San Francisco, were fined $25 each by Federal Judge Barnes yesterday for transporting moving picture films of the 1927 Dempsey-Tunney fight. They entered a plea of nolo contendere. Trial of Henry Sonneschine, David Penser, Herbert Hodes and Julius Marks, all of New York, who pleaded not guilty, was set for Oct. 7.

HAGERSTOWN LOSES CLUB.

Youngstown, O., July 10.—(AP)—The transfer of the Hagerstown Middle Atlantic league baseball club franchise to Youngstown was officially announced late today. Altoona opens with Youngstown in a double header Sunday.

In the WAKE of the NEWS

EARLIER CHICAGO.

DEAR WAKE: Moving was an event in the early Chicago days. I remember when we moved from Ada street to West Congress, both on the west side. There were no moving vans then, but an express wagon drawn by a lame mule, and the man had plenty of rope and a huge piece of canvas.

First the mover carried downstairs the old mottoes, "God Bless Our Home," "What Is Home Without a Mother," and then pictures of "The Dying Soldier," "The First Lesson"—a rat terrier teaching her young how to catch a rat—and the famous picture of "The Last Supper."

Next came a set of John M. Smythe's black hair cloth furniture trimmed in red plush, our old black walnut marble top center table with family album and Bible, our hanging lamp on chains, and the wall mirror with a bracket for comb and brush.

I still can hear mother calling, "Loring, don't forget your father's fishing poles, his army shotgun, and his policeman's hat" that he had at West Lake street station. When the wagon started I rode with the driver and had my dog Reuben with the muzzle on. Mother came later with the girls.

On arrival we did not have to notify the gas and electric company. Our well filled lamp was on the table for the first meal—plenty of milk, bologna, sandwiches, a couple of pies from Case & Martin, and a swell hunk of cheese.

At 6 o'clock the next morning I was disturbed by mother's call of "Loring, get right up and help me beat our ingrain carpet." After that was done, back to bed for me.

Loring J. Smith.

When people were permitted to keep cows within the city limits, it was my lot to deliver fresh warm milk twice a day to about twenty customers. Pints were 3 cents; quarts, 5 cents, or 24 tickets for a dollar. When there was plenty of milk we churned butter and on the next trip gave it free to the generous hausfraus who in return remembered the milk boy with torten, stollen, kaffee kuchen, kartoffel, pfann kuchen, and the like. Wake, that taste still lingers. J. F. J.

"Biff" Jones at Point.

Return of Capt. L. M. "Biff" Jones, former Army football coach, to West Point as assistant graduate manager of athletics will be welcomed by newspaper men and those having contacts with Army athletics. "Biff" is an entertaining chap who, when away from the Point, is willing to sit in with a group of scribes and swap gridiron yarns until far past the usual retiring time.

Speaking of football, we note where "Red" Woodworth, late of Northwestern, has signed with the Green Bay Packers for this fall. We just wish, however, there was some way for such games to avoid conflict with the family Sunday dinner.

Stadium Offers Max $300,000 to Risk Title Here

New York, July 10.—[Special.]—It's beginning to look like old times in the office of Joe Jacobs, manager of Max Schmeling, world's heavyweight champion. Telegrams today were piled deep on Joe's desk, some containing generous offers for the picture rights to the Schmeling-Carnera bout, scheduled for September, others for another Schmeling-Sharkey fight.

And Joe sits back, lighting his long cigars with offers that don't sound right and musing over all that do. He did considerable musing over the one today from Nate Lewis, matchmaker for the Chicago Stadium. Lewis said he was authorized to guarantee Schmeling $300,000 to fight the winner of the Sharkey-Walker battle, which will be fought in Brooklyn July 22. He would like to stage the bout in September, but if the boys aren't ready by then next year will be all right.

In the hope of beating all other promoters to the punch, Nate followed his wire into New York today and offered to post $100,000 cash to bind the match.

GILHAR CAPTURES PAIR OF MATCHES IN COUNTY GOLF

George Gilhar continued to set the pace in the Cook county open championship at Garfield park yesterday by winning both his first and second round matches with ease. Gilhar, the qualifying medalist, disposed of C. Kimmel of Medinah, 4 and 2, in the opening round and came back in the afternoon to upset Sam Alpert, University of Illinois star, 5 and 4.

Gilhar will meet James Wood Sr. in one of the semi-final matches to be played this morning. The latter won his quarter-final encounter from his son, James Jr., 1 up.

Gilhar's one-sided victory over Sam Alpert, former western junior champion, was a surprise. Gilhar was four up at the turn. He shot the nine in 33 while Sam was taking 37.

Day in Semi-Finals.

Winfield Day, youthful Elmhurst golfer, won his way into the semi-finals by playing steady golf in both rounds. He defeated F. Abbate of Garfield park, 6 and 5, in the first round and took the second round from Anton Maulella, 3 and 2. Emmett Morrisey, his opponent in the semi-finals today, had a tougher time of it. He was forced to go an extra hole to win from Roy Hoegh, 1 up in 19 holes, in the morning. In the quarter-finals he beat Richard McMullen, 1 up. The results of yesterday's matches:

CHAMPIONSHIP FLIGHT.
FIRST ROUND.

J. Bansbach, Mohawk, defeated M. J. McGuire, Antlers, 1 up in 20 holes.
M. McBride, Jackson, won from W. Roberts, Columbus, by default.

Al Espinosa and Al Bluhm of Big Oaks will play Jock Hutchinson of Glen View and Harry Cooper of Glen Oaks in a public exhibition foursome at the Big Oaks Country club, 6600 Lawrence avenue, Sunday afternoon. Play will start at 2:30 o'clock.

MORE CHICAGO GOLFERS QUALIFY FOR PARKS MEET

The final qualifying round for the national public parks golf tournament at St. Paul, Minn., Aug. 4 to 8, was held over the Mid-City course yesterday. Twenty low scores previously had been selected at the first qualifying round, held at Evergreen course last week.

Chicago's six representatives will be chosen from the twenty low in both rounds.

During the qualifying round yesterday Al Quigley and Bill Langford defeated Jack Westland and Chick Evans, 1 up, in 18 holes, at best ball. At the last green Quigley holed a long putt and Chick followed it with another to halve the hole, but could not stave off defeat.

The 20 low qualifying scores:

Roy Hoegh, Ills park	64	68	132
I. L. Banks, Lincoln park	64	71	135
Sterling Dawson, Lincoln park	69	67	136
James Basko, Big Oaks	70	67	137
Jas. McCahill, Chi. Meadows	69	68	137
Joe Smiesko, unattached	69	69	138
Wm. Chambers, Sunset Valley	67	71	138
Percy Swanberg, Jackson park	73	65	138
Jas. Alicote, Mid City	67	72	139
Chick Boywid, Mid City	71	69	140
Joe Blanton, Mid City	70	70	140
Bert Herbster, Mid City	68	74	142
Lee Creagan, Chi. Meadows	70	73	143
Geo. Pierce, Techny Fields	70	75	145
Frank Wallenberg, Mid City	71	74	145
Tom McInerny, Evergreen	73	73	146
William Rhodes, Sunset Valley	72	74	146
Andrew Sundene, unattached	74	73	147
Bill Fitzgerald, Jackson park	73	75	148

Goodman Meets Bliss Jr. for Nebraska Golf Title

Omaha, Neb., July 10.—(AP)—Johnny Goodman, trans-Mississippi and defending Nebraska state golf champion, will meet Rodney Bliss Jr. of Omaha tomorrow in the finals of the state tourney here. Goodman reached the finals today by defeating Matt Zadalis, Omaha, 4 and 2, while Bliss swamped Perry Garver, Omaha, 9 and 8.

Three Illinois Boys Beaten in State Net Tournament

Hope that the Illinois tennis championship would remain in the home state was lost yesterday when George O'Connell, Scott Rexinger, and Leo Lejeck fell under a concerted southern onslaught in the quarter final matches at the Chicago Town and Tennis club.

GEORGE O'CONNELL

Kamrath breezed through the opening set handily by storming the net with a burst of speed and delivering well directed placements. O'Connell, however, settled down in the next set and won, 6-3, but seemed to tire as the match moved into the final stages. Kamrath, keeping up his dazzling speed, finished the match with a love set.

Parker Wins Again.

Another of the Texan trio, Bruce Barnes, the tournament's top ranking player, resumed his battle with Scott Rexinger and was required to win but one game to take the final set, which was halted by rain yesterday when the score stood 6-5, with Barnes leading.

Ted Burwell of Charlotte, N. C., shortly afterward followed the Texans into the semi-final bracket by eliminating Leo Lejeck, 6-1, 4-6, 6-1.

The Chicagoan proved a tartar, however, and the young southern player was pushed to the limit. Lejeck beat superb returns across the net, but lost when Burwell was able to pull him out of position to score accurate placements consistently.

Frank Parker, the fifteen year old Milwaukee star, won the Illinois state boys' championship, when he trounced Richard Weigler, a fellow townsman, in straight sets, 6-2, 6-0. Parker suffered the loss of two games in the entire match, bringing his total to only three defeats in eight sets.

Miss Sampson in Finals.

Miss Sampson, who was handicapped by a sprained right ankle, defeated Jean Gordon, 6-4, 6-3. The Chicago star, however, and her partner, Marion Filkey, were forced to default their doubles match because of the injury, which she sustained three days ago.

Interest in today's play will center on the Karl Kamrath and Ted Burwell semi-final match. Kamrath, although rated below the North Carolina youth, has been playing good tennis and may score an upset. The deceptive chop shots of the young Texan are expected to prove difficult for Burwell and may result in his downfall.

In the junior division Hal Surface of Kansas City and Frank Parker, the Milwaukee star, will meet in the championship match, while the best afternoon match among the women players should be between Miss Sampson and Miss Ayer. Summaries:

BRAVES RALLY IN 8TH TO DEFEAT ROBINS, 4 TO 3

Boston, Mass., July 10.—(AP)—Subdued by Dazzy Vance for seven innings, the Braves came to life after two were out in the eighth to drive the Brooklyn ace from the mound, score three runs and defeat the Robins, 4 to 3, in the second game of the series today.

A double by Moore, who had replaced Urbanski at third base after the latter had been knocked unconscious chasing a foul into the grand stand, started the Braves' rally. A pass to Worthington, Sheely's single and Schulmerich's double to right scored the tying runs. Quinn, who relieved Vance at this juncture, purposely passed Spohrer to get to Maguire, and the Braves' second baseman came through with a single off Bissonette's glove to score the winning run. HOUSE OF DAVID IS BEATEN, 4-3, BY LOGAN SQUARES

The House of David baseball team, with Grover Alexander on the mound, last night suffered its second defeat of its Chicago invasion, losing to the Logan Squares of the Chicago Semi-pro league, 4 to 3. Seven thousand packed Logan Square park to watch the Squares win.

Alexander pitched the first three innings, allowing three hits. He was replaced by Laufer. Jim Vaughn hurled for the Squares, but was relieved in the third by King Simpson when the House of David took a 1 to 0 lead.

Four doubles in the seventh paved the way for three runs and the Squares tied the score. In the eighth, a double by Border with Witry on base, drove in the winning run. Score:

RAIN ARRANGES DOUBLE HEADER FOR CUBS TODAY

Sweetland and May Will Face Pirates.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Pittsburgh, Pa., July 10.—Typical weather stepped in today to cause the Cubs some annoyance, of which they already have more than enough. It rained somewhat during the morning hours, but Forbes field was not wetted down enough to hinder playing. However, business is bad at Barney Dreyfus' turnstiles, so the rain was used as an excuse for cancelling today's game and scheduling a double header tomorrow.

The Cubs have no particular reason for believing a twin bill against the Pirates involves any more hazards than two single games, but in this instance, the single games would have been preferred. There also is a bargain program slated for Sunday at St. Louis, and four games in two days, with a night of train riding sandwiched in, is bound to result in weary athletes. Some of them are already more or less weary, judging by their actions in the two games dropped to the Buccaneers yesterday and Wednesday.

Rogers Will Try Southpaws.

Although his second string pitchers haven't done very well here, Hornsby isn't going to alter his previous plans. He will depend on bull pen operatives again tomorrow. In the first game it will be Lee Sweetland, and if Les shows the Pirates can be bothered by southpaw pitching, Hornsby will give them Jakie May in the second game. If left handed serving doesn't go over big, Fred Blake will be employed in the nightcap.

If Blake can get a good game out of his system it will be pleasing to everybody with the Chicago party. Waivers recently were asked on him, but that doesn't mean Hornsby intends to send the big West Virginia veteran elsewhere. Almost every year Blake has been with the club, he has flashed with at least one streak of excellent pitching. This would be a very good time for him to come up with his choicest 1931 effort.

Smith Has Split Thumb.

Using the second stringers tomorrow assures some classy pitching for the three games in two days at St. Louis. The Sunday double header will be conducted by Charley Root and Pat Malone, both holders of eight victories for the year. For the game Monday, Guy Bush can be used, although there is a good chance he will be saved for the opener against the Giants Tuesday. This depends on whether Bob Smith, who has a split bone in his left thumb, can function Monday. Smith insists he will not let the injury keep him from taking his regular turn.

U. S. ESTIMATES WINTER WHEAT AT 713,000,000 BU.

Crop Report Forecasts a Big Corn Harvest.

Revision in acreage estimates on account resulted in a great surprise to the grain trade by the government crop report given out late yesterday, the indicated yield of winter wheat being swelled 64,000,000 bu over the June total to an aggregate of 713,000,000 bu, the second largest on record. This amount was 24,000,000 bu in excess of the average of the figures of local statisticians, R. O. Cromwell being the closest and only 1,000,000 bu below the government.

The freakishness of the current season was further emphasized by the heavy reduction in the spring wheat crop, the latter being placed at 156,000,000 bu, the smallest in recent years, with the exception of 1916, when it was only 300,000 bu less than this season. The indicated yield was 85,000,000 bu below the average of the private returns, and nearly 100,000,000 bu below last year's harvest, while winter wheat was 101,000,000 bu larger than the revised figures of 1930.

12,000,000 Bu Loss.

Aggregate crop of all wheat was placed at 869,000,000 bu, showing a loss of 12,000,000 bu as compared with the private estimates and was only 6,000,000 bu in excess of last year, the revised figures for 1930 showing 12,000,000 bu more than the returns of last December.

After allowing for carry over the trade figures that there is about 1,169,000,000 bu of wheat available for the 1931-'32 season in the United States against 1,138,000,000 bu last year, and after deducting domestic requirements and a normal carry over there is around 415,000,000 bu available for export, without allowing for any extra consumption in the way of feeding to live stock. Owing to the short crop in Canada, however, the total supply for the two leading North American countries is around 1,580,000,000 bu, or 137,000,000 bu less than the previous season.

Large Corn Crop.

If the present condition of the corn crop is maintained to harvest the yield will be one of the largest in the history of the country, the report yesterday suggesting 2,988,000,000 bu, with a condition of 83.7, or nearly 3 points above the 10 year average, while the acreage is placed at 105,557,000, or 4,100,000 acres in excess of last year. The indicated crop was only 18,000,000 bu below the total suggested by the private reports and was 67,000,000 bu in excess of the unusually small crop of last year, although the latter was revised upward by 12,000,000 bu, as compared with the total given in December.

Excessive heat took a heavy toll of the oats crop, and the indicated yield of 1,196,000,000 bu was 95,000,000 bu less than the private estimates and 47,000,000 bu below the revised figures of last year. The barley crop promises to be 267,000,000 bu, or 68,000,000 bu less than last year, while the rye crop of 38,000,000 bu is 10,000,000 bu short of 1930.

A yield of 396,000,000 bu white potatoes was suggested, or 53,000,000 bu in excess of last year's final returns.

Operations Seen at 37% Capacity.

BY O. A. MATHER.

Another three months of slim earnings for the United States Steel corporation was indicated yesterday when its June statement on forward business was made public. Unfilled tonnage declined somewhat more than had been predicted, with a drop of 141,129 tons, bringing the total down to 3,417,223 tons on June 30, compared with 3,968,044 tons a year ago. The decline last month followed reductions of 277,377 tons in May and 91,681 tons in April. However, the decline last month was seasonal and expected, as June normally sees orders for steel receding. In only two of the last seven years have unfilled orders shown an increase for June, these years being 1927 and 1928; whereas in the other years declines have ranged from 47,257 to 365,584 tons.

On the basis of the June report it is estimated that operations of U. S. Steel will meet for some time at 37 per cent of capacity. This rate of output production was the lowest since last December and there has been no improvement since June 30. The directors of U. S. Steel will meet for formal action on July 28.

Report Slackening Demand.

Slackening demand, combined with restrictions in industrial and distributive trade from hot weather, but with better business sentiment prevailing, is reported by the weekly trade review.

Bradstreet's describes the situation as that to quiet, with material evidence of concrete improvement in retail and wholesale trade still lacking. Many reports estimate volume as somewhat below last year, although this condition is not conspicuously universal. A slight rise in wholesaling and jobbing from the previous low level of activity was discernible, the review said, but the better showing was hardly pronounced enough to cause as yet much definite encouragement.

"Sales of hot weather apparel are the outstanding feature of the reports on retail trade," Bradstreet's said. "Women's light clothing sales throughout the country particularly have helped sustain business, although in New York City men's clothing was the only retail merchandise showing greater sales volume than a year ago. Shoes, sporting goods, paints, refrigerators, and household hardware continue as good sellers, while beverages and ice cream have shown satisfactory volume. Demand for automobiles has continued, although accessories and tires are in fair call. Dry goods and millinery remain quiet. Retail features of the week showed an increase. There is some evidence that prices are becoming stabilized."

R. G. Dun's Review said despite slackening at this time preparations were well under way for fall business, and in several industries constructive developments held in abeyance for several months were increasingly in evidence.

"The seasonal letdown is less marked than it was a year ago," the report said, "particularly in the textile and shoe divisions. The latter is more active than in July last year, and many factories in some sections of the country are operating at capacity. The wool mills are better employed, with consumption of the staple higher, even at the higher prices. Although there was some recession late in June, production and shipment of cotton cloth was greater than it was a year ago. In many manufacturing centers unemployment is less severe than it was at the beginning of June. The hot weather and the general acceptance of the better times philosophy have resulted in the largest retail sales in many cities since early in the year."

UNITED VERDE STRIKES RICH COPPER VEIN

A rich copper vein on the old Verde claim at Jerome, Ariz., has been struck by the United Verde Extension Mining company, it has been announced.

The ore is said to average about 7 per cent copper with some of it running up to 10 per cent, and about $1 a ton in gold. The management of the company has not determined the size of the ore body, as its development has not proceeded far enough, but it is understood to believe that the prospect is worth while.

United Verde purchased the Haynes claim about ten years ago but no attempt was made to develop it. The owners of the United Verde Copper company separates the Haynes claim from all other property of United Verde Extension at Jerome. To save the expense of sinking a shaft on the Haynes property an arrangement has been made with United Verde Copper to run a drift from its mine at the 2,000 foot level into the Haynes property.

Milwaukee Ry. June Gross Largest Since November

The preliminary report on June business of the Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific railroad which was issued yesterday shows the largest monthly gross for any month since November. Gross revenues for the month are estimated at $10,000,000 as compared with $11,791,698 for the same month last year. In the preceding month the company reported gross of $11,631,440 and for November, 1930, the gross totaled $11,791,698. Net operating revenues for June are estimated at $2,000,000 which represented a gain over the $583,689 reported in the same month last year.

Insull Cites Benefits in Electric Service Expansion

BY SCRUTATOR.

Citing the advantages derived by the public from the expansion of the services of electric light and power companies, Samuel Insull expressed this opinion in an interview yesterday:

"Service is of more consequence than price, based on a knowledge of how little the customer pays per day for service."

City dwellers who have lived in the days of oil lamps and candles and country folks still denied the advantages of light and power at the turn of a switch will no doubt agree.

Making electric service available to new customers and new areas has made possible subsequent reductions in rates to all, according to Mr. Insull, but the rate reduction has followed rather than preceded the extension of service.

"The most selfish thing we can do if we get the money," says Mr. Insull, "is to extend our service. This improves the load factor; that is, the measure of the extent to which the dollars invested are employed.

Lead to Steadier Use.

"The central station supplies the energy that carries a man from his office to his home. It cooks his food and lights his table while he eats his dinner. It runs his electric fan, his vacuum cleaner, his radio, and it moves the machines that produce the goods he buys.

"If a separate system were required to perform each of these services they would all go broke. When furnished by the same central station they lead to steadier use of the investment over a large proportion of each 24 hour period. And what applies to the city applies equally to large geographical areas."

To illustrate the latter point he mentioned the case of Pittsburgh during the war. The city required a great deal of power, the peak of the demand occurring some time in the afternoon. The rural districts around the city were supplied by a separate system whose peak came in the morning hours. By combining the two there was more power available for both the city and country areas when it was most needed, and without additional capital investment.

Seen Boon to Income.

It is this leveling of the peaks and valleys of demand, Mr. Insull says, that is the chief secret of the electric utility company's ability to operate more profitably and lower its rates.

"The load factor of the Commonwealth Edison company, continued Mr. Insull, "has improved from 30.1 per cent in 1902 to 50 per cent in 1930. From 1920 to 1930 the average number of kilowatt hours used per capita increased from 596 to 1,101.

"In 1910 the average revenue per kilowatt hour for the Commonwealth Edison company was 9.64 cents; in 1920, 6.26 cents, and in 1930, 4.57 cents. In the twenty years ended in 1930 the average revenue per kilowatt hour for the entire country was reduced from 9.2 cents to 6 cents."

Mr. Insull does not believe that agitation for more drastic rate reductions finds a receptive public.

"There are some 20,000,000 domestic users of electricity. They pay an average of between 5½ to 5¾ cents per day for their service. If rates were lowered so that they paid nothing at all for the generation of power and only interest and depreciation on the transmission system the effect on their bills would be negligible.

Sees General Tendency.

"The general tendency of companies throughout the country, although there have been a few exceptions, has been to push the selling price down as rapidly as they can.

"My own experience over the whole period of electric supply has been that the quicker we are able to get to low prices the more stable is our return."

Another point made by Mr. Insull is that great economy has been made in the manufacture of power.

"In 1920," he said, "the average power company used 6.70 pounds of coal to generate a kilowatt hour of electricity. In 1930 the average was 1.62 pounds per kilowatt hour."

He emphasized also that the power companies' readiness to furnish power in any quantities at low prices had enabled them to get as customers many large manufacturing plants.

The manufacturer who puts in his own plant, he explained, often risks either spending too much money on his investment or insufficiently providing for himself, with the result that he may be faced with the necessity of a further expensive investment.

AMERICAN TELEPHONE FIVE MONTHS' INCOME TOTALS $14,628,785

American Telephone and Telegraph company, in its statement to the interstate commerce commission, reported for the five months ended May 31 operating income of $14,628,785, compared with $15,177,139 for the corresponding period a year ago. Gross revenues totaled $47,347,327, against $48,685,246.

Operating income for May amounted to $2,699,468, against $2,880,725 in May, 1930, while gross aggregated $9,232,206, against $9,821,532.

Continental Baking corporation and subsidiaries reported for the ten weeks ended June 20 net income of $1,164,663 after charges, including depreciation and federal taxes, equal after 2 per cent preferred dividends to $1.31 a share on 291,813 shares of class A common stock. This compares with $1,314,032 in the corresponding period last year, equal after preferred dividends and under participating provisions to $1.57 a share on the class A stock and 3 cents a share on 2,000,000 class B shares.

For the twenty-five weeks ended June 20 net amounted to $1,927,046, equal to 11 cents a share on the class A common, against $2,497,010, or $1.86 a class A share, in the same 1930 period.

Lehigh Portland Cement company's net profit for the twelve months ended June 30 was $1,631,440 after depreciation, federal taxes, etc. After deduction of 7 per cent preferred dividends, balance was $205,487, equal to 46 cents a share, par $50, on 450,343 common shares.

FOKKER RESIGNS POSITIONS WITH 2 AVIATION FIRMS

New York, July 10.—(AP)—The trend away from use of wood in airplane manufacture today was emphasized by the resignation of one of its chief exponents from General Navigation corporation and Fokker Aircraft Corporation of America.

Anthony H. G. Fokker, director engineer of the two companies since their formation, stepped aside today into comparative retirement. It was believed his successor would be Herbert V. Thaden of Pittsburgh, acting chief engineer and general manager of Fokker Aircraft. He is a specialist in all-metal airplane construction. Fokker has clung to the use of wood as most desirable for certain airplane parts.

Fokker's withdrawal was followed by announcement that he would remain as a director in General Aviation and retain his large stock interest. J. M. Schoonmaker Jr., president of General Aviation and its lesser concern, made public the news.

Water Shipments of Raw Silk Gain During June

Raw silk shipments through the Panama canal totaled 21,863 bales during June, as compared with 9,453 bales during May, an increase of silk traffic by the all water route of 131 per cent, the traffic bureau of the Silk Association of America report. Overland shipments were 22,878 bales in June, compared with 30,873 bales in May.

National City Bank Shows Nearly 2 Billion Assets

A statement of the National City bank of New York as of June 30 showed total assets of $1,973,140,595 an increase from $1,842,885,588, shown in the previous quarterly statement, which was of March 25.

CHICAGO STOCK PRICES IMPROVE; TRADING QUIET

U.S. Radio Head Tells of Expansion.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

Stocks were bringing slightly better prices when yesterday's quiet trading on the Chicago exchange came to a close. The trading was slow throughout the day and the narrowness of price fluctuations gave the professional traders few opportunities for snatching profits.

United States Radio was in fairly good demand and was bid up a point on transactions representing about 7,000 shares. J. Clarke Colt, president of the company, said yesterday that the firm is now turning out 1,800 sets a day at the Marion, Ind., plant. Production is being gradually expanded to meet the accumulation of orders received in the last month, he stated.

Mr. Colt believes that the year's production will exceed last year. Orders received since the radio show have been highly satisfactory, he stated. The company has also increased its operating efficiency and is now producing two and a half sets a day per man, as compared with the usual ratio of one set a man per day, Mr. Colt said. He expressed the opinion that the company will not experience a slow period during the latter part of the year. In the six months ended Jan. 31 the company sold 115 per cent more sets than in preceding six months. And during those months which are considered a dull period for the radio industry the company increased both its production and personnel.

Directors of the W. F. Hall Printing company at their meeting yesterday voted to reduce the dividend on the common stock to $1.20 a year as compared with $2 previously paid. A quarterly dividend of 30 cents was declared with the explanation that extra disbursements would be made as conditions warrant.

Buys New Equipment.

Frank R. Warren, president, said the dividend reduction was considered advisable because the company is purchasing new equipment to take care of new business received recently. Earnings applicable to common stock for the first five months of the fiscal year, which began Feb. 1, were in excess of the earnings for the same period last year, he stated. The earnings include income from a recently acquired subsidiary, but allowance was made for financing and carrying charges incident to the acquisition, he added.

Modine Manufacturing company shares advanced 2 points on small trade on news of the declaration of the regular quarterly dividend of 75 cents a share.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, July 10.—Arrangements have been made for the sale of a membership on the New York Stock exchange at $250,000, an increase of $25,000 from the last previous outright sale, but $29,000 lower than the last reported sale, which was through the purchase of four rights. The high so far this year for an outright sale was $310,000 and the low $189,000.

July Wheat Sells at Lowest Figure Since June, 1894

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Wheat prices continue to decline under the depressing weight of the movement of new winter grain which has found the market without adequate support. All deliveries yesterday sold at a new low for the season and since June, 1894, for the July, the latter touching 52¾c, or only 2½c above the record low made 37 years ago. Despite the sensationally bullish Canadian crop report there was scarcely a fractional rally at any time during the day and the finish was about the bottom, with net losses of ½@¾c, the July closing at 52⅞c to 53c; September, 54c to 54½c, and December, 58¾c to 59½c.

The trade paid little attention to the news at any time during the day, and sufficient pressure from cash interests was in evidence to keep the local element off the buying side to a large extent, except to cover sales made at higher levels. Purchases of 150,000 bu cash wheat were made to arrive from the country, and the basis in the sample market here was as much as ½c lower as compared with futures, although a good demand for cash grain was reported at all of the leading points.

Winnipeg Leads Decline.

While there were strong intimations that there has been a much larger export business in hard winter wheat of late than has been reported, with 500,000 bu said to have been sold at the gulf on Thursday, the trade figure that the United States has a sufficiently large supply to permit actual clearances of over 1,000,000 bu per day for the entire crop year, or nearly 50 per cent of the estimated world's import needs, and refusess to become enthusiastic on the buying side until an aggressive export demand develops.

The extremely low level of prices prevailing in Liverpool, where futures were ⅛@⅝d lower, with the July at 58½c, and in new ground for the season and since 1654, tends to create a belief that foreigners are not likely to buy on a big scale unless there is a material change in the world situation.

Winnipeg wheat market [illegible] the outlook for one of the poorest crops ever raised in that country and closed 1⅝@1⅞c lower, with July 58¼c and October 60¼c, the weakness there having some effect on the Chicago market toward the last. Spreading operations were also a factor.

New wheat was reported as selling around 25c in parts of Oklahoma yesterday, while a San Jose, Ill., farmer in a letter to THE TRIBUNE giving details as to production costs, arrived at a figure of 69¼c per bu, and sold the 1,036 bu he raised on 40 acres at 38¼c, the amount received being less than the taxes and the interest charges against the land.

July Corn Acts Tight.

July corn reversed its action of the previous day, and advanced readily on scattered buying and closed 1c higher at 57⅞c to 58c, while the deferred deliveries were easy and lost ⅝@¾c, the September finishing at 52¾c to 53⅛c, and December at 47⅝c to 47¾c. There was no material pressure on the July, with shorts the best buyers, while the weakness in wheat had some effect on the distant months. Buying against bids checked the decline.

Closing of spreads between the December and the old crop futures had some effect on the former, and it has been underway for two days. Country offerings of corn to arrive were limited, but there was no improvement in the shipping demand. No rain of consequence was shown in the main corn belt overnight, and the forecast suggested generally fair.

Threshing returns from Iowa, Illinois and Indiana are disclosing some damage to the oat crop by the recent heat wave, but hedging pressure is developing, and the market showed a rather easy undertone, although closing ⅛c higher to ¼c lower, with the July the strongest, finishing at 27c, while September was 27½c to 27¼c, and December, 30½c to 30⅛c. Rye was ⅛@½c lower with wheat, but trade was light. July closed at 34⅛c, September at 37⅝c, and December at 41c.

AUTHORIZES PARCEL POST TO DISPATCH HEAVIER PACKAGES

Washington, D. C., July 10.—(AP)—The postoffice department today was given the consent of the interstate commerce commission to increase the size and weight limits of parcel post packages.

The decision will enable shipment by mail of packages up to 70 pounds beyond the third zone and increase the size limits to 100 inches length and girth combined. The previous maximums were 50 pounds and 84 inches.

The postmaster general on Nov. 29, last, asked the consent of the commission, as required by the law creating the parcel post, for its consent to a revision of parcel post rates and an increase in size and weight of packages.

Large users of parcel post opposed the postage rate changes which amounted to increases through most of the list except on rural routes. The American Railway Express agency opposed the size and weight limit increase on the ground that it would cut into its business.

Name Purdue Benefactor Head of Ross Gear & Tool

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Lafayette, Ind., July 10.—David E. Ross, Purdue benefactor and president of the board of trustees of the university, today was elected president of the Ross Gear and Tool company to succeed Edward A. Ross, late president of the concern, who died suddenly in London, England, yesterday. David E. Ross was formerly vice president and general manager of the concern, retiring four years ago to give his time to Purdue research work. He is the inventor of the Ross gear patents.

Road Places Orders for 20,000 Tons of Rails

The Norfolk and Western railway has placed orders for 20,000 tons of rails, 15,000 of which went to Carnegie Steel company, and 5,000 tons to Bethlehem Steel corporation.

MARR EXPLAINS CHAIN SALE TO SAFEWAY STORES

Oakland, Cal., July 10.—(AP)—M. B. Skaggs, president of the Safeway Stores, Inc., has confirmed reports his organization will purchase the assets of MacMarr Stores, Inc., subject to approval of MacMarr stockholders.

O. E. Marr, president of MacMarr, Inc., said yesterday all the stores, markets, warehouses, manufacturing activities, and subsidiary operations conducted by MacMarr in the territory from Denver, Colo., west, will be acquired by Safeway, effective as of July 1, 1931. Skaggs said the deal would be consummated by a transfer of Safeway stock, both common and preferred. He refused to make public the consideration involved.

Another Big Chain.

New York, July 10.—(AP)—It was reported in Wall street today that the acquisition of MacMarr Stores, Inc., by Safeway Stores, Inc., was looked upon in some quarters as the first step in organization of a chain to rival other big chain groups.

Following the absorption of MacMarr, Safeway will be the third largest retailer in the country, its volume being exceeded only by the Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea company and Sears, Roebuck & Co. For the first six months this year the combined sales of Safeway and MacMarr amounted to $143,830,573, as compared with $531,619,232 for Great Atlantic & Pacific, and $158,968,370 for Sears-Roebuck. F. W. Woolworth's sales during the first half of this year totaled $130,276,318.

STOCKHOLDERS OF BETHLEHEM APPROVE BONUS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, July 10.—Formal approval was given yesterday by stockholders of the Bethlehem Steel corporation to the modified bonus plan for higher executive officers at the final session of their annual meeting in Newark.

The meeting, which started on April 14, was adjourned forty times before difficulties over the bonus problem were finally settled. By today's vote stockholders approved the new measure, adopted the annual report of the directors and approved all acts of the board and officers for 1930.

The new bonus plan bases the extra awards on net income after depreciation instead of before, and takes from Charles M. Schwab, chairman of the board, the allocation of the payments and places them with the directors. Churchill Rodgers, acting vice president, presided at the meeting today.

Interest Due on South Side Hospital to Be Paid

Interest coupons due July 15, 1931, on bonds of the Little Company of Mary hospital at 95th street and California avenue are to be paid at the First National bank of Chicago, instead of the West Englewood State bank, which is closed. This announcement was made yesterday by Mother M. Stanislaus, superior of the hospital. John F. X. Hennessy of the First National bank is authorized to make the payments. The bonds are secured by a $700,000 mortgage on the million and a half dollar hospital building, which was opened in January, 1930.

Sao Paulo Coffee Plan Receipts Are $9,733,000

Operations of the Sao Paulo coffee realization plan since its organization June 30, 1930, resulted in receipts of $9,733,000 for the sinking fund from the sale of pledged coffee, Speyer & Co. and J. Henry Schroder Banking corporation announce. Of this amount $4,866,500 was used for the April 1, 1931, redemption and the balance was available for the Oct. 1, 1931, redemption and the $436,650 reserve account for the whole loan.

Although dollar sales of the Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea company for the four weeks ended June 27 declined 2.5 per cent, tonnage sales for the period showed an increase of 15.85 per cent over figures for the like period of 1930, the company reported yesterday.

Dollar sales for the period this year amounted to $30,850,700, against $32,921,191 last year. Tonnage sales were 454,268, against 392,099 for the 1930 period.

Average weekly dollar sales in June were $20,212,675, against an average of $20,730,298 in June last year, while average weekly tonnage sales in June this year were 113,567, against 98,025.

Sales for the period from the beginning of the fiscal year, March 1, to June 27, aggregated $351,675,602, a decrease of 1.6 per cent from $357,707,250 for the corresponding period of 1930. Tonnage sales for the period this year amounted to 1,907,262, an increase of 14 per cent over 1,672,050 reported for last year.

U. S. to Investigate Truck Service of North Shore

Washington, D. C., July 10.—(AP)—The interstate commerce commission today ordered an investigation into the operation by the Chicago, North Shore and Milwaukee railroad of what was described as a ferry truck service between Chicago and Milwaukee. The Chicago and North Western railway complained that the North Shore's service was unfair competition. The Chicago and North Western, it was claimed, is required to conform to shipping container rules of the service which, it was alleged, the other line's service does not follow.

BY FRED HARVEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, July 10.—Popular interest in the stock market's doings lost about reached the irreducible minimum today. Sales sloughed off to a mere 1,300,000 shares which was nearly a quarter of a million worse than yesterday's roll call affair. The steel tonnage report showing a drop of 141,129 was dismissed with a snort and the cable reports telling of continued anxiety in high official circles over the financial situation in Hungary and other European countries barely got a tumble. The boys simply were not in a mood to speculate one way or the other.

The buys had it on the final accounting, however, and gains of 1 to 3 points were the rule throughout the active list. The turnover was too small to encourage any wider movements, apparently. Group movements were difficult to single out and the news budget yielded little to stimulate interest in any particular section or individual issue. Short covering was an important factor in the upthrust of various issues such as Case Threshing Machine, Auburn Automobile and Westinghouse, particularly in the afternoon when the greatest improvement in the list took place.

Others Show Strength.

Among the individual features of strength to attract attention were Allied Chemical, R. H. Macy, Western Union, Eastman Kodak, and Peoples Gas, all up 2½ to 3 points or so. Gillette was again weak, dropping more than 2 points. Armour of Delaware preferred lost more than 3, and Mobile and Ohio guaranteed preferred gave up 7 points on two sales of 100 shares each.

Pivotal issues met with enough support to keep them higher from the outset and the strength of such issues as United States Steel, American Telephone, Public Service of New Jersey and General Electric helped to impart tone to the market. For a short time after the United States Steel tonnage report came out around noon, the bears tried to make capital out of the poor figures and succeeded in battering this issue down for a point or so. The old leader soon regained its balance, however, and moved gradually ahead from that time on to the close of trading. Its final sale was recorded at 98, which left it with a net gain of more than a point.

Motors Cool Off.

Enthusiasm over the motor shares which was so marked earlier in the week has apparently cooled off again. General Motors and Chrysler both sagged fractionally today and none of the others was able to do much on the upside.

Mail order shares shared buying favor, with such stalwarts of the merchandising group as Macy and Safeway Stores and both Montgomery Ward and Sears-Roebuck scoring gains. Weekly trade reviews called attention to improved retail buying in the large cities, particularly in the department stores.

Most observers were of the opinion that the corrective movement which had carried the market back over approximately half the ground gained on the sharp rise that followed President Hoover's proclamation for a "debt holiday" had materially strengthened the position of the list. Much of the weakness growing out of the rush to the buying side on the sharp advance is believed to have been eliminated, and the market placed in a position to give a fairly good account of itself in the event of fresh favorable development in the foreign situation.

Close followers profess being able to discern buying of substantial caliber asserting itself on the dips, yet the majority are unwilling to predict anything beyond a market which will offer the opportunity for frequent trading turns in the immediate future.

Associated Telephone Utilities Company

The Board of Directors of Associated Telephone Utilities Company has declared regular quarterly dividends on the following stocks of the company.

A dividend of $1.75 per share on the $7 Cumulative Prior Preferred stock outstanding on the company's books at the close of business August 31, 1931, payable September 15, 1931.

A dividend of $1.50 per share on the $6 Cumulative Prior Preferred stock outstanding on the company's books at the close of business August 31, 1931, payable September 15, 1931.

Further price enhancement took place in the live stock markets yesterday, hogs and lambs leading the way up again. Top hogs reached $7.70, highest since middle of April, and showed an advance of $1.50 since the low point of the season six weeks ago.

Lambs reached a peak of $8.00, highest since June 26, and are selling 50@75c above the close of last week. Yearling cattle are 50@75c higher for the week and cows and heifers are selling 75c to $1.00 above the low spot last week. Calves have gained $3.00 since a week ago.

Weather Boon to Trade.

Cooler weather has been a boon to the live stock trade during the last few days. Rather sensational advances have been scored on the wholesale market for fresh meats. Pork loins are selling at the highest point since early last October, and lighter weights show gains of 5c per pound since the middle of last week. Fresh lamb has advanced 3@4c per pound during the week and reports from the east indicate that there is a shortage of choice fat lambs there.

The extreme top and general average prices of hogs advanced 10c at $7.70 and $6.55, respectively. Unevenness ranged from steady to 25c higher, smooth packing sows to shippers showing most of the gain. Outsiders were the principal buyers and few good grades remained at the close, despite the weakness noted in extremely heavy butchers, which lacked support near the close. Outsiders are taking more than a fourth of the Chicago receipts lately. A week ago only about 20 per cent was selling to shippers.

Hog Futures Dull.

Trading in hog futures was dull again yesterday and prices were quoted steady, although no sales were made. September light and medium weights were offered at $8.00, and heavy grades for September were offered at $7.85. December light were offered at $7.50, mediums at $7.70, and heavy at $7.90, but no bids were made.

Yesterday's meager supply of cattle met a two-way market, yearlings selling at additional advances, while medium and heavy steers continued slow and weak. The latter are closing mostly 25c lower than a week ago, while all other cattle show advances for the week. Good 794 lb yearlings sold at $8.40, and bulk of steers brought $6.60@7.75. Heifers reached $8.35.

Vealers reached the $10.00 line on yesterday's bulge, the highest price paid for calves since early in April. Stockers and feeders were scarce and demand indifferent, but prices have been forced up in sympathy with the advance in fat stock.

Oregon Lambs at Top.

Ten carloads, or about 2,500 head, of Oregon range lambs topped the market at $8.00 yesterday. Natives were sorted around $7.75 mostly, although one lot to a city butcher reached $7.85. Gains of 25@40c were scored in lambs, with spots up more considering quality and the lighter sorting. Aged sheep and yearlings shared in the advance. Old ewes sold for slaughter at $3.50, while 80 lb yearlings reached $6.50. Feeding lambs were unchanged.

Probable receipts of hogs at Chicago for next Monday are estimated from 30,000 to 45,000. M. J. Berkery marked 30,000; C. Southwick, 32,600; F. W. Young, 35,000; W. T. Reneker, 36,000; R. W. Thorne and J. T. Brown, 38,000; R. Trullinger and F. Knutzen, 40,000; J. M. Waters and S. Lund, 41,000; G. W. Chandler and H. Wolfe, 42,000; E. S. Waterbury and P. Allen, 43,000, and F. M. Sherwood and R. B. Ellis, 45,000.

FINANCIAL NOTES

New bond offerings during the week ended July 10 totaled $30,613,500, compared with $26,897,000 last week and $14,710,000 in the corresponding week of 1930.

Cleveland and Pittsburgh Railroad company applied to the interstate commerce commission for authority to issue $3,125,000 in 4½ per cent gold bonds, and to deliver the bonds to the Pennsylvania Railroad company in settlement of indebtedness to that amount.

The proposed issue of $6,000,000 Golden Gate Bridge and Highway district 4% per cent bond issue drew only one tender. This was submitted by Dean Witter & Co. of San Francisco and was accompanied by rigorous conditions. No decision has been made by state authorities.

STUDEBAKER
VISIT THE WORLD'S GREATEST USED CAR SHOWROOM

There are 175 cars in this building to select from. Every one in this stock was reduced 33 1-3% to 50%. You can buy with confidence. Five days' free driving trial goes with each sale.

HUDSON SEDAN, 7 pass. that we sincerely believe is the best Hudson buy in Chicago. The finish is bright and shiny and the upholstery appears unworn. 4 whl. brakes, stainless bumpers, spare tire, etc. Reduced to $195.

STUDEBAKER COMMANDER, 1928 Sedan with a wealth of extra equipment. Luxurious mohair upholstery. The finish is bright and shiny and the motor is A-1. Reduced to $295.

NASH COUPE, 1929 Std. 6, actually used only a very short time. The finish looks like new dollar, and the upholstery appears news. Has every essential extra. $395.

PIERCE-ARROW ROADSTER. Model 80 with a world of power and pep. This is a snappy, low-slung car with attractive brown leather upholstery and a finish that gleams. Practically new tires, 4 whl. brakes, Houdaille shock absorbers, windshield wings, rumble seat, etc. $450.

CHRYSLER SEDAN, 1929 model 65 that looks and runs as though it had never been driven or driven. This Chrysler will satisfy the most exacting buyer, and it will not remain long at our reduced price of $495.

BUICK SEDAN, '28 Mast. 6 that was oiled and greased every 500 miles by the original owner, so now it's tuneoth in every respect. Kollioned with every essential extra. Considering the condition of this Buick, it's a sensational value at our reduced price of $545.

OAKLAND COACH, 1929 that was actually in use 11 months, and in the garage the rest of the time. The appearance and performance will satisfy you in every respect. Reduced to $485.

STUDEBAKER PRESIDENT, 1928 str. 8 dc luxe Sedan with wire wheels, side mts., and many valuable extras. It was owned by an executive of this company and checked over every day by our head mechanic, so now it will give new car satisfaction. The appearance is beautiful. Reduced to $795.

HUDSON 8 COUPE, 1931 with aluminum wire wheels, side mounts and many valuable extras. Actually driven only a few hundred miles, it certainly is 100% in all details. Special for $785.

PACKARD ROADSTER. Recent model that was only used a few months. We recommend this as the best Roadster buy in Chicago. The handsome light tan finish has not a mar on it and the excessive red upholstery is luxurious. Has sensational seat, wire wheels side mounts and many extras. Will not remain long at $1,350.
